FEAR TO FOIL DAWES PLAN

Two Chiefs Engage in Long Oratorical Duel Over Evacuation of the Ruhr.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The French Parliament has approved the London agreement. Thus France has accepted finally the Dawes reparations plan. The Senate tonight upheld the settlement by 181 votes to 37. Seventy-four Senators, comprising M. Poincaré's following, abstained from voting.

The vote followed one of the most heated and spectacular debates ever held in the upper house, the feature of which was an oratorical duel between M. Poincaré and M. Herriot, who differed widely on the wisdom of early evacuation of the Ruhr. It had been expected that the vote of the Senate would be very close, but when, at the end of the debate, former Minister of Agriculture Chéron, titular leader of the Poincaré forces, announced that the former Premier's party would abstain, the result was an easy victory for M. Herriot.

Poincare Placed in Bad Position.

M. Poincaré, author of the Ruhr policy, had been placed in an impossible situation, for it was impracticable for him to vote against M. Herriot tonight without seriously imperiling the Dawes plan, of which he claims the paternity.

The long debate was technical in many parts, most of it being devoted to arguments as to whether occupation of the Ruhr or operation of the Dawes plan without holding the Ruhr offered most to France.

Reproaches with not having made a deal with the Germans at the end of passive resistance last year, M. Poincaré said that to have done so would have angered the English and antagonized the United States. He contended that operation of the Ruhr for the first four months of this year brought the Allies 1,300,000,000 francs. Declaring that M. Herriot had sold the Ruhr too cheaply he said the great error of the Premier was in going to London and asserting that France should never have entered the Ruhr.

He said the French should have arranged to stay in the Ruhr until after the Dawes plan had been commercialized, by which he meant until after a market had been found for the billion marks' worth of securities the Germans would issue under the plan.

When criticised on the curtailment of the powers of the Reparation Commission, M. Herriot interrupted, saying he could only have refused this compromise at the price of breaking up the conference. Nevertheless M. Poincaré persisted in his argument that neutrals could not be expected to give decisions as advantageous as those of the Reparation Commission. "We gave away something for nothing," he said. He thought the right of appeal to arbitration given to Germany a mistake which would lead to endless blackmail.

A heated dialogue ensued between MM. Herriot and Poincaré as to whether too many advantages had been given to Germany. It was interrupted by suspension of the session.

Premier Returns to the Charge.

When the debate was resumed M. Poincaré attacked M. Herriot again in discussing evacuation of the Ruhr in London after he had promised not to do so. In reply to M. Herriot's plea that he had only kept France's word, the former Premier retorted that France's promise had been to quit the Ruhr only when she had been paid. At all costs, he said, the troops should have been kept in the Ruhr at least until Germany had made a manifestation of good will.

In response to a rebuke by M. Poincaré because he had not brought back from London either remission of debts or a commercial treaty with Germany, M. Herriot replied that he had found it impossible to do so, but that he did not consider that failure a sufficient reason to abandon the Dawes plan.

M. Poincaré continued:

"Your policy of kindness is justified only if Germany responds with equal good faith, not only the Germany of today, the Germany of the kindly Herr Marx, but also the Germany of tomorrow, which may be a Germany of Nationalists. We should have remained in the Ruhr."

A moment later M. Poincaré said:

"You have given up the Ruhr before Germany has surrendered one war criminal."

M. Herriot jumped to his feet. "Well," he retorted, "you let the Crown Prince go back while you had the Ruhr."

There was general uproar while M. Poincaré predicted that Prime Minister MacDonald would succeed in getting M. Herriot out of the Ruhr before a year.

"The trouble with the Government," said M. Poincaré, "is that it forgets that the Dawes plan is not its exclusive property. Everything good in the situation you take credit for, everything bad you blame on me. There is merit in a

Women's Ears Distorted By Fashionable Earrings

Copyright, 1924 by Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Fashionable long, heavy pendant earrings, some of which actually touch the shoulders, are drawing women's ears out of shape, according to Dr. Lemereaux, noted Paris specialist.

"Some women I have examined had the lobes of their ears stretched a quarter of an inch long through wearing the weighty, ancient style pendant earrings only a few months," he said. "If the fad continues the lobes of their ears will be greatly distorted, like those of the women of African tribes, some of which are three inches long."

American women who had taken up the fad have become alarmed and are abandoning the heavy ornaments. The jewelers already are rushing the completion of models of small screw earrings.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP BERENGARIA (Via Louisburg), Aug. 26.—The Prince of Wales has put some life into this whole Berengaria party. Ever since he came aboard he has been the most energetic man on the ship. While others strolled around the deck leisurely he went at a good cross-country pace, round after round. While others contented themselves with a "daily dozen" in the gymnasium and a quick plunge in the swimming pool, he has been putting in forty minutes each day boxing and exercising, and his dip this morning lasted a good hour.

It was last night, however, that the Prince began to set the ship's pace. About 11 o'clock he converted the usually somewhat bored ship's dance into a real live party. He danced one collar into a concertina and went at once for a second. That failed him by the end of the evening, but he did not appear to care. Until the orchestra packed up its instruments the Prince was on the floor dancing encores which sometimes ran to thirty minutes.

His partners in the early part of the evening were his cousin's wife, Lady Louis Mountbatten, and the Honorable Mrs. Richard Norton, who is traveling with the party. It was with Lady Louis Mountbatten that the Prince destroyed his first collar. While most of the men on board were arrayed in formal dress, he arrived in the ballroom with pleated shirt front, not too stiffly starched and buttoned with ordinary pearl buttons.

After the second collar had gone the Prince went on deck, while the rest of his party drifted into the lounge to play mah jong and bridge. But the strains of the music were too much for the energetic heir to the British throne. He looked in, and then went to seek General Trotter, who earlier in the evening had been dancing with Miss Leonore Cahill, a girl from St. Louis, Mo., who is traveling home with her aunt, Mrs. M. C. Burke. The Prince likes partners about his own size, and Miss Cahill suited him well in that respect. Only a few dances were left then in the ballroom, and all the Prince's party had retired to the lounge, but the Prince kept going until the end, having three long dances with Miss Cahill and keeping up a laughing conversation throughout.

This afternoon Miss Cahill was again his partner in several dances.

Asked how she liked the Prince as a partner, Miss Cahill said he danced well and talked well as he danced:

"Even if he was not a Prince he would be a delightful partner," she said!

Tonight the Prince jumped right into the middle of the fancy dress ball most unexpectedly, disguised as a Paris Apache. He had been dancing up to a few minutes before the fancy dress parade began and had become wilted by the heat. A change of clothes was suggested and the Prince decided to change to the prevailing mode.

Asks War Department for Facts on Proposed Disposition of Shore Property.

BIDS OPENED YESTERDAY

LACKAWANNA DOES NOT BID

Port Authority Renews Its Proposal to Pay $1,000,000 in 4 Per Cent. Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 26.—President Coolidge today took cognizance of the protest telegraphed to him by Governor Silzer of New Jersey, asking for postponement of the sale of the Hoboken Shore line. He ordered the War Department to send him all the data on the subject and tried to get in touch with Secretary Weeks, who is at his home in Lancaster, N. H.

C. Bascom Slemp, Secretary to the President, said that Mr. Coolidge had not ordered the sale postponed. He thought that the War Department might wait a few days, if possible, before opening bids, until the President had been made acquainted with the facts.

Action Awaits Weeks's Return.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Dwight F. Davis, Assistant Secretary of War, learned through THE NEW YORK TIMES Bureau tonight that President Coolidge had acted upon the protest of Governor Silzer against the sale of the Hoboken Shore Line and had asked for the facts in the case. No information on the matter had reached the War Department.

It was understood here that the bids were opened in New York, as had been expected, but, of course, this would not interfere with the Presidential action, for what the President evidently desired was that the property be not finally disposed of until he had been advised of the circumstances.

Nothing will be done about the matter until Secretary Weeks returns at the end of this week.

Highest Cash Offer $600,000.

Only $600,000 cash was offered by the highest bidder for the waterfront property of the Hoboken Shore Line Railroad, which the Port Authority, Governors Smith of New York and Silzer of New Jersey, the Merchants' Association and a score of leading business organizations and individuals tried to induce Secretary of War John W. Weeks to withdraw from the market, if not permanently, at least for six months. When the bids were opened yesterday the highest cash bid was made by the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company.

The Port of New York Authority renewed its bid of $1,000,000, to be paid in its thirty-year 4 per cent. gold bonds. The other bids and bidders were $575,000 cash by William J. Kohl of 143 Liberty Street, New York City, and $440,000, 30 per cent. in cash, with balance according to terms of sale, by the Frank Industrial Realty Company of Hoboken.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, which repeatedly has been reported to have offered the War Department $1,000,000 for the property, did not appear as a bidder, and William H. Truesdale, President of the Lackawanna, declined to say whether or not the company had acted through a dummy. Regarding the reported $1,000,000 offer by the Lackawanna he did say:

"It's all bunk. We have never made any offer at that figure."

Mr. Truesdale then declined to say what figure had been named in the offer of the Lackawanna previously made, but he intimated that $1,000,000 was a great exaggeration.

According to Mr. Truesdale the Lackawanna had not planned to make an offer for the property until it was practically requested to do so. Mr. Truesdale did not remember who extended the invitation.

"Some man came to see us and asked us to make an offer for the property," he said, referring to a period that antedated the official advertisement of the coming sale of the property. "I don't recall his name, and I don't know whether he was sent by the Secretary of War or not."

Rejected Wooer Soaks Sedan With Gasoline, Lights It and Burns Himself to Death

Special to The New York Times.

MT. KISCO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Disappointed in love and worried over his finances, Thomas Bivona pulled his Ford sedan to the side of the road, emptied the gasoline tank on the upholstery and set it and himself on fire. A passing farmer tried to pull him from the blaze, but succeeded only after it was too late. Bivona died in Northern Westchester Hospital this morning.

Bivona said in the hospital before he died that he had contemplated suicide for two years, ever since the girl had rejected him, but only last night could he summon the necessary courage. The girl, Miss Emily Weir, 24 years old, who is employed in a market across from Bivona's home at 60 Pacific Street, Stamford, is to be married this week.

The road on which Bivona chose to burn himself to death is a rarely traveled one from Round Ridge to Bedford Village. The blaze could be seen for some distance and Victor Miller ran to the car. He could see Bivona sitting calmly within while the flames ate through the woodwork and cracked the glass around him.

Miller pried open the door and tried to drag Bivona out. Bivona struggled violently with his rescuer, and almost succeeded in dragging him to death, but Miller's strength got the better of Bivona and he pulled him into the roadway. Physicians at the Northern Westchester Hospital found Bivona burned beyond the possibility of recovery.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.—According to Bivona's parents, with whom he lived here, Bivona became infatuated with Miss Weir about five years ago, but ceased his attentions two years ago. Miss Weir said today that her acquaintance with Bivona had been only casual and that she had never had any idea that Bivona's intentions were serious.

Bivona was 26 years old. His family said he had been acting strangely for some time and had refused to work. He had been in the habit of making all-day trips in his machine.

Henry Ford Defends Klan As a Body of Patriots

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 26.—Henry Ford made a spirited defense of the Ku Klux Klan here today, when his yacht, the Sialia, passed through the harbor and up the Lachine Canal on the way to the lakes.

"It is the victim of a mass of lying propaganda," said Mr. Ford, "and is therefore looked upon with disfavor in many quarters. But if the truth were known about it, it would be looked up to as a patriotic body, concerned with nothing but future development of the country in which it was born and the preservation of the supremacy of the true American in his own land."

Mr. Ford denied being a member of the order.

SHEFFIELD NAMED ENVOY TO MEXICO

BANCROFT GOES TO JAPAN

Coolidge Also Announces the Selection of Illinois Lawyer as Ambassador to Tokio.

Special to The New York Times.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 26.—President Coolidge tonight announced the appointment of Edgar Addison Bancroft of Illinois as Ambassador to Japan and James Rockwell Sheffield of New York as Ambassador to Mexico.

A Leader in Law and Politics.

James Rockwell Sheffield has been active in Republican Party councils here for many years, but always in a very quiet way. He served one term in the Assembly, being elected in 1893. He was a vigorous advocate of the Mayor-Power-of-Removal bill which was passed during his term, but vetoed by the Governor, and was one of the leaders in a reform movement in Albany that year. He declined a renomination and has not since held elective office, his work in politics being either as a member or Chairman of various party committees.

Mr. Sheffield was born in Dubuque, Iowa, in 1864. He attended Yale and the Harvard Law School. He married Miss Edith Tod in Cleveland in 1892. He has one son, Frederick, who was graduated from Yale this year. He is a member of the law firm of Betts, Sheffield, Bentley & Betts of 52 William Street. He is generally regarded as a man of exceptional ability in financial matters.

The interest of Mr. Sheffield in politics dates almost from his graduation, for he was hardly out of Yale before he became the private secretary of Senator William N. Allison of Iowa. He remained with the Senator but a short time, however, then coming to New York to take up the practice of law.

Mr. Sheffield was offered the Presidency of the State Gas and Electricity Commission by Governor Higgins, but declined the appointment. He is a close friend of Secretary Hughes, the friendship dating back to the time when Mr. Hughes was Governor of New York.

One of his outstanding accomplishments outside of politics or the law was the winding up of the affairs of the Interborough Consolidated Corporation, of which he was appointed receiver. That company was a holding corporation for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the surface lines before the properties were separated through the receivership of the surface car lines.

At different times Mr. Sheffield has been President of the National Republican Club and of the Union League Club. He has been Treasurer of the New York County Committee. He is a member of the Bar Association and of several clubs. He has been active for many years in an unofficial capacity in connection with the Fire Department, and from 1898 to 1906 he was President of the Board of Fire Commissioners.

At Mr. Sheffield's office yesterday, when inquiry was made regarding the announcement, it was said Mr. Sheffield would have no comment to make at present.

Will Be Called to Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—James Rockwell Sheffield, the prominent lawyer of New York City, who has been selected as the next Ambassador to Mexico to succeed Charles Beecher Warren, resigned, is expected to come to Washington soon to familiarize himself with the various questions which are pending between the two countries.

As Mr. Sheffield is a native of Iowa, the Middle West is figuring in the two most important Ambassadorships now. Edgar A. Bancroft, the appointee as Ambassador to Japan, is a native of Illinois, with wide experience in the legal profession not only as counsel for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Chicago & Western Indiana Railways but also as chief counsel for the International Harvester Company.

He, nevertheless, is regarded as having progressive ideas concerning the relations of labor and capital and the duties of "big business" toward the public.

Mr. Bancroft was born in 1857. He graduated from Knox College and Columbia Law School.

Both Ambassadors Acceptable.

TOKIO, Aug. 27 (Associated Press).—The Japanese Government has informed the Government of the United States that Edgar Addison Bancroft, named as American Ambassador to Tokio, is persona grata.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26 (Associated Press).—James Rockwell Sheffield of New York is persona grata as United States Ambassador to Mexico in succession to Charles B. Warren, according to the newspaper Excelsior, which quotes Foreign Minister Aaron Saenz as authority for its statement.

LONG TRAILED BY OTHERS

CAUGHT "BIG TIM" MURPHY

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Post Office Inspector William A. Fahy—often described as the best known and shrewdest detective in the Government service—was arrested today by United States Deputy Marshal Carr on charges of being "the brains" of the $2,000,000 mail robbery at Rondout, Ill., on the night of June 12.

"Bill" Fahy, the Inspector who sent "Big Tim" Murphy and his pals to Federal prisons for the Dearborn Station $380,000 mail robbery three years ago, was taken after a large number of star Inspectors of the Eastern postal divisions had come to Chicago to assist Chief Postal Inspector Germer to identify the "master" that had appeared in every phase of the Government's untiring day and night search for the "inside man."

According to Chief Postal Inspector Clarahan of the New York district, who has been directing a constant surveillance of Fahy ever since a few days after the robbery, the famous detective has been followed to numerous meetings with criminals with whom he is charged with conspiring.

Arrested in His Office.

Fahy was arrested in his private office in the Federal Building. He was taken before United States Commissioner Beitler, who fixed his bonds at $50,000 and ordered him locked up in the Kane County Jail. He was taken to Geneva by Deputy Marshal Roberts after making a brief statement, in which he charged his arrest was due to a frame-up of criminal and professional enemies. He will be arraigned on Sept. 6.

The warrants under which Fahy was arrested were issued on complaint of Chief Clarahan and J. S. Lemon of Baltimore. It is said action was taken on evidence uncovered by themselves and Inspectors G. B. Miller of Washington, Thomas Milligan of Toledo, B. N. Nicoll of Syracuse, John Hartwell of Albany and C. C. A. Battles of New York City. It is asserted that the records of these men as mail robber catchers are overshadowed by that of only one man—"Bill" Fahy.

The specific charge against Fahy is violation of Section 37 of the Criminal Code, which has to do with conspiracy. The warrant under which he was arrested is as follows:

"Violation of Section 37, by unlawfully, willfully and feloniously conspiring, combining, confederating and agreeing together with Max Greenberg and Sam Grant (fugitive gunmen and thieves previously named as ringleaders of the Rondout robbery), et al., to commit an offense against the United States, and that to effect the object of same did take from the custody, control and possession of one L. M. Phillips, then and there an employe, to wit: a Post Office employe, ten bags of registered mail matter, then and there in the lawful custody, control and possession of said L. M. Phillips, as such mail clerk aforesaid."

According to Inspectors who have been working on the case, it is believed that Fahy is in possession of a considerable part of the $2,000,000 loot, although they admit they have been unable thus far to recover any of the amount.

Phillips is said to have been the clerk in direct charge of the pouches in the St. Paul mail train which contained the bulk of the robbers' seizure.

The Rondout robbery was one of the most spectacular in the history of the country. The hold-up, at a lonely, dark spot north of Chicago, in which ten

DAVIS ATTACKS COOLIDGE ON DAWES PLAN, SAYING HE CLAIMS CREDIT NOT DUE PARTY; 'SURPRISED' AT STATEMENT ON OIL SCANDAL

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 26.—The Democratic Party of Ohio, in State Convention today, adopted as its platform declaration on the Ku Klux Klan the pronouncement of its national standard bearer, John W. Davis, in his recent Seagirt (N. J.) speech.

The plank reads:

"Whenever any organization, no matter what it chooses to be called, whether Ku Klux Klan or any other name, raises the standard of racial or religious prejudice as a test of fitness for public office, it does violence to the spirit of American institutions and must be condemned by all who believe in American ideals."

The Resolutions Committee had approved the anti-Klan plank by a vote of 11 to 7. There was general cheering when the Secretary read the plank before the convention.

Judge W. H. Spence of Lisbon attempted to present a minority report on the Ku Klux Klan plank, following the national platform, but he was ruled out of order by the Chairman on a point raised by Thomas J. Nector of Cincinnati, that no minority report had ever been presented to the Resolutions Committee. The entire platform then was adopted by acclamation, with a goodly scattering of negative votes.

BID FOR NEGRO VOTE MADE BY DEMOCRATS

With the Republicans greatly perturbed over the silence of President Coolidge on the Ku Klux Klan issue, the Democrats, following up advantages won through the recent anti-Klan victory in Texas and the unqualified denunciation of the hooded brotherhood by John W. Davis, Democratic Presidential nominee, in his speech at Seagirt, N. J., will make a strong bid for the negro vote, usually Republican in a national election, in all the Eastern States.

In furtherance of that purpose a negro division is to be created at the Eastern headquarters of the Democratic National Committee in this city. A politically prominent negro from this city will be appointed today to take charge of the new bureau.

So far as the Democratic Party is concerned, this department is rendered possible this year only through the injection of the Klan issue and the prompt manner in which it has been met by the Democratic nominee for President. Not only in this State but in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts there are thousands of negro voters who have migrated North. Many of them were driven out of the South by fear of the Klan. The Democrats are prepared to take every advantage of this situation.

Republicans were not slow to sense the peril to their party's prospects involved in the contemplated Democratic campaign. There are approximately 100,000 negro voters in this State and about 75,000 cast their votes in New York City. In recent years, even without a Klan issue, the Republicans have found it difficult to keep this vote in line. With the Klan as an issue their difficulties are multiplied. Hence Republican leaders are anxious to have the President come out with a forceful repudiation of the hooded organization.

Meanwhile, regardless of whether the President meets the challenge of his Democratic opponent, the Republican leaders are agreed that the situation demands an outspoken disavowal in the Republican State platform of any sympathy with or tolerance of the Klan and its practices. The form this denunciation is to take has not been decided but has been a topic of discussion among the leaders now preparing for the State

COOLIDGE STUDIES KU KLUX KLAN ISSUE

SEES POLITICAL ADVISERS

Special to The New York Times.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 26.—President Coolidge today plunged into the plans for the campaign and devoted himself to consideration of the Klan controversy.

It was a political day at Plymouth. His vacation nearing the end, and feeling refreshed, the President tackled several matters that will confront him in the approaching months. His work began early. He refrained from his morning walk and remained at his desk, reading the many letters received regarding the Klan following the challenge of John W. Davis and the reply of General Dawes.

The letters, it was announced, were about equally divided in sentiment. The Republican politicians themselves are not of one mind. Some suggested silence and acceptance of the platform declaration. Others told the President that courage was demanded, and urged denunciation of the Klan.

There was no indication today when the President would act upon Mr. Davis's challenge. He may do so on Friday in Washington, when he speaks before the meeting of the fraternal orders. He may delay until after the Maine elections and restate his position before the convention of the Holy Name societies which meets in Washington next month.

Representative John Q. Tilson of the Speakers' Bureau of the Republican National Committee, who has been getting the reaction in Maine, visited the President. He said later that the situation there was complicated by outside issues, and expressed doubt whether Maine would figure as a satisfactory Republican political barometer this year.

"I think that President Coolidge said all that was necessary in his speech of acceptance about the Klan," Mr. Tilson said.

"Of course, if they come to him and ask him whether he meant this or that specifically, it may be necessary for him to say he did. Let the Democrats try to press the President into making a statement if they want to. That thing works both ways."

While the Klan problem is still an undersurface issue here, it is known to be the perplexing point before President Coolidge as he is about to enter actively upon his campaign.

At 10 o'clock 300 Grangers representing twelve States, on tour by automobiles, rolled up the hill and invaded the Summer White House grounds. President and Mrs. Coolidge received them in a drizzling rain.

Then came Alba B. Johnson, former President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, to talk about business conditions, followed by Representative Tilson and John Barrett, Chairman of the Coolidge Independent Group.

Sees Better Times Ahead.

Mr. Johnson, who is a Summer resident of Woodstock, said:

"With entire confidence we may survey the business outlook. Fundamental conditions are sound and a gradual improvement is taking place, which is much more desirable than a boom or a sudden spurt, which might be overdone and bring about a reaction.

"Prices of agricultural products are favorable. Wheat, corn, pigs, cotton, wool, in fact all the products of the soil, are now bringing prices which should enable the farmer to pay his debts and supply himself with those things which previous conditions have compelled him to postpone. The enlarged buying by farmers is already evident.

"Copper has advanced. Settlement of reparations and financing Germany's needs of raw materials should create demands for materials that the United States has to supply.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, L. I., Aug. 26.—Ernest S. Louis flouted a warning to leave town given to him twelve days ago by men who said they were Klansmen. Tonight three men tore him from the arms of his wife on the street, tossed him into a closed automobile and sped away with him. Local and county authorities started a search for the kidnapped man, which had not succeeded after several hours, although Louis had telephoned to his wife from an unknown point, told her he was "all right" and immediately hung up the telephone.

Ten men stalked into Louis's drug store at 359 Atlantic Avenue on Aug. 14, unmasked. Their leader, a Freeport business man, told the druggist he had ten days in which to sell out his stock and depart. Louis had been accused of assaulting a little girl. He denied the charge. Mrs. Louis said she was in the store when the attack was supposed to have taken place. She, too, denied that Louis had misbehaved. The police refused to make an arrest. The visit of the self-styled Klansmen followed. "Freeport is not big enough to hold the Klan and you," they told him.

The druggist said he was not frightened and that he would ignore the banishment order. The time-limit expired on Aug. 24. Tonight Louis started home along Bayview Avenue, accompanied by Mrs. Louis and his brother-in-law, Samuel Schulman of 50 Morris Street, Freeport.

When they came down Bayview Avenue they noticed an automobile with all lights on, just off Morris Avenue. As they drew nearer the lights were extinguished and three men advanced toward them, one from the automobile and two from a vacant lot.

Mrs. Louis was torn from her husband's arm and Schulman was brushed aside.

"You will have to come along with us," one of the three men said to Louis, dragging him toward the automobile.

Louis, struggling, was thrown into the tonneau of the automobile, a dark sedan, as his wife screamed. The car sped toward the city.

Schulman and Mrs. Louis ran to Police Headquarters and told their story. An alarm was immediately broadcast for the kidnappers' automobile and the county police were notified.

Schulman's wife, in the meantime, telephoned to Police Headquarters that Louis had called her on the telephone and had said to her:

"Tell Florence I'm all right." Then he hung up.

Chief Will Phillips, head of the county police, had the telephone operator trace the call that had come to the Schulman home and ascertained that it had been made from Hicksville, which is about twelve miles from Freeport.

State troopers on motorcycles and a touring car loaded with county police were immediately sent to Hicksville.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 26.—John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, charged today in a speech before the Ohio Democratic State Convention that President Coolidge in his speech accepting the Republican nomination had made claims not borne out by his party's record.

Setting up "common justice, common honesty and common courage" in government as issues to combat that of "common sense," stressed by his opponent, Mr. Davis charged that the President claimed undue credit for the Republican National Administration for alleged achievements in international affairs, asserted that the President in his acceptance speech had claimed credit for the report of the Dawes Commission, responsibility for which previously had been disavowed at the White House, and virtually accused the President of not only having done nothing to bring about the disclosures of corruption in public office but of having attempted to make it appear that he had.

Cheered by 4,000 Democratic men and women in Memorial Hall, Mr. Davis attacked the President's declarations on the financial policy of the Administration, its tax program and the World Court. Insisting that the paramount issue of the campaign was party responsibility, Mr. Davis promised, if entrusted with power, to put honest men in office and keep them honest.

Calls Action "Late and Reluctant."

"I make no charge against the honesty and integrity of the present occupant of the White House," Mr. Davis declared, after saying that Theodore Roosevelt, when President, had assumed a different attitude by saying that the cry of "turn the rascals out" never could be raised against him because it conceived it his duty to turn them out himself.

"I do not allege for a moment that it is not his purpose to carry forward the legal processes that have been put in motion to punish the offenders who have been pointed out to him; but I am somewhat surprised to find credit for the investigation that disclosed these offenders claimed by the White House," Mr. Davis said, adding: "As I read American history, those disclosures came from faithful servants in the legislative, and not in the executive, branch of the Government."

Mr. Davis illustrated his conception of President Coolidge's position in the disclosures of official corruption by comparing it to a comment on Franklin Pierce's last-hour declaration for the North just before the Civil War, which characterized that former President's action as "late, reluctant and unimportant."

In discussing President Coolidge's assertion that what the American people wanted was a Government of "common sense," Mr. Davis declared that this quality was general and that he hoped the American people would apply it at the election.

In asserting that the Democratic Party offered to the American people "common justice," Mr. Davis promised a revision of the tariff and tax reduction.

In offering "common honesty," the nominee said this did not mean merely that the officials should abstain from stealing public money, but that they should be honest in thought as well as deed.

In offering "common courage," Mr. Davis asserted that the Democratic Party would have courage in legislation, courage in administration and courage in the great cause of peace.

Wants No Secret World Policy.

"I want the Government of the United States not to tiptoe behind closed doors for fear the Senate may overhear it. I want it not to sit with unofficial observers, peeping through every international keyhole. I want it not to absent itself from the great councils of the nations, where the destinies of men are to be decided and divided. I want the United States as a nation to stand as an equal among the nations of the world, and do her full share to bring about for all mankind a full and a lasting peace."

Mr. Davis's dissection of President Coolidge's speech was interrupted frequently by applause and laughter. The first laughter came when he said that President Coolidge claimed that the foreign affairs of this country has been managed during the last three and a half years with a "technical skill and a broad statesmanship never surpassed."

"There must be something humorous about that statement," Mr. Davis said, as the audience laughed. "But I have not the faintest idea that the gentleman who wrote it had any humorous purpose whatever."

Another part of Mr. Davis's speech which was well received was his challenge of President Coolidge's statement that "the finances of the nation have been managed with a genius and success unmatched since Hamilton." Applause greeted his mention of the name of William G. McAdoo as a great Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Davis also challenged the President's statement that 40 per cent. of the debt owed to the United States by foreign nations had been "liquidated."

"I thought I knew what the word liquidated meant," Mr. Davis said, "but never in my life have I been able to liquidate any of my indebtedness by giving my creditor a note in renewal. Is the country intended to believe from this statement that foreign nations have paid us four billion dollars, 40 per cent. of the debt which they owed? If not, what is the reason for the use of the term 'liquidated' in this connection, when nothing has happened but the execution of a new set of bonds?"

There was more laughter when Mr. Davis characterized the World Court as "a stepchild laid on the Senatorial doorstep, with a Republican President occasionally dropping a tear on its cradle. The tears will continue to flow," he added, "but I see no reason to suppose that unless some other guardian of the doorstep is hired, it will ever be taken inside the door.

Text of the Speech.

Contrary to the method he used at Clarksburg and at Seagirt, where he prepared his speeches in advance, Mr. Davis spoke extemporaneously. After complimenting Mr. Cox, Mr. Campbell and other Ohioans present, Mr. Davis said:

"We stand at the opening of one of our quadrennial campaigns. The responsibility which I bear is one to which I feel most inadequate, unless I can be sure of the support of those of my political faith throughout this country. I am here to take your counsel and to listen to your words of advice.

"What is the issue that you bid me submit to the American people? I care not in what words we put it—honesty in Government, fidelity in administration, uprightness in the administration of the law, justice in the passage of legislation—it all comes, in the last resolve, to the question of party responsibility.

"This is a Government by parties. They are our agents and our servants, and every election—local or State or national—is an appraisal by the people of the conduct of their servants and an expression of their satisfaction or dissatisfaction with the manner in which their duties have been performed. That is the issue that you Democrats are going to submit to your fellow-citizens in Ohio this Fall. That is the issue which those in power, whether they choose it or not, must submit to the people of the United States.

"I was asked the other day for my definition of the difference between a Democrat and a Republican, and I suggested that in this year of grace I thought the great outstanding distinction between the members of the two parties was this:

"That a Democrat wanted the record of his party remembered and a Republican wanted the record of his party forgotten. [Laughter and applause.]

"Now, how shall we test parties? When we come to weigh the things that they have done in their political body, how shall we test them? Shall it be by their performance—perhaps the best of all tests? Shall it be by their promises—not so good a test, for promises are easy in the political world? Or shall it be by their character as disciplined units, marching with harmony under a common leadership and able to perform the things they see fit to promise?

Analyses Coolidge's Speech.

"I have in my hand the statement made by the leader of the Republican Party two weeks ago as the basis on which his party would invoke the support of the American people. I should like to read a part of that speech to you. It is President Coolidge's speech of acceptance on the 14th of the present month. I wish to discuss it calmly, soberly, without passion and, I hope, without prejudice. I wish to give praise where praise is due, and blame only where blame should fall, and to ask you whether the history here given of party achievements is an adequate history; whether the promises that are here made of party performance in the future are such promises as to satisfy the mind and conscience of the American people. I take up the speech as he himself has taken it.

"First, foreign affairs. We are told by the President that the foreign affairs of this country 'have been managed in the last three years and a half with a technical skill and broad statesmanship seldom if ever surpassed.' [Laughter]. There must be something humorous about that statement. [Laughter]. But I have not the faintest idea that the gentleman who wrote it had any humorous purpose whatever.

"What has this technical skill and broad statesmanship accomplished? According to the roster of deeds which follows in this address, we are told, first, that when this Administration took office diplomatic relations had been severed with Turkey, with Greece, with Russia, with Colombia and with Mexico. I did not know that that was true as to Colombia [laughter], and afterward that that unhappy state of affairs had been redressed by the ratification of treaties with Germany, with Austria, with Hungary, with Colombia, with Mexico and with Turkey, which only 'a technical skill and a broad statesmanship seldom if ever surpassed' could have achieved.

"How much of that 'technical skill' was necessary to persuade the beaten and vanquished nations, Germany, Austria and Hungary, to sign a treaty dictated by us, in a half-dozen lines, saying in so many words, 'You of the United States may have all the rights and benefits of the peace treaties of Versailles, and we ask you to accept none of the duties and the responsibilities'?

"How much 'technical skill and broad statesmanship' did it require for the Senate to ratify a treaty with the Republic of Colombia, doing a belated act of justice; the treaty having been negotiated and laid before the Senate by a Democratic Secretary of State? and how much 'technical skill' was necessary to accept from the Turkish Empire the Treaty of Lausanne, laid before us by the Turks, cancelling all our previous capitulary rights and meekly accepted by the United States without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't'? [Laughter and applause.]

The Washington Conference.

"What next? The Washington conference? I made bold in my speech two weeks ago—you will pardon me if I speak about myself, or quote myself—to express the opinion that the Washington conference was of doubtful value. I have no desire to decry the purpose with which the Washington disarmament conference was called. I have no desire to belittle anything that it did toward promoting the peace of the world. I have no desire to decry any effort to lessen the burden of armaments that must inevitably drag the world over the precipice again, if it continues. But we are told that the Washington conference was more than evolutionary, it was sublime. [Laughter.]

"What did it do? It agreed that in so far as battleships were concerned the United States should occupy a ratio equal to Great Britain and higher than Japan; that the battleships of those nations should stand on the ratios of five, five and three; that Japan should enjoy complete mandated rights over all the islands and possessions Germany had owned in the Pacific north of a certain area; under the British Empire all of those below.

"That action involved three things, and we must fairly face them. First, it made the military defense of the Philippines impossible, if we desire to hold them; second, it fixed a ratio of five, five and three, which the Secretary of the Navy told us only two days ago he had been permitted to lapse by those who now control the destinies of the United States; that according to his theory our ratio was five, four and three, and according to other experts much lower than that.

"Then it committed us to the so-called four-power treaty, under which we agreed, with four powers only, to discuss the problems of the Pacific, and that sublime action, my friends, had the defects that attend all partial action of any sort. There can be no settlement in this world of the question of armament and disarmament unless all of the nations of the world participate in that settlement. [Applause.]

"Anything short of that is but a temporary expedient and pretense.

Responsibility for the Dawes Plan.

"And then the last thing in this roster of foreign achievements is the Dawes report. In the speech to which I am addressing myself, that is called the 'General Dawes report.' So far as I know that is the only individual, not excepting the General himself, who has ever claimed that he is the sole author of that project. We are told that that is a great achievement of this Administration.

"May I read you what the Administration said on that subject on the 16th day of January last?

"It was stated emphatically at the White House, following yesterday's Cabinet meeting, that the Dawes mission is not to be viewed as the first step of an American policy to participate directly in the solution of Europe's problems. There is to be no such policy under the Coolidge Administration, it was explained. In other words, the United States Government is neither directly nor indirectly responsible for anything that General Dawes says or does, according to the White House.'

"I wonder if that still remains? [Laughter.]

"General Dawes and his associates represent the United States in the sense that they are American citizens, and express individual American views; but they are free from any responsibility to the State Department or from any duty to obey instructions from the Government of the United States, if such instructions were to be issued.'

"And when General Dawes himself returned with his colleagues from abroad he made this statement:

"'We have not received instructions from, nor have we made reports to, Washington. The responsibility of the plan rests wholly upon the members of the commission.'

"He also stated that he had not been summoned to Washington and would not go there unless invited. And yet, in the light of those facts, we are now told that this 'sublime statesmanship' was responsible for the Dawes report.

"But the truth leaked out the other day. It leaked out up in Maine. The General himself tells us for the first time, so far as I know, that the facts are not as far as I know, he and his colleagues were after all, named by the President and the Secretary of State, but they kept quiet about it. Why? Because they were afraid the Senate of the United States might find it out. [Laughter.]

"For fear of foreign Governments? No.

"For fear of political enemies? No.

"They tiptoed for fear their colleagues of the same political faith in the Senate of the United States might find out what they were about. [Laughter.]

Compares Mellon and McAdoo.

"I go now to the question of finances, and I read in the speech to which I am referring this statement, to which I ask your attention:

"'Finances of this nation have been managed with a genius and success unmatched since the days of Hamilton.'

"Not 'unequaled,' not 'unsurpassed,' but 'unmatched' since the days of Alexander Hamilton.

"I think the modest gentleman who now presides over the Treasury Department might well pray to be delivered from his friends. [Laughter and applause.] There have been some rather full grown men in the United States Treasury, when you come to think about it.

"There was the wise Swiss, Albert Gallatin, who presided over it for twelve long years. There was Roger B. Taney, who stood side by side with Andrew Jackson in the fight on the United States Bank and became the second great Chief Justice of the United States. There was old Tom Corwin of Ohio, one of the greatest debaters that ever sat in the American Congress, who declared with regard to the Mexican War that 'if I were a Mexican, as I am an American, I would meet the invader and welcome him with hospitable hands to a bloody grave.' [Applause.]

"There was old Tom Ewing of Ohio, whose mind planned the first transcontinental railroad in this country. There was Robert J. Walker, who financed the Mexican War and wrote the Walker tariff, the model of all tariff bills since that day. There was Salmon P. Chase of Ohio, who stood at Lincoln's side and financed the great war between the States and became the Chief Justice of this country. There was another Ohioan, not entirely forgotten even outside the borders of his State, John Sherman of Ohio, who was Secretary of the Treasury. [Applause.]

"And—not to tire your patience—I mention another name—the name of a Secretary of the Treasury upon whose shoulders fell the burden, first, of putting in operation the machinery for the collection of the first income tax ever made effective in this country since the Civil War; whose duty it next became to put in motion the machinery of the Federal Reserve System, and after that the machinery of the Farm Loan Board and the Farm Land Bank—all of which duties he performed with signal ability and intelligence; who afterward was called to finance the greatest war this country ever knew and to raise money in a golden stream—$25,000,000,000 of dollars—for the purpose of financing that great conflict; who, when it became necessary for the Government to take over the great transportation systems of the country, was ready to step into the breach and carry that gigantic load along with those he had already assumed.

"And, my friends, let us give credit where credit is due. If the day ever comes when the historian searches the pages of American history for a Secretary of the Treasury to stand alongside Alexander Hamilton, our first Secretary, he will run over the list until he finds the name and then write the name of William G. McAdoo. [Applause].

The Treasury's Record.

"What has this 'unmatched' administration of the Treasury done that it should loom so great?

"We are told, in the first place, that expenditures have been cut from five billions and a half in 1921 (the end of the fiscal year being July 1 of that year) to roughly three and one half billions in July of 1924.

"Why the comparison? Why not go back to the war year of 1919, when we spent nearly twenty billions of dollars, and say that since that year expenses have gone down to three and one-half billions? And why not tell the country that in 1921, thanks to the partisan obstinacy of the United States Senate and of his political opponents there, Woodrow Wilson was compelled to leave office with his country still in a state of war?

"When the war closed, as all of us knew, foreign nations were in our debt something like ten or twelve billions of dollars, and we are now told, in the same address to which I am referring, that under the guidance of this 'matchless leadership' 40 per cent. of the foreign debt has been liquidated.

"I thought I knew what the word 'liquidate meant. [Laughter.] But never in my life have I been able to liquidate any of my indebtedness by giving my creditor a note in renewal. [Laughter and applause.]

"Is the country intended to believe from this statement that foreign nations have paid us four billions of dollars, 40 per cent. of the debt, which they owed? If not, what is the reason for the use of the term 'liquidated' in this connection, when nothing has happened but the execution of a new set of bonds?

Surprised Over Claim on Veterans.

"We are told in the speech that another matter forms ground for boasting. It is the last subject of all which I should expect to be brought forward in that connection. It is praised as one of the advances of the past Administration that forty millions of dollars has been appropriated to procure hospital service for the wounded veterans of the late war, and no government in all history, we are assured, has ever been half so generous in the treatment of its defenders.

"I say I am surprised to find that subject mentioned. Of what use to the veteran is an appropriation of forty millions if in eighteen months after it was made but 200 beggarly beds have been added to the hospital equipment of this country? Of what use that Congress should pour out money in an unending flood if Forbes and those associated with him made it simply an excuse for public plunder?

"And in all the history of the last four years; in all the events that have been published; deprecated and deplored in all the shortcomings that we charge against those who have administered this Government, there is no case so black and so damnable as that which has denied to the veterans of the war the care and the honesty that was their due.

"Then, we are told in a quasi-apologetic tone, that individuals charged with wrongdoings are being prosecuted; that it is not possible for any Government entirely to prevent wrongdoings; but wherever there have been suspicions of guilt, 'I have caused them to be investigated and presentation made to the Grand Jury.'

"Now, my friends, that is not the tone that has always emanated from occupants of the Presidential chair. I remember a President of the United States, who sat there fourteen years ago or more, who addressed himself to this identical subject, and he said no man would ever raise against him or his administration the cry of 'Turn the rascals out.' He conceived it to be his business to detect and turn them out himself, and the President I am quoting was none other than Theodore Roosevelt.

"I make no charge against the honesty and integrity of the present occupant of the White House. I think no man truthfully can. I do not allege for a moment that it is not his purpose to carry forward the legal processes that have been put in motion, and punish the offenders who have been pointed out to him; but I am somewhat surprised to find credit for the investigation that disclosed those offenders claimed by the White House. [Laughter.]

"For, as I read American history those disclosures came from faithful servants in the legislative and not in the executive branch of the Government.

"Late, Reluctant and Unimportant."

"Perhaps I can illustrate the thought that is in m ymind by a historic anecdote. In 1860 of course this country was torn with the coming conflict between the North and the South, and men were called on to announce their adherence to one side or the other of that coming struggle. Up in New Hampshire ex-President Franklin Pierce finds this

SAYS REPUBLICANS ARE RUNNING KLAN

HARRELD'S STAND IS CITED

Special to The New York Times.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26.—The Democratic Party in Oklahoma is openly at war with the Ku Klux Klan, while, on the other hand, the Republican organization, through its accredited spokesmen, has let it be known that so far as the Republican Party is concerned all Klansmen are welcome.

"I don't care what a man belongs to," Senator Harreld, the leader of the Republican Party in this State, is quoted as saying.

"Let's welcome a man into the Republican Party, whether he belongs to the Klan or whether he does not," Senator Harreld said. "What do we care about that, anyway?"

The quotations are from the current issue of the Oklahoma Fiery Cross, the organ of the State Klan. The paper says that Senator Harreld's invitation to the hooded brothers to come into the Republican camp was offered during a meeting of the Republican State Committee in this city last week.

Governor M. E. Trapp, the Democratic anti-Klan Governor, is authority for the statement that the controlling officials of the Klan in the Southwest are Republicans. He so stated to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent this afternoon. Every Grand Dragon in the Southwestern States, he declared, is a Republican.

Predicts Walton's Election.

Governor Trapp was discussing the Klan issue in Oklahoma with particular reference to the situation as it concerns the Democratic Party. He placed practically the full blame for all the Democratic troubles at the door of the Klan. It was clever political manipulation on the part of powerful Klan officials, he said, which brought about the nomination of ex-Governor J. C. Walton as the Democratic candidate for the Senate, and the same Klan bosses, he added, "shuffled the cards" so as to make certain the nomination of W. B. Pine, the Klan candidate, by the Republicans.

There can be no other issue but the Klan in this part of the country this year, said Governor Trapp, and this being so he prophesied that ex-Governor Walton would be the next Senator from Oklahoma.

"It was due to the Klan that Walton was nominated," he declared, "and now that he is nominated we who are against the Klan will see to it that he is elected. It is not Walton, but the Klan, that is the issue, and until that question is settled once and for all it is silly to talk about other issues. Besides that of masked control, all issues are minor ones.

"John W. Davis," said the Governor, "showed what a big man he was when he named them at Sea Girt, and if he is elected, and I believe he will be, his courageous stand against this masked organization and everything it preaches will be largely responsible for his victory."

Governor Trapp was Chairman of the Oklahoma delegation to the New York Convention, and he asserted today that the Klan was responsible for practically all the troubles that marked the progress of the Madison Square Convention.

"The Dragons of all the States," he declared, "were at New York and the Klan delegates carried out the orders of those Dragons, and did so in spite of the fact that in nine out of ten cases they were Republicans. The Oklahoma delegation had its own troubles with these Dragons, and I know whereof I speak."

The Governor declared that there was a booth in Madison Square Garden which was exclusively used by the Dragons in transmitting their orders to the Klan leaders on the floor of the convention.

Cites the Klan Leadership.

"Every Dragon in this part of the country is a Republican," he said, "and these Klansmen who profess allegiance to the Democratic Party are receiving orders from these Republicans and obeying them, too. Take our State. The Grand Dragon of the Realm of Oklahoma is N. C. Jewett of this city, and he happens to be a Republican and a man of influence in the councils of that party.

"Now let us go across the line into Arkansas, where, until recently, the Klan was a very powerful organization. Who is the Grand Dragon there? A man named Comer of Little Rock, who has always been a Republican. Ask any well informed Democrat about the activities of this Republican Dragon during the recent primary in that State. It is all a matter of record. The papers were full of it. However, I am delighted to say that the Democrats of Arkansas met the Klan issue and the Klan candidate for Governor received less than 50,000 votes of a total of more than 200,000."

In Missouri, Kansas, Indiana and Texas the Dragons are Republicans, Governor Trapp declared.

"In fact, I don't know of a single Dragon of a State in the Union who is not a member in good standing of the G. O. P.," he added.

"Is Senator Harreld a Klansman?" the Governor was asked.

"I cannot say," he replied, "but I can say that he has been talking mighty nice to them of late."

The campaign in Oklahoma for Senator, which is just beginning to speed up, is destined to be, in the Governor's opinion, one of the hardest fought in the history of the State.

The Republican candidate is W. B. Pine, an oil man of Okmulgee, who was the Klan candidate in the primary. He won with a clear majority. His campaign manager was J. G. Dyche, who was Jake Hamon's right hand man, and during the campaign Mr. Dyche, Governor Trapp declares, worked hand in hand with the Republican Grand Dragon of the Oklahoma Klan.

"Mr. Dyche, who is a former Warden of the Atlanta Penitentiary, is an unusually smart politician, and I frankly concede he played his cards like an expert," the Governor commented.

"Aided by Jewett and, through Jewett, by The Fiery Cross, the organ of Oklahoma Klandom, Mr. Dyche was able to play havoc with the Democratic primary. He wanted Walton nominated, for he believed that, with Walton leading the Democrats, he could elect Pine, the Republican Klan candidate.

"At the proper moment in the campaign The Fiery Cross came out with a laudatory article about ex-Senator Gore, one of the Democratic candidates. That was the end of Gore, for he was promptly deserted by all the anti-Klansmen. Ten days elapsed and The Fiery Cross appeared with an indorsement of Charles Wrightsman of Tulsa, one of the ablest Democrats in Oklahoma, a man who has never had any Klan connections. And that disposed of Wrightsman.

"Next The Fiery Cross endorsed Howard, who was a Klansman, and then the job was complete. The anti-Klan element had nowhere to go but to Walton—at least, most of them thought that, and Walton was nominated by the Democrats, while Pine won the Republican nomination hands down.

"But there is one more chapter to the story. Just before primary day The Fiery Cross came out with another clever blast. As the organ of Oklahoma Klandom, it announced that there was just one candidate running for the Senate who was acceptable to the Klan, and that man was W. B. Pine. Now, that advice was for Democratic as well as Republican Klansmen. It was the final proof of what we have believed all along, namely, that the direction of the Klan in this State is in the hands of Republicans.

"Did it ever occur to you that the Klan never tries to cause the Republicans any trouble. The Republicans at Cleveland had easy sailing so far as the Klan was concerned. Everybody knows what a rough road they made for us at New York. In our State Convention they plagued us morning, noon and night, but when the Republicans met they were as meek as lambs. Investigate and you will find this is the rule in practically all of the States.

"That is why the Republicans are pussyfooting on the Klan question, and, in my opinion, it is the reason they will continue to pussyfoot right up to the day of the election. Also it is the reason why, in my opinion, John W. Davis will cross the line a winner. Texas gave the cue to the Democrats of the nation, and Oklahoma is going to prove just as true to Democratic ideals as her big neighbor when the time comes."

Ex-Governor Walton opened his campaign today and Mr. Pine will begin his campaign in the course of a week. Mr. Pine has stated that he is not a Klansman. Governor Trapp said he had been informed that Mr. Pine resigned from the Klan last January. The Klan is supporting Mr. Pine, however.

Five independent candidates also are in the field. Nobody takes them seriously. Summed up it would seem that Oklahoma today is safe for Davis, and that at the same time the odds also are slightly in favor of Walton.

All the indications are that the Democrats will control the next Legislature. In such an event the Klan will be in the minority, since most of the Democratic candidates are said to be anti-Klan.

O'CONNELL ASSAILS DAWES.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Uncomplimentary references to General Dawes, Republican candidate for the Vice Presidency, and to the Ku Klux Klan aroused the delegates to the annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor at the opening session here today.

Referring to General Dawes as "Hell and Maria," Edward O'Connell, President of the International Metal Trades Union, who appeared as the personal representative of Samuel Gompers, declared the General's alleged statement that labor leaders were "a big gang of bluffers" showed that he did not know anything about the organized labor movement.

Mr. O'Connell urged the delegates to get behind the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution.

Lieut. Gov. Lunn, in welcoming the convention on behalf of the State, scored the Ku Klux Klan and was cheered by his auditors. It was generally understood that resolutions condemning the Klan would be offered for adoption, probably after the election of officers, which will be held tomorrow or Thursday.

SIEGEL PUT IN RACE AGAINST LAGUARDIA

SPIRITED FIGHT FORESEEN

It Will Be a Three-Cornered Contest, With Henry Frank as Tammany's Candidate.

A lively fight in the Congressional campaign in the Twentieth District is expected as a result of the designation last night of former Congressman Isaac Siegel as the Republican candidate against F. H. LaGuardia, La Follette designee, and Henry Frank, who has been designated by Tammany Hall.

"I am becoming a candidate for the nomination in response to an overwhelming demand from the Republican organization," said Mr. Siegel. "The appeals have been coming day and night, and there was nothing else for me to do."

All three candidates expect to make a spirited fight. LaGuardia, the incumbent, who ran two years ago as the Republican candidate in this district, won by a slender plurality over Henry Frank, who then, as now, was the Democratic nominee. LaGuardia this year will run with only the third party endorsement and will depend chiefly on the large Socialist vote in the district and his popularity among the Italian voters.

Mr. Siegel has represented the district twice in the House of Representatives. In 1916 he defeated Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate, in a three-cornered fight. He won again in 1918 when there was fusion against the Socialists with him as the candidate. Siegel is looked upon as a good vote-getter, but on the strength of the showing made by Mr. Frank two years ago the Democrats are hopeful of winning.

The Republicans designated Mr. Siegel as their candidate last night shortly before the time to make substitutions expired, the deadline being midnight. Dr. Walter Cohen had been designated. The district includes all of the Eighteenth and part of the Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth and Twentieth Assembly Districts in Manhattan.

Other Republican substitutions were: Seventeenth Assembly District — Irving Silverman, attorney, of 1,937 Sixty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, for Nicholas Sievaggi, as designee for delegate to the Second Judicial Convention.

George F. Picken, insurance broker, 6,214 Nineteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, for Maxwell S. Harris as delegate to State Convention.

Samuel S. Klein, a lawyer of 115 Broadway, has been designated as the Republican candidate for the Assembly nomination in the Sixth Assembly District of Manhattan, where Samuel S. Koenig of the Republican County Committee is the leader. He is 26 years old.

Endorsement by the Socialist Party of Mr. LaGuardia as the candidate for Representative from the Twentieth Congressional District was officially given last night. His name was substituted for that of Karl Gottfried.

New York Postmasters Appointed.

BURLESON WANTS KLAN READ OUT OF PARTY

Will Ask Texas Democratic Convention to Exclude Klansmen From Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 26.—When the State Democratic Convention meets here next Tuesday former Postmaster General Burleson of Austin will take a foremost part in an effort to read the Ku Klux Klan out of the Democratic Party. He said today that he had prepared a resolution calling for the exclusion of members of the Klan from taking part in the Democratic primaries on the ground that the Klan is a distinct political party in itself, and therefore has no business participating in Democratic primaries. He expressed the belief that the convention would adopt the resolution.

"I have not the slightest desire to punish any one or to retaliate upon any one or any group of individuals," Mr. Burleson said, "but there is not the slightest reason why a distinct and separate political party should be allowed to participate in the Democratic primaries. As the K. K. K. is a distinct and separate political party, as an organization it should be barred from participation in Democratic party councils, and separate political party, as an orbarred from participation in Democratic councils, conventions and primaries."

Mr. Burleson has prepared another resolution which he will lay before the convention disapproving of political activities of priests and ministers of the gospel.

COURT ORDER HAMPERS WHEELER TOUR PLANS

Montana Case Called Sept. 1—Senator Walsh Will Defend Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Senator Wheeler was advised today that he is to be arraigned in Montana on Sept. 1 to answer the indictment alleging that he took counsel fees from Gordon Campbell illegally after he had been elected to the Senate.

Announcement was made at Senator Wheeler's office that Senator Walsh, prosecutor for the special Senate Oil Committee, had been chosen as chief counsel for the defense.

Senator Wheeler is scheduled to open his campaign in Boston on Labor Day, Sept. 1, and he has made engagements to deliver speeches immediately thereafter at other points in New England and up-State in New York. How much of this program is to be curtailed is not definitely known. Counsel will appear for him until he can get to Montana.

S. C. Ford, Attorney General of Montana, will be associated with Senator Walsh in the trial.

Senator Wheeler said today that several of his associates in the Senate had volunteered to defend him, but that he had decided upon Senator Walsh, who is a candidate for re-election in Montana. Despite Senator Wheeler's bolt to the La Follette movement, Walsh is extremely friendly with him.

In a statement made public here today the Federation of Labor announces that union leaders in Chicago have analyzed the "conference of labor union officials" called by William M. Butler, Republican National Chairman, and will soon take it up in a news story.

The Federation statement says further: "It is announced at the same time that as an offset to the announcement by Chairman Butler, John Fitzpatrick, President of the Chicago Federation of Labor, has appointed a committee of twenty-five of the most prominent trade union officials to cooperate with the American Federation of Labor Non-Partisan Political Campaign Committee in carrying out the Federation's political program."

CALLS LOEBINGER'S ARREST AN OUTRAGE

COURT SPURS PROSECUTOR

Hints He Will Dismiss Defendant in Robbery Case if Evidence Is Not Produced Thursday.

Before a large crowd in the West Side Court yesterday David M. Neuberger, counsel for Dr. Hugo J. Loebinger, who has been held on a short affidavit charging attempted robbery since last Saturday, made such a scathing attack on the bomb squad that he drew objection from the Assistant District Attorney. The attack followed a motion on the part of the District Attorney for an adjournment until tomorrow morning. Magistrate Moses R. Ryttenberg granted the motion.

Dr. Loebinger, a graduate of Heidelberg University and a practising physician in New York for forty years, was arrested at his home at 320 West Eighty-first Street Saturday morning after the police had arrested three other men, Benedict Radus, Harry M. Moss and Harry Stone.

The four were arrested by detectives of the bomb squad on complaint of a man who they say is a wealthy furrier and who is designated as "Jack Devoy." Mr. Neuberger denies that there is such a person. The police say that this man went to Radus's apartment Saturday morning presumably to pay $7,000 for some stolen Liberty bonds. At the apartment the detectives seized a satchel containing newspaper clippings which, they say, the men intended to sell the furrier as Liberty bonds. In the satchel also were coils of rope and a pistol, and with these, the police contend, the men intended to rob the supposed furrier.

"Jack Devoy" is said to have told the detectives that he was introduced to Radus by Dr. Loebinger after the doctor had told him that Radus had Liberty bonds which could be bought cheaply. Dr. Loebinger's family told reporters Sunday that the furrier was named Wolfner and had been a patient of the doctor's. They said that Radus also was a patient and that the two had met in the doctor's office.

"Not in the annals of criminal history has such a dastardly thing been done as to link the name of my client with a band of criminals," Mr. Neuberger said yesterday in opposing the motion for adjournment of Charles A. White, Assistant District Attorney. "The idea of a police officer coming into a man's home with a complainant who has a criminal record is outrageous."

Magistrate Ryttenberg declared that if the District Attorney's office did not complete its evidence by Thursday he would entertain a motion for the dismissal of the defendant. He refused again to admit the other three prisoners to bail, but continued Dr. Loebinger in $2,500 bail.

Protest German Honors to Calles.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—The Nationalist Agricultural Syndicate, which was the principal supporter of General Angel Flores in the last Presidential campaign, has sent a message of protest to President Ebert of Germany, claiming that General Calles, who is being received by the Germans with official honors, has not yet been declared the President-elect of Mexico by Congress.

YOUTH KILLS FRIEND SPARRING IN STREET

A blow below the belt struck during a friendly sparring bout between two youths at Rockaway Avenue and Herkimer Street last night killed Emil Neapolitino, 17 years old, of 26 Ocean Place, Brooklyn. Tony Allitino, 20 years old, of 2,047 Fulton Street, voluntarily surrendered to the police and was locked up in the Brownsville station charged with manslaughter.

In the Ocean Hill section of Brooklyn, once the home of Johnny Dundee and Pepper Martin, boxing is the favorite sport among the youths. Both Neapolitino and Allitino had acquired considerable reputations as boxers. Last night the boys met at the accustomed corner and began sparring casually, demonstrating the favorite punches of Firpo and Wills. Allitino was much heavier, but Neapolitino was faster. The bout attracted a good-sized gathering.

Despite the disadvantage in weight, Neapolitino had all the better of it. A series of blows to the body sent Allitino back into the crowd, panting for breath. Allitino gathered himself for a final rush. With a right swing he caught the younger boy below the belt and the latter fell to the ground.

A dozen boys helped Allitino pick Emil up and carry him to a near-by drug store. Efforts to revive him were fruitless, and when an ambulance surgeon arrived the boy was dead.

METCALF FOR THE SENATE.

Will Accept the Nomination as Senator Colt's Successor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 26.—Jesse H. Metcalf, one of Rhode Island's leading manufacturers and business men, formally announced this morning that he would accept the Republican nomination for United States Senator, both to fill the unexpired term of the late Le Baron B. Colt and for the new term beginning March 4, if it was tendered him.

William C. Pelkey, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, announced that the party would stand whole-heartedly behind Mr. Metcalf, and that he would be tendered the nomination at the State convention, which probably will be held Oct. 2.

The one thing that upset the plans, which probably would have enabled all of the robbers to escape, was the fact that Willie Newton, one of three brothers—all Texas desperadoes with prison records—did not take the station assigned to him. Sam Grant, leader of the robbers, saw him, mistook him for a mail clerk and shot him.

This brought brotherly loyalty of the Newtons to the fore. There was much quarreling and some "talk" to police stool-pigeons. The police, by hard work, rounded up most of the roustabouts of the job. But they never got Greenberg, a politically powerful gangster of St. Louis; Grant, the commanding robber, nor the "inside man," now alleged to have been Fahy.

Fahy has been stationed at the Chicago office for four years. He came here from Philadelphia, where he had made an enviable record for three years.

He was detailed to Chicago early in the series of mail robberies, which began in 1920. He first attracted notice here by arresting "Big Tim" Murphy and Vincenzo Cosmano in connection with the Pullman mail robbery. While they were out under $200,000 bonds the Dearborn Station robbery occurred.

Previous suspicions made Murphy a suspect in the latter job, but nothing definite was found on Murphy until Fahy led a search of an old trunk in the home of "Big Tim's" father-in-law. This search brought about the recovery of $112,000 of the loot and caused Murphy and Cosmano to be sentenced to six years in Leavenworth Penitentiary. Both of the robbers, who held Fahy almost solely responsible for their "fall," still are in prison.

At the time of his arrest Fahy was assigned to ferret out the similarity of the Rondout, Harvey and East Chicago robberies, all of which showed striking points of like "technique."

HERRIOT IS UPHELD IN FRENCH SENATE

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

continuous diplomatic policy. In breaking brutally with the past you are fooling yourselves. You see the dawn of a new day. I see a black cloud on the horizon."

"The scaffold of London rests on a quicksand—the good faith of Germany. You put yourself out and obtain her freely-given signature. Did we sign and execute the Treaty of Frankfort of our own free will?"

He continued to argue that the policy of M. Herriot would bring only disillusions and dangers to France, that it was a strong France, not a yielding France which would collect from Germany.

M. Poincaré received an ovation from the Right and Centre as he descended from the Tribune.

M. Herriot replied immediately. He denied trying to steal M. Poincaré's thunder. He said he was trying to get somewhere and the accord of London represented the first positive step toward a settlement of the reparation issue, adding:

"Consistency in the policy of M. Poincaré, in his refusal to make a solution of reparations."

He said M. Poincaré had a chance in 1923 at the end of passive resistance.

"But," he went on "you wanted to wait until the situation in the Ruhr got better, and the situation in the Ruhr got worse. Each time you renewed the Micum accords you made concessions. If the London conference had broken up we would have had to keep making concessions until the Ruhr would have yielded nothing. That situation may explain some of the concessions made in London."

Recalls Bonar Law's Debt Offer.

Then he attacked M. Poincaré for not accepting Bonar Law's offer on a debt settlement which was better than any offer now available.

M. Poincaré replied sharply that Bonar Law asked concessions which France could not make. M. Herriot came back: "How can you reproach me for not making a debt settlement now when you turned down such a favorable chance?"

Taking up M. Poincaré's accusation that he had tied the hands of France, M. Herriot cried:

"I fought for isolated action and was victorious. I declared that in case of default, in the absence of collective sanctions I would on no condition surrender for France her right to act alone."

M. Herriot charged that the conference between France and England in the last days of 1922, which was followed by the Ruhr occupation, was a put-up affair because M. Poincaré had decided in August, 1922, to occupy the Ruhr.

M. Poincaré denied this and started after M. Herriot on the issue of disarmament. He said he would have no fear of the Germans if France had upon the Rhine the fleet MacDonald exhibited to M. Herriot at Spithead.

"For my part," answered M. Herriot, "I saw in that fleet the ships which during the war contributed to the allied victory. The sight of that fleet recalled to my mind allied cooperation and I believe that in the future it will contribute to our defense if need be."

M. Herriot went on to say that Mr. MacDonald was determined to enforce German disarmament. It was perhaps better to go a little slowly and have allied cooperation than to rush matters all alone.

He concluded by saying that the Dawes plan, supplemented by the London agreement, offered the least evil solution of the reparations problem.

Before the vote M. Chéron stated that his party did not like the London agreement, but, approving the Dawes plan, would abstain from voting in order not to wreck it.

Senator Chaumet, head of the Union Democratique, said his party would vote favorably, not that it approved the London agreement but because it was too dangerous at this late time for France to imperil the Dawes system.

Statements made by other Senators indicated that a majority of the upper house also thought M. Herriot had not made a good bargain in London but that under the circumstances it would not do to cast a vote which might wreck the Dawes plan.

DAWES BILLS MAY PASS REICHSTAG TOMORROW

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—The probability grew stronger today that the Reichstag would not be dissolved as a result of the debate concerning the laws required to put the Dawes plan into operation. Even in Nationalist circles it was admitted that the party's Reichstag members would not jeopardize passage of these laws, not even of the Railroad law for which the Government will require a two-thirds majority.

Largely because of the constant pressure being brought to bear upon the Nationalists from the occupied regions it is confidently felt here that when the pinch comes the Government will not only receive votes in favor of acceptance from the Nationalist Reichstag members hailing from the occupied regions, who total twenty-five, but something like forty to forty-five Nationalist votes in all. These, combined with the votes upon which the Government already can count, would give it the necessary majority.

Moreover, there is a strong chance that many irreconcilable anti-Government members will abstain from voting or keep away altogether from the decisive session on Thursday.

Meanwhile negotiations continue behind the scenes between the Government parties and the Nationalists, the latter doing their best to obtain from the Government all possible concessions in return for refraining from sabotaging the London compact. In quarters where the greatest optimism reigns regarding the Reichstag's acceptance of the compact there is strong criticism of these governmental dickerings, since it is felt that the Nationalists must eventually get on the "band wagon" willy-nilly, and hence that it is unnecessary to make concessions to them.

But it must be remembered that one, at least, of the Government parties—the People's Party, to which Foreign Minister Stresemann belongs—has several times before shown leanings toward the Nationalists and put on the brakes when other Government parties showed too anti-Nationalistic tendencies.

However, everything points to the probability of the Nationalist opposition to the Government dwindling even further between now and Thursday when the final vote on the London compact will be taken.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (Associated Press).—The Reichstag completed the second reading of the Dawes bill today and the debate will be resumed on Thursday.

Discussing the question of the security compact before the Reichstag, Count von Bernstorff said:

"If the German Government resolves to extend to France satisfactory accommodation in respect to the question of security, we shall, in all probability, be able to effect an earlier evacuation of the Ruhr. The permanent neutralization of German territory is wholly out of the question. Nevertheless, there should be no difficulty in effecting a relatively and mutually satisfactory security compact."

It is up to England and France to suggest to Germany that her reception into the League of Nations is desired, Count von Bernstorff declared. But this admission was impossible, he added, so long as German territory was occupied by foreign troops.

MELLON IS SILENT ON EVE OF HIS RETURN

Finds France Cannot Yet Take Up Question of Debt to Us, It Is Said.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who sails tomorrow for the United States, spent his last afternoon in Paris posing for Sir William Orpen, the famous British artist, who is making his portrait. In response to all questions Mr. Mellon insists upon the unofficial character of his trip.

It is believed he sails with the impression that nothing is to be done in the near future about the French debt to the United States. Premier Herriot cannot, at this time, it is said, make offers which would be likely to meet with a favorable reception, because, while the French would like to make a play for a reduction, they have been given to understand that the executive officers of the United States Government are bound by Congress to a very large degree.

While it is true the Debt Funding Commission could accept from France an offer to make the same arrangement as Great Britain did, the French think they are not in a position to put forward such an offer at this time. When the Dawes plan is in operation, when the French have taken steps toward consolidating their floating debt and caring for the 22,000,000,000 francs of securities falling due next year, and when discussions between the British and French Treasuries on France's debt to England, it may become possible, they say, to consider her debt to America under conditions more promising.

HOOVER SEES NO PERIL TO AMERICAN TRADE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Herbert Hoover, just back from a two months' tour in the West, expressed confidence today that the settlement of the German reparations question would be helpful to the United States in an economic way, instead of being detrimental. This opinion of the Secretary of Commerce was given in response to the suggestion advanced that through the revival of industry in Europe, America would encounter competition injuries to this country's trade and commerce.

"Of course," said Secretary Hoover, "the recuperation of Europe will intensify competition in many industries, but paralleling it will come expansion of consumption in European countries. Recovery there will bring employment, and employment will mean a higher standard of living, and that high standard will mean a greater demand for goods.

"The immediate effect of the settlement will be a demand for many American staple products, notably animals. Another benefit will be the stabilizing of currency and exchange, which should result in the withdrawal from the United States of much capital which had taken refuge here on account of greater stability. It is hard to fix any time when these things will take place, but the general trend is toward their occurrence.

"For the sake of the greater stability afforded by American conditions those controlling European capital sent here were willing to sacrifice something in interest rates. With the restoration of stability in Europe the capital will go back there to obtain the advantage of higher interest. I don't think this will do the slightest harm to the American situation.

"Another hopeful aspect of the situation is that there is always a tendency to anticipate good results, and the indication of the helpful features of the reparations settlement in accordance with the Dawes plan will be anticipated, with consequent good results.

"No, I don't think the recuperation of Europe will have any bad effect upon American industry. Revival of confidence and stability in Europe will have, very generally, a good effect.

"A large part of our exports is not competitive. The industries behind these exports have been thoroughly established in the United States and can hold their own."

PRESIDENT SEEKS LIGHT ON THE SALE

Improvement Company is only 10 per cent. of the estimate of the value of the property made by Governor Silzer last Saturday. Suggesting that the property might figure as "another Teapot Dome," he predicted that if the Government sold it for $1,000,000 it would have to enter upon a long legal fight or pay probably $6,000,000 to get possession of it again.

No Decision on Bids Announced.

In an official statement issued yesterday by the Hoboken Manufacturers' Railroad Company, which was in charge of the opening of the bids, occurs the following paragraph:

"After the bids were opened and read to the board by the Chairman, the bidders or their representatives being present, the board went into executive session for the purpose of considering the bids and making recommendation to the Secretary of War relative thereto. Decision as to the acceptance of any bid, or the rejection of any or all bids, will be announced later."

Julian A. Gregory, spokesman of the Port of New York Authority in the negotiations to have Secretary Weeks cancel or postpone the sale of the property, was unwilling to comment on the bids. He only said that members of the Port Authority were surprised that the Lackawanna Railroad was not among the bidders.

SMITH FLAYS CRITICS OF CANAL OPERATION

Governor, After Hearing, Says No Evidence to Support Complaint Was Adduced.

HAS CLASH WITH CLINTON

Would Discourage Organizations From Seeking Publicity at Expense of the State.

Governor Smith conducted an investigation yesterday into the operation of the New York State Barge Canal as a result of charges made by the New York State Barge Canal Conference, the Canal Committee of the Maritime Exchange and the Board of Managers of the New York Produce Exchange.

After the hearing, which was held in the office of the Port of New York Authority, 11 Broadway, Governor Smith said no evidence to support the complaints had been offered, but on the other hand that the testimony indicated highly efficient management of the canal. He also criticized the Barge Canal Conference, of which George Clinton Sr. of Buffalo is Chairman, for making public a resolution condemning the canal management without first ascertaining the accuracy of the allegations.

Mr. Clinton took an active part in the investigation, cross-examining witnesses and occupying the stand himself for some time. He admitted that when the Executive Committee of his organization met at the Hotel Ten Eyck in Albany, July 16 last, and adopted a resolution stating that the canal was in a "critical condition," and that commerce was being driven away, no effort was made to obtain any enlightenment either from the Governor himself or any State official.

Criticizes Publicity Seekers.

"What we want to do," said Governor Smith, after commenting upon the testimony, "is to discourage organizations from seeking publicity about any condition with respect to the canal or any other activity of the State until they have sought the State's cooperation and have investigated the matter to the point where they are satisfied that there is laxity of management and incompetency. Every now and then there arises a strong determination to find fault with the State to satisfy their own ends. That is something we will never permit from anybody. It doesn't make any difference to me who they are or what they ever did."

When the canal conference meets again in Albany, Sept. 12, Governor Smith said some State officials would attend to explain the barge situation in detail, "to bring about a better handling of the canal, a better operation of it, and as good a return as it is possible to get for the people of the State from its operation."

"While offering that cooperation," the Governor went on, "I would ask all the organizations interested in the canal to give us a chance, particularly when you come into the capital city to talk about it."

Immediately after Governor Smith read the resolution of the Canal Committee of the Maritime Exchange, which was one of the chief causes for the investigation, C. Parker Runyon, Secretary of the Exchange, presented to the Governor a resolution which the Board of Directors adopted one month later.

Charges Not Approved by Board.

This second document declared that the Canal Committee's charges against the canal's management were "forwarded without approval of the Board of Directors of the said association, as required by the by-laws"; that the "several reasons for the complaint have been corrected," and that "it is apparent that the Superintendent of Public Works and the Commissioner of Canals and Waterways are giving an intelligent supervision of the canal and doing all possible to inspire efficient operation."

The resolution, which was signed by John Dowd, President of the association, and Mr. Runyon, concluded as follows:

"Resolved, That the Maritime Association of the Port of New York expresses its confidence in the Superintendent of Public Works and the Commissioner of Canals and Waterways, in the efficient supervision and in the adoption of a progressive policy to maintain the canal for maximum service."

In reply to the Canal Committee's charge that "commerce is being withheld and driven away" from the waterway, Commissioner Fuller declared that up to Aug. 16 last the gross tonnage using the canal amounted to 977,088 tons, as against 1,009,046 tons during the same period last year. The decrease, he said, was only 3.35 per cent., whereas he said the Interstate Commerce Commission reported that the railroads carried 15 per cent. less freight this year than last. He attributed the tonnage loss to business depression solely.

On the other hand, Commissioner Fuller testified that during May, June and July there was a material increase in the amount of grain shipped through the canal, whereas the railroads reported a decrease.

Virtually every witness said the canal was in better shape this year than ever. W. E. Hedger, who operates forty-four boats, testified that while he had trouble in the early Spring he had made the best time he ever had made since the middle of July.

Mr. Clinton insisted there was nothing in the conference's resolution condemnatory of Governor Smith's administration. The Governor asked him how he accounted, then, for the charge of "inefficiency" in the resolution. The witness explained that it meant "incapable of doing a thing." He refused the position of Superintendent of Public Works, he said, by way of illustration, because he regarded himself as inefficient. The canal cannot be operated efficiently, he said, unless it maintains its statutory twelve-foot depth.

"I am not attacking this Administration," said Mr. Clinton.

"You say you aren't," countered the Governor, "but I don't know how you can get away from this statement that the inefficiency in the management is the greatest in years." Who is the inefficient man here? Is it Fuller?"

"I wouldn't like to go into that," replied Mr. Clinton.

Not Afraid—Even of Governor.

"I'm not afraid of any one, not even the Governor," the witness commented.

"And it's because I'm not afraid of any one that I am down here today," Governor Smith added.

Shortly later he said that a bill for the appropriation of $300,000 for canal purposes was defeated by the Democratic Senate at the last session, although passed by the Republican Assembly.

"The Attorney General rendered an opinion that it wasn't necessary to take $600,000 out of the pockets of the taxpayers this year," replied the Governor. "He thought it could be taken out of the miscellaneous canal receipts, totaling $2,000,000, which was actually drawing only 2 per cent. interest. There is no question of a Republican Assembly or a Democratic Senate. There was no politics in it at all. It was just good business. There was $2,000,000 not being used. If it weren't for the fact that there was a Democratic Governor the Assembly would never have passed it. They weren't particularly interested in the size of the appropriation this year. They wanted to have some figure to base Democratic extravagance on and there they had more than a quarter of a million dollars at one place."

Governor Smith pointed out that the canal is a business enterprise subject to the same frailties as steamship and railroad lines.

It Is Not Criminal to Like a Glass of Beer!

And, Oh! How Good It Would Taste These Hot Summer Days!

Canadians have it. European nations have it. BUT AMERICANS HAVE BEEN DEPRIVED OF IT.

Beverages of moderate alcoholic content—beer and wine—are healthful and actually PROMOTE temperance.

Their sale in this country, under proper control, will safeguard our youth by discouraging bootlegging and the illicit manufacture of poisonous compounds sold as whisky, gin, etc.

Four years of the Volstead Law have proved it an expensive failure in both money spent and lives lost. The new illegal liquor traffic knows no restraint; it debauches our children; it pursues its victims even into the privacy of homes. Our taxes remain high, on the false theory that if enough money is expended, we may enforce the law to some small extent. The orgy of graft, crime, disease and outrage in connection with "enforcement" is appalling.

We Offer You a Remedy

The distinguished citizens whose names appear opposite, together with hundreds of thousands of other patriotic Americans in every State and community, are banded together in a non-partisan, non-sectarian organization, to fight THIS YEAR to elect a Congress with sufficient courage to modify the Volstead Act. WE FAVOR TEMPERANCE AND THE REGULATED MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF PURE, HEALTHFUL BEVERAGES OF MILD ALCOHOLIC CONTENT.

During the war, you gave freely and generously to soldier relief and welfare organizations—you bought war savings stamps; you helped to "fill the hat" for the boys when it was passed around.

PREMIERS WILL GO TO GENEVA TUESDAY

Herriot Accepts MacDonald's Suggestion of Earlier Visit to League Meeting.

TO DISCUSS SECURITY ISSUE

Question of Germany's Admission Also Excites Interest as Time for Session Approaches.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Premier Herriot received this morning from J. Ramsay MacDonald, the British Prime Minister, a letter suggesting that the two go to Geneva together next Tuesday to attend the sessions of the Assembly of the League of Nations. M. Herriot accepted immediately.

It is expected that the two Premiers will remain in Geneva through the first week of the Assembly session, which opens next Monday. They will both address the Assembly on their ideas of the work of the League, giving special attention to the problem of security for France. It is also understood that they will take a prominent part in the organization of an important committee and will return to Geneva for the last week of the Assembly session, when final action on the various projects will be taken.

Premier Mussolini will not be able to attend the Assembly, as he expected to do.

Security Issue Vital to French.

The French attach great importance to the League's considering the security issue because the policy of Herriot bases the guarantees for France upon the protection of the League. Although Léon Bourgeois will be the titular head of the French delegation, his health is not good and it is expected that the real leadership will fall to ex-Premier Briand, who will concern himself especially with the plans for the control of German armaments by the League. The legal aspects of the armament issue have been anticipated by the consideration of the cases of Austria and Bulgaria, the same provisions applying to Germany so far as the treaties go. It is expected that a majority of the League members will declare in favor of the League taking over the inspection of armaments in Germany, as provided by the Treaty of Versailles.

There is more hesitation about the French proposal that the League guarantee the neutrality of a fifty-kilometer strip along the Rhine, and the final line-up depends on whether M. Briand can persuade the larger powers to join in protecting this zone.

There is a good deal of uncertainty about Germany's joining the League this year. While both Herriot and MacDonald desire this, the consent of France is rendered doubtful by the status of the disarmament issue between the Allies and Germany. Herriot having made promises not to agree to the admission of Germany before the final inspection of German armaments by the Allies, and this inspection, which has not yet begun, could hardly be completed before the end of the Assembly's session.

Germany, it is true, has not applied for admission, but there is good reason to believe that she would do so if assured that France would not oppose the application and would consent to her having a place on the Council. Of course, if the Reichstag fails to vote the laws for the execution of the Dawes report France will not favor her admission next month. But the French position may be affected by the fact that a good many League members think that Germany should be admitted before the League takes over the task of inspecting her armaments.

Americans Flocking to Geneva.

The usual flocking of Americans to the League meeting is announced. There are not enough gallery seats to meet the demand, and tickets are at a premium. In addition to the American tourists who will go out of their way to get a look at the League in session, several distinguished Americans will attend the meeting of the Assembly, among them being George W. Wickersham, Ex-Justice John H. Clarke, General Tasker H. Bliss, and Professor Manley O. Hudson.

GENEVA, Aug. 26 (Associated Press).—Premier MacDonald today advised the Secretariat of the League of Nations that, although Great Britain was constantly seeking to reduce her armament expenditures, she could not pledge that the present or that future British Governments would not exceed the current outlays.

When Prime Minister MacDonald paid a visit to Premier Herriot at Paris on July 10 it was announced that both would be present at the Autumn session of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva. On the departure of the British Prime Minister for London it was definitely stated by the French press that the visit would begin on Sept. 12, after the session of the Assembly was "well under way."

LEAGUE INVITES US TO ARMS PARLEY

Wants Official American Representative on Commission It Is Soon to Name.

GENEVA, Aug. 26 (Associated Press).—The League of Nations has extended an official invitation to the American Government to send an official representative to participate in the deliberations of the Disarmament Commission, which will be appointed by the League Assembly. This initiative, which is unique, is the outgrowth of American participation in the League's preliminary study to elaborate a convention for international control of the traffic in arms.

After the Assembly convenes next Monday its real work will be assigned to six commissions. The third commission will devote itself to all subjects touching the reduction of armaments, including control of the traffic in arms, agreements to provide security among the States and the extension of the principles of the Washington Naval Treaty to non-signatory powers.

The invitation, which has gone to Washington and is signed by President Benes of the Council with the approval of the Council, specifically designates that the United States is invited to participate in the commission's discussion of the draft convention for international control of the traffic in arms. Officials emphasized today that they hoped the invitation would not be interpreted as a roundabout way of inducing America to take part in the general work of the Assembly.

It appeared eminently desirable, they contended, that the United States should be present when the arms control treaty was discussed by the commission, which in theory at least has the right to tear it to pieces and build up a new document.

Both Joseph C. Grew and Hugh S. Gibson, representing the United States, have taken part in the previous League negotiations, which culminated in the convention. This must be submitted to the Assembly and to the Disarmament Commission, composed of delegates to the Assembly.

STOPS SAINT'S FETE; DEATH THREATENED

FEARS FOR SOCIETY'S FUNDS

Supreme Court Justice Cotillo granted an injunction yesterday in the suit of a member of an Italian benefit organization, restraining the organization from conducting a street celebration in honor of a patron saint, although it was made known a threat had been received that if the application were granted "several shootings" probably would result. The suit was brought by Vito Guarino against the Societa di Mutue Soccorso San Giovanni di Vizzini, Provincia di Catania.

In his opinion Justice Cotillo states that the plaintiff is a member of the organization formed to provide sick and death benefits for its members, and that the society is prohibited by its by-laws from political or religious activities. The members passed a resolution in May to hold a festival in Elizabeth Street in honor of San Giovanni di Vizzini, patron saint of the province of Catania, and an appropriation of $500 was voted for the expense, it being the purpose to vote additional funds if required.

Guarino and other members objected to the resolution on the ground that it was a diversion of the society's funds from the purposes for which they were accumulated. The defendant replied that such action had been taken in previous years. On this point Justice Cotillo said that "two wrongs do not make a right," and that the repetition of an unauthorized act did not make it legal.

Street Was to Be Decorated.

The society stated that the festival was to be held in Elizabeth Street, where arches of colored electric lights were to be erected and a statue of the patron saint was to be constructed on the sidewalk. On such occasions money is solicited from near-by stores and from pedestrians, and the funds are devoted to the purposes of the society.

Justice Cotillo points out that no records of the collections are kept and "the opportunity for the exploitation of ignorant immigrants is immense." His opinion continues:

"In the place of calm and dignified religious worship in church, under the guidance and supervision of clergymen, there is the noisy, fanatical and grotesque superficial religious display in the congested streets of the city under the domination of persons often with ulterior objects or seeking personal aggrandizement. Religion is not practised, but exploited. Processions are held in which the image of the saint is carried from street to street, preceded by a band and accompanied by a large display of lighted candles.

"In other words, defendant practically claims that this medieval expression of religious fervor, modernized by its mercenary aspects, is within the province and powers of the defendant, and that, since monetary profits may accrue therefrom, the festival does not fall within the inhibitions of its by-laws with regard to sectarian activities. I cannot agree with the defendant. Apart from all questions of public policy and the added burden these festivals lay upon endeavors to assimilate and Americanize those who participate in such festivals, the end does not legalize the means."

Says the Venture Is Risky.

Justice Cotillo points out that in 1923 a deficit of $1,000 resulted from a similar venture, and that in order to replenish the treasury it was found necessary to suspend payment of sick benefits for six months, to suspend the employment of the visiting doctors for the members, and to make additional assessments. The Court concludes:

"There could be no better example than this of what happens when social mutual benefit funds are used for purposes other than those for which they were originally intended. It is not the purpose of a court of equity to restrain the religious activities of any group of believers, but if it is desired to organize for the purpose of holding religious street festivals, let those interested organize specifically for such purpose and make known their object to those who may apply before any dues or assessments are paid."

Justice Cotillo declined to comment on the threat made in case he decided in favor of Guarino, but it is understood that it came from persons threatening to take action if Guarino were successful. The festivals such as Justice Cotillo restrains are held constantly in the Italian sections of the city and are usually conducted by church organizations, although societies often hold them.

Justice Cotillo is a Roman Catholic and a leader in Italian-American circles. He was a State Senator when he was elected to the bench last Fall.

QUITS AS McCOY'S COUNSEL.

R. D. Knickerbocker Leaves His Partner as Boxer's Sole Attorney.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—One of Kid McCoy's attorneys, R. D. Knickerbocker, withdrew from his defense today. His law partner, former Judge E. L. Davin, remains as counsel, however, and McCoy from his cell in the county jail appealed to his friends to centre their efforts in his behalf behind Judge Davin, who for years has been McCoy's warm personal friend.

Because of the ex-boxing champion's penniless condition, Judge Davin and Mr. Knickerbocker undertook his defense with no compensation in sight. They have been in touch with plans to raise defense funds in several cities. Some influential trial lawyers in this city will be added to McCoy's defense, Judge Davin declared.

Mrs. Mary Emily Selby, the 75-year-old mother of the man who is accused of murdering Mrs. Theresa Mors, today was sinking after the rally which followed her son's visit to her cottage last night. Dr. B. E. Fullmer said that her heart attacks may bring death at any time within two or three days.

The body of Mrs. Theresa Mors, for whose murder in Los Angeles by shooting Norman Selby (Kid McCoy) has been indicted, arrived here yesterday in charge of a friend of the family.

The body, in a metal coffin, arrived at the Grand Central Terminal at 3:30 P. M. It was removed to an undertaking establishment at 120 East 116th Street. Relatives and friends of Mrs. Mors declined to make known their plans, beyond saying that services would be held in the undertaker's chapel at 2 o'clock this afternoon and burial would be in a Brooklyn cemetery.

BRITAIN BUILDS SEAPLANES.

Powerfully Armed Craft to Patrol Sea Coasts.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Great Britain's coast line will in the near future be patrolled and guarded by powerful seaplanes now under construction for the navy. Each will carry a pilot; navigator; two machine gunners and a torpedo for launching at hostile surface craft.

Still more powerful planes are being built to make longer flights seaward, and these will carry five men each.

New Post for Rose F. Keogh.

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of Rose F. Keogh as secretary to Daniel L. Ryan, Transit Commissioner. Mr. Keogh, who has reported the Surrogates' Court in recent years for the New York City News Association, was chief clerk in the office of Mayor Van Wyck and Secretary of the New York Commission to the St. Louis Exposition. He is a resident of Pleasant Plains, S. I.

Express the Autumn Mode

One of the most insistent style notes for autumn is corded silks of the Ottoman family,—bengaline, faille, poplin and cotele. These heavy, rich silks are used effectively by Premet, Bechoff and Patou for costumes featuring slim, straight lines.

Our display of autumn silks includes bengaline, poplin, faille and cotele in lustrous black, and many of the newest autumn shades sponsored by Paris. 36 and 40 inches wide. Yard, from $4.50 to $8.95

The popularity of corded weaves extends to woolen fabrics as well. Their charming adaptability to the straightline silhouette makes them especially desirable for autumn street costumes. Shown in solid colors—shutter green, Malay, navy and black. Yard, $3.85; and English wool poplin in grey, brown, navy and black, with occasional pin stripes of softly contrasting color. Yard, $4.50. 54 inches wide.

Black Chantilly Lace

Bechoff is especially partial to lace for evening wear—and usually it is delicate Chantilly lace that is used;—often with a slip of metal cloth; other designers combine Chantilly with chiffon or tulle. Jersey Coast and Long Island Swept —Many Accidents In Heavy Downpour.

The edge of a hurricane in two section originating in the West Indies, accompanied by a torrential downpour lasting for many hours and approximating the record in inches for this time of the year, played havoc along the Jersey shore on Monday night and yesterday, flooded cellars and tied up trolley lines in this city and was responsible for many minor accidents and possibly for one or two fatal ones indirectly.

Off Atlantic City early yesterday morning, with a wind velocity of about sixty-six miles an hour, the Government dredge Orozal, with eighty men on board, broke from her moorings and would have been swept far to sea had she not stranded on the sand bar off the end of Connecticut Avenue. The dredge is of steel and valued at $325,000. She is commanded by Captain Robert E. Salmon. She stood a terrific pounding until three tugs arrived, lines were thrown aboard the dredge and it became possible to take the crew off by the use of breeches buoys, but the men chose to remain at their posts. Efforts to pull the dredge off the bar were unsuccessful, but it is believed that she will be floated today, if the sea is calmer, though the terrific pounding she has had will necessitate extensive repairs.

Along the Atlantic City shore chairs and tents and small structures suffered from the high wind, and inland trees were uprooted and telephone wires blown down. At Asbury Park the storm caused the postponement until Friday of the annual baby show, which was to have been held today. Decorations for the carnival, which had cost about $5,000, were wrecked.

Long Island suffered in much the same way as Jersey. Trees and electric light and telephone wires were blown down, but the farmers welcomed the downpour that accompanied the high wind nevertheless.

Boating Party Escapes.

A party consisting of Edward Nelson of this city, Miss Ella Leary, a school teacher of Hackensack, and Mrs. Henry P. Henderson started on a sailing trip from Patchogue on Monday.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Gene Osborne of the Blue Point life-saving station telephoned that Nelson's boat had been wrecked off the ocean beach. Nelson, who is an athlete, had succeeded in getting the two women ashore.

In this city, in Newark and in many other places slippery pavements and the high wind were responsible for falls and other accidents and for many automobile mishaps, some of which were serious. From the reports it appeared that twenty-four persons had been injured as a result of the storm conditions. Unmanageable automobiles caused most of the accidents.

Brooklynites suffered early yesterday through delays on some of the trolley lines, owing to the heavy rain. The water was a foot deep at Flatbush Avenue and Dorchester Road, and in the early morning the cars on the Flushing and Ridgewood trolley lines were interfered with because of puddles amounting in size to small lakes. B. M. T. workmen worked through the early morning hours clearing the tracks, and in some cases cars were rerouted. In practically every case the service had been fully restored before the morning rush hour began.

Flooded cellars were reported from a score of different sections of Brooklyn and Queens. At Bay Nineteenth Street and Eighty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, the water was two feet deep in the streets, which were wholly impassable. Similar conditions prevailed in parts of Winfield, Long Island and elsewhere.

Tug Sinks; Crew Is Saved.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 26.—The tug Mildred McNally of Philadelphia sank in Pamlico Sound last night when it was caught in the hurricane which swept the Virginia and North Carolina coasts. The crew of ten saved themselves in their own boats.

Apprehension is felt for the tug Bermuda, owned by the Southern Transportation Company, which, with three light barges behind her, was due at Cape Henry from New York at daylight today. Coast Guard stations between Cape Charles and Cape Henlopen were requested to watch for the vessel and the Coast Guard cutter Manning put out from Hampton Roads to search the shore for disabled craft.

Telegraph and telephone lines all along the coast were blown down by the gale, which formed in the Caribbean Sea Saturday and this morning was centred off Atlantic City, N. J. At Cape Henry the wind last night attained a velocity of sixty-eight miles an hour.

In Pamlico Sound, where the McNally tug foundered, the velocity was said to have approached eighty miles an hour. A shift of the wind from northeast to west at Norfolk this morning indicated that the storm had swept by and storm signals were ordered down between Baltimore and Beaufort.

LAST OF THE WHALERS WRECKED IN STORM

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 26.—The whaling bark Wanderer ended her career on Middle Ground Shoal today and search was being made tonight for eight members of her crew who had not been seen since shortly after they left the ship in a whale boat. Mate Gomes and the other seven men in the crew landed on Cuttyhunk Island.

Captain Antone Edwards, after sailing, decided that he needed more men in his crew, and last night he left the Wanderer at anchor and came ashore to recruit them. During a gale today the bark dragged her anchor and drifted toward Cuttyhunk. Seeing that she was being driven toward the shoal the crew abandoned her. The two whaleboats became separated and late tonight coast guardsmen had not been able to find one of them. There was a report which could not be verified that the boat had been sighted near the Sow and Pigs Lightship and a Coast Guard crew will put out for the lightship in the morning to renew the search.

The Wanderer struck the shoal soon after she was abandoned and the mate said that she would be a total loss. The whaler was built at Mattapoisett in 1878 and registered 288 tons net. She was 116 feet long.

The old square-rigger Wanderer is the last of New Bedford's once imposing fleet of whalers. She recently has been in the movies, figuring in "Down to the Sea in Ships," but Captain Antone Edwards decided to send her into the South Atlantic once more for sperm whales. It was planned to keep her out a year and then to dismantle here unless she should be wanted again for her screen value.

Last Week of These Sales for Men

Made-to-Measure Suits or Overcoats at $34.50

The Suits

The new woolens for Fall and Winter are now on display. Choose the fabric and pattern that please you. Select a model from those which will be worn next year by well-dressed men. Or, have copied a model which you now have and like. Be measured by our tailors.

Your suit will be made exactly as you want it, with minute attention to the little details that mark the made-to-measure suit. Hundreds of men have bought in this sale—they come back to us year after year, as soon as they hear that the sale is open. They know the value of a suit that fits your mind as well as your body.

The Overcoats

Men kept asking us why we didn't hold a sale of made-to-measure overcoats. This year we tried it. And man after man has come in and selected his overcoat for next Winter.

There are plenty of fabrics left for your selection. Big, burly cloths that will resist the cold. Softer, finer fabrics, if you prefer. And these will be made as you want them: ulsters, town ulsters, box coats, single or double-breasted. And when you are ready to wear your coat, when the chill winds come, it will be ready—you will not have to hustle around and buy one in a hurry.

The customary Wanamaker guarantee of satisfaction goes with every suit or overcoat in this sale. Plan now to take advantage of the savings before it is too late. In September the former prices will again prevail—and your chance to save will be gone.

LOVE NOTES WRITER FOUND IN GRAFF CASE

ANOTHER PARTNER QUIZZED

W. H. Kolvenbach Tells of Quarrel Between Death Victim and John Lugosy.

Two witnesses whom the police have wanted to question in connection with the murder of Aaron A. Graff, whose body was found in a vat in the cellar of 81 West Twelfth Street last week, were found yesterday.

One is William H. Kolvenbach of 150 West Seventy-seventh Street, who visited Mrs. John Lugosy, wife of the man suspected of the murder, last Sunday and told her he was still a partner of her husband in the radio manufacturing business. The other is Miss Rosalind Griffen, who wrote love letters from Pocomoke City, Md., which were found among the effects of Charles E. Raas, an associate of Lugosy and the dead man and who also is missing.

The police got in touch with the Griffen girl through the police of Raleigh, N. C. Raas probably is in Denmark, according to Miss Griffen. She said she had heard from him early last May, when he wrote that his father was ill in Denmark and that he wanted to go to him.

Additional information as to Raas's money affairs was given to the District Attorney's office by Kolvenbach. The latter said he understood that a balance still stood in an open account in Raas's favor at the Chatham and Phenix Bank, Fourteenth Street and Eighth Avenue. From other sources Assistant District Attorney Ryan learned that Raas deposited $209 there last March and made a deposit on May 24. On May 28 he cashed a small check. He has not appeared at the bank since.

Kolvenbach said the missing man's real name was Raasmussen. He said he had been a partner with both Lugosy and Graff and that both were "difficult." He had business relations with Graff early this year, but they dissolved partnership because of continued disagreements.

On June 15, he said, he and Lugosy formed a partnership and arranged with Graff to supply him with 1,000 radio cabinets. Graff was to make payment on the completion of the whole order. Lugosy demanded partial payment, but it was refused.

Kolvenbach said a violent quarrel then took place between himself and Lugosy as to whether they should complete the contract, Kolvenbach wishing to proceed. They parted without deciding what to do, but on July 22 he drew up an agreement terminating their partnership and went to Lugosy's home to get him to sign it.

An argument followed. The two men adjourned to the basement shop at 172 Sixth Avenue, he continued, where the argument was renewed, Lugosy asking Kolvenbach, the latter says, "if he wanted to have it out." They removed their coats, but their tempers subsided before they came to blows.

When he left Lugosy that day, Kovenbach said, he told him any future discussion of the subject would have to be made through his attorneys, Smith, Hymsfield & Weis. He says Lugosy agreed to meet him at their office on July 29, but failed to do so.

That was two days before Graff was last seen alive. Kolvenbach said he had neither seen nor heard from Lugosy after making the appointment. He said that when he read of the death of Graff and the disappearance of Lugosy he went to Mrs. Lugosy and offered to continue in business with her, feeling that the partnership between himself and her husband still existed. She refused, however, he said.

Kolvenbach was asked to return to the District Attorney's office to give further information.

While the investigation was at its height word was received that the body of a man answering the description of Lugosy had been found on Staten Island. It was identified later as that of Henry J. Wenk of 271 Rutland Road, Brooklyn, who was drowned on Aug. 22 while bathing in the Kill van Kull.

SAYS JEWISH FUND IS SAFE.

Louis Marshall Denies Russian Communists Got the $400,000.

A dispatch from Riga to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency on Saturday stated that the Joint Distribution Committee had allotted $400,000 for Jewish colonization work in the Crimea and criticised the committee for the alleged delivery of the relief fund to the Idgeskom, the communistic Jewish relief organization of the Soviet. Louis Marshall, Chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee, denied yesterday that the report was true.

"As to the appropriation of $400,000 that has been made for the purpose of helping Jewish farmers in Russia, it suffices to say that the fears entertained by your informant that the money is to be placed in the hands of Idgeskom, or under the control of the Russian Communist Party, are without foundation," said a statement by the telegraphic agency. "The money is to be administered solely under the supervision of Dr. Joseph Rosen as representative of the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee.

"Dr. Rosen's high character, his great experience and his expert knowledge are such as to inspire confidence and to satisfy the unprejudiced mind that our organization will continue to hold itself aloof from all political commitments and will administer this fund with the single purpose of performing valuable constructive work in enabling industrious and earnest men and women to engage in agricultural pursuits. Nothing is further remote from the minds of our committee than to foster the idea of the establishment of a communistic Jewish Republic. There never was any foundation for such a suggestion, and had such a plan been presented it would have been unhesitatingly rejected."

Colonel Herbert Lehman, Vice Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee, also said Dr. Rosen had gone abroad in charge of the work.

"In the opinion of the members of the Joint Distribution Committee," he added, "the possibility of favorable results commensurate with the amount involved is substantial. That some good will result is almost certain, while the possibilities for good in the event that this test meets with success are unlimited."

TO CALL AT CHERBOURG.

France Ends Restriction for Two Hamburg-American Liners.

The Hamburg-American Line announced yesterday that hereafter the passenger liners Deutschland and Albert Ballin would include Cherbourg as a regular port of call. The Southampton call will be maintained as heretofore.

The liners will leave New York at 10 A. M., instead of noon, commencing with the departure next Saturday of the Albert Ballin, which will inaugurate the service to Cherbourg.

This will be the first time in ten years that German steamers will have free access to French ports. Heretofore special permits for such call have been required.

GARY DOESN'T FEAR UNION LABOR VOTE

Working People in General Will Not Support La Follette, He Says.

PLEASED WITH BUSINESS

Recent Improvement Sound, the Steel Executive Declares, and the Outlook Is Satisfactory.

The day of the demagogue and the opportunity for politicians to influence the man in the street against his best judgment and his best interest are passing, in the opinion of Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, expressed following a meeting of directors in his office yesterday.

Capital, said Judge Gary, has reached the point where it expects to be subjected to Government supervision and he went on record as saying that he favored such Government supervision where it would benefit the people in general and injure none.

Commenting upon business conditions, he said that the recent improvement, "which can be viewed with satisfaction," was by no means artificial, but simply reflected the response of the growing feeling of confidence in all lines of business endeavor and the increased buying power of the world in general. Operations of the Dawes plan, in his opinion, will have a world-wide, effect on business conditions.

In a formal statement on business conditions, Judge Gary said "the iron and steel manufacturers of the country have every reason to feel satisfied with the business situation. The business atmosphere, while not so strong as some would like, is nevertheless healthful and peaceful. The information which I get regarding present conditions and future prospects is rather favorable. Crop reports in general are very good. Comparing the present reports with information received thirty days ago, they are, I should say, surprisingly good. It seems apparent that taken by and large the crops will be much larger than anticipated and certainly the value of them better than the farmers had any reason to expect a few months ago.

Sees Hope in Dawes Plan.

"This improvement in the agricultural situation furnishes a good foundation for our business hopes and beliefs. The Dawes plan is practically adopted and apparently will soon be carried into effect. This, of course, will have a good influence abroad particularly, and, in fact, include our own affairs.

"There are no labor troubles of any kind that are at all dangerous or threatening. There seem to be very nearly harmonious relations between employes and employers. Money is plentiful and rates of interest are low. The amount of building throughout the country is still large and it seems to be increasing. I think every one must be surprised by the number of improvements at the present time. Our corporation is making large expenditures and improvements, more so than we supposed would be necessary or possible a few months ago. We spend about $5,000,000 monthly on extensions and improvements and our plans are to spend that much for the remainder of the year. This appears to be necessary to take care of the business on hand and the volume we expect to receive.

"The railroads of the country are commencing to buy for Fall, Winter and next year. They are already placing orders for substantial amounts of new rails, equipment and other materials. I read in the papers this morning that the Republic of Argentina has a bigger building boom than ever before in its experience. In the City of Buenos Aires, with a population of about 2,000,000, new building is being carried on extensively. That means that their crops are good.

"The fact is that the improvement going on in business circles is in no respect artificial, but simply the response of the growing feeling of confidence and the increase in the buying power all over the world.

"There in in this country at the present time an unusual demand and desire for all goods produced and a peculiar ability to pay for them. As I have told you before, there has been a steady, though small improvement in business commencing several months ago. The improvement up to date has been greater than I expected, and is fully as large as I would like to see it. I mean by that, that I would rather see slow, steady growth in demand for goods, than rapid progress which might result in sudden material reaction at any time. Our new business, that is new orders, according to the last report received, for the first twenty-two days in August were 10 per cent. more than in July, and July was larger than in June. Shipments in the first sixteen days of August were 18.3 per cent. larger than in July.

His Views on the Campaign.

"With respect to the approaching election, I will state, what may be considered a repetition, that I think more and more as the days go by that the people of this country will carefully consider and intelligently decide what candidate would be likely to be the most careful, prudent, economical, wise and progressive and thereby add the most to the progress and prosperity of this country and then vote for that candidate.

"The people of the country, as a rule, do not need the advice of, nor will they listen to the claims of a politician who is influenced to speak from his own desires and ambition when they are trying to ascertain what is really for their best interest, taking everything into consideration."

Following his formal statement Judge Gary was asked as to what percentage union labor represents of labor as a whole. Judge Gary said: "I think I know what you have in mind by asking that question." In his capacity as head of the Steel Corporation he has had considerable experience with organized labor and gave the impression that he had made a study of the effect the American Federation of Labor indorsement of the La Follette ticket would have on the chances of that candidate.

"There are in the United States individuals who are termed what is called 'gainfully employed,' about 41,500,000 people," he went on. "The membership of the American Federation of Labor numbers about 2,925,000. Outside of those affiliated with the Federation are organizations which include about 700,000 members in their unions. That would make a total membership of 3,625,000 in organized labor. Five per cent. of those members are under 21 years of age. Twenty-five per cent. are not citizens of the United States. Of the votes of these organizations there are 50 per cent. naturally Republican and 50 per cent. Democratic or Socialistic. Now you see that if these labor union leaders could control the votes of their members there would be few votes for the La Follette ticket. But the leaders do not control the votes of the labor union membership. In 1908 the American Federation of Labor came out against Taft, but that had very little effect. A few years ago they came out for Cox, but this again had no effect on the election."

Cites Federation's Decline.

Judge Gary then read some figures covering the membership of the Federation of Labor in the last few years. He said the Federation had a membership of 4,078,000 in 1920. This dropped to 3,906,000 in 1921, to 3,195,000 in 1922 and to 2,926,000 in 1923.

"I have nothing against the American Federation of Labor," said Judge Gary, "but I merely attempt to show what may surprise many politicians. These figures indicate that the organized labor vote will have little influence on the election."

Commenting further on general conditions so far as politics are concerned, Judge Gary said: "I have nothing against any candidate or ticket, or against La Follette, except to say that the working people will not vote for him, as the majority of the fair-minded people believe the election of the La Follette ticket would be injurious to the prosperity and legitimate progress of the country.

POLICE STOP BUSES OF B. M. T. IN QUEENS

Two Drivers Served With Summonses on Mayor's Orders—Brooklyn Line Not Molested.

PEOPLE PRAISE SERVICE

Company Announces Injunction Will Be Sought Restraining the Police From Interference.

The Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation ran free buses in Brooklyn yesterday without interference by the police, despite the order of Mayor Hylan to Commissioner Enright to take summary action if the company operated buses over routes already used by independent companies. The innovation was not so successful in Queens, however, for after free buses had been operated all day in the Richmond Hill sections drivers of two of the vehicles were stopped by the police just before 9 o'clock last night and served with summonses to appear in the Jamaica Police Court this morning.

The Richmond Hill buses ran from Rockaway Boulevard and 118th Street to Sutphin Boulevard and Hillside Avenue, connecting there with the elevated. They were well patronized all day, especially by women and children, and appeared to give satisfaction. For three-quarters of a mile the line paralleled a bus service of an independent company operating with the sanction of the Department of Plant and Structures. Shortly before 9 o'clock last night a mounted policeman stopped two buses which were proceeding along Liberty Avenue in Richmond Hill and gave summonses to the drivers, Frank Fauvell and James McWenna. The policeman first telephoned for authority, and then explained to the drivers that they were operating on a street already being served by a bus company, contrary to the Mayor's orders.

If the drivers are held in court today the B. M. T. will apply for an injunction restraining the police from interference with the free service. The company announced Monday that it would give free service over this route, as well as the one in Brooklyn, again on Thursday. An early report had it that two buses were stopped on Bay Parkway in Brooklyn by patrolmen and the drivers served with summonses which were later revoked, but this was denied at the Bath Beach and Sheepshead Bay police stations.

Officials of the B. M. T. expressed themselves as highly elated over the "experiment" and declared they would continue the free service at odd times just to impress their patrons with "the transportation convenience the Hylan administration is withholding from them." The officials declared that thousands of satisfied customers had commended the bus service and expressed the hope that the Board of Estimate would grant the franchises asked for. A free service in Brownsville will be operated on Friday, and Saturday of this week and next Wednesday, it was announced.

"This is a good day for the Mayor to stop any service that serves the people," commented Gerhard M. Dahl, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the B. M. T., when told that the police had received orders to stop the free buses. "We are running sample service today and Thursday on the Kings Highway and Richmond Hill routes so that the public may see and use our buses and form their own judgment, independent of the Mayor, as to whether they like the buses, favor the routes and want the B. M. T. to operate them. At the end of the week we will run a similar service on the Brownsville route. We own the buses. We have State licenses for them. We have the right to carry people as our guests and that is what we are doing. We are glad to be of service on a rainy day. It suits the people even if it does not suit the Mayor. The Mayor is a bit excited.

"There are no buses being operated under the supervision of the Department of Plant and Structures on these routes proposed by the B. M. T., so Commissioner Enright does not need to take the Mayor's advice seriously. The B. M. T. has applied to the Board of Estimate for franchises to operate buses on three routes and it has stated that it is ready to lay out a compresensive system of routes, supplemental to its existing transit and surface systems.

"It is prepared to operate such routes on a fare system at cost, including interest on cost, or to provide a reduced fare transfer system to surface, elevated and subway lines. In other words, the B. M. T. is prepared to operate bus routes in the territory in Brooklyn and Queens served by this company on better terms than any one else can offer. If Mayor Hylan is interested in service to the public instead of issues to catch votes he will act promptly on our application. At any rate, the people will know whether favoritism is to play any part in final action on bus applications."

Five buses were operated on a ten-minute headway over both the Kings Highway and the Richmond Hill route, it was announced by the B. M. T. During the morning and evening rush hours the buses were jammed, many taking advantage of them to escape the heavy rain during the morning. During the rest of the day children took advantage of the occasion for free rides. The buses on the Kings Highway route were especially commended, many residents openly praising the new system, saying it was the only practical means of transportation that they had in getting to the subway stations. This route starts at Ocean Avenue and extends through the Highway and Twenty-second Avenue, to Gravesend Bay. Many civic associations praised the service, declaring it was needed to link the Brighton Beach, Culver, Sea Beach and West End lines, which spread like a fan from downtown Brooklyn and Manhattan. The Flatbush Chamber of Commerce and the Kings Highway Board of Trade have been urging such a service for several years, and yesterday's experiment was hailed as a step toward the realization of their endeavors.

Chairman Dahl congratulated Mayor Hylan yesterday for giving approval to the McKibben and Harrison Place sections of the Fourteenth Street subway through Brooklyn. His letter to the Mayor said:

"At last, after seven years of delay, we learn by today's newspapers that your Board of Transportation is actually going to get busy by advertising for bids for construction of certain sections of the Fourteenth Street line to East New York.

"Despite all of your abusive language it looks as if you had finally decided that you could not bluff the public any longer and that you were going to dig. The car riders and the public who have been waiting seven years will be glad to get this news. Furthermore, why do you not explain to the people that the Fourteenth Street line to East New York will be connected with the B. M. T. system and will be operated by us? If the B. M. T. is capable of operating this line, why not also the Nassau Street line?

"I congratulate you and the Board of Transportation on the announcement that you have already prepared a form of advertising for bids on construction and within six weeks bids will be invited for the work. Rest assured that you cannot build the Fourteenth Street line to East New York too soon for the suffering public. Also rest assured that as soon as you finish the job, the B. M. T. will have the trains and equipment ready for immediate service. If the advertisement which I inserted in yesterday's newspapers forced you to start building subways it was certainly worth the cost."

The Queens Bus Lines, Inc., of which Harris Nevin is President, and which has applied to the Board of Estimate for a franchise to operate a bus line over certain streets in Queens, yesterday wrote to the Mayor asking for a franchise to operate buses over the Kings Highway and the Brownsville routes over which the B. M. T. proposes to operate.

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT SHOWS NO CHANGES

July Level Same as in June, but Factory Employment Continues to Decline.

WHOLESALE PRICES HIGHER

Federal Reserve Board Reports Increase in Costs of Farm Products, Food and Clothing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — Production in basic industries maintained the same level in July as in June, although there had been a considerable decline in the previous months, the Federal Reserve Board announced today. Factory employment, however, continued to decline. Wholesale prices increased for the first time since early in the year, reflecting chiefly the advance in the prices of farm products.

The board issued the following summary of general business and financial conditions based upon statistics for July and August:

"The Federal Reserve Board's index of production in basic industries, which had declined 22 per cent. between February and June, remained practically unchanged during July. Iron and steel and woolen industries showed further curtailment, while production of flour, cement, coal and copper was larger than in June.

"Factory employment decreased 4 per cent. in July, owing to further reduction of forces in the textile, metal and automobile industries. Building contract awards showed more than the usual seasonal decline in July, but were 10 per cent. larger than a year ago.

"Crop conditions, as reported by the Department of Agriculture, were higher on Aug. 1 than a month earlier. Estimated production of narly all of the principal crops except tobacco was larger than in July, and the yields of wheat, oats, rye and cotton are expected to be considerably larger than last year.

"Wholesale trade was 3 per cent. larger than in June, owing to increased sales of meat, dry goods and drugs, but was 8 per cent. smaller than a year ago. Retail trade showed the usual seasonal decline in July, and department store sales were 1 per cent. greater and mail order sales 7 per cent. less than a year ago. Merchandise stocks at department stores continued to decline during July, and were only slightly larger at the end of the month than a year earlier.

"Wholesale prices, as measured by the index of the Bureau of Labor statistics, increased more than 1 per cent. in July. Prices of farm products, foods and clothing increased, while prices of building materials again declined sharply, and prices of metals, fuel and house-furnishings also decreased. During the first half of August quotations on corn, beef, sugar, silk, copper, rubber and anthracite advanced, while prices of cotton, flour and bricks declined.

"Commercial loans of member banks in leading cities, owing partly to seasonal influences, increased considerably early in August. Loans secured by stocks and bonds and investments continued to increase, so that at the middle of August total loans and investments of those banks were larger than at any previous time. Further growth of demand deposits carried them also to the highest level on record.

"Between the middle of July and the middle of August Federal Reserve Bank discounts for member banks declined further and their holdings of acceptances decreased somewhat. United States security holdings increased, however, and total earning assets of Federal Reserve Banks remained practically unchanged.

"Continued easing in money rates in the New York market during July and early August is indicated by a decline of one-quarter of 1 per cent. in prevailing rates for commercial paper to 3¾ per cent. After the middle of August there was some advance in open-market rates for bankers' acceptances and short-term Government securities. During August the discount rate at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was reduced from 3½ to 3 per cent. and at the Federal Reserve Banks of Cleveland and of San Francisco from 4 to 3½ per cent."

GIANTS' 4 IN NINTH SUBDUE CUBS, 11-9

ALEXANDER THE VICTIM

In First Appearance Since June 25 Relieves Blake After Victors Pile Up Six-Run Lead in First.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Losing a seven-run lead they had built up in the first two innings and apparently headed straight for defeat, the Giants rallied in the ninth inning today and beat the Cubs by a score of 11 to 9. Two errors by George Grantham with one out in the ninth opened the way for the winning attack launched by the Giants. On the heels of the fumbles came a double by Frisch and singles by Young and Meusel that resulted in four runs and the victory.

Grover Cleveland Alexander had the defeat thrust upon him after he pitched excellently from the time he relieved John Blake when the youngster vanished under a strong fire from the Giants in the first inning. This was Alexander's first appearance in action since he was injured on June 25. Alexander was pulled out during the Giant rush in the ninth and Jacobs was called in to retire the Giants.

A string of five pitchers were used up by the Giants, Wayland Dean, Bill Ryan, Ernie Maun and Hughie McQuillan being called in after Claude Jonnard, who had started the game, petered out in the third inning. The Giant pitchers were very wild and gave, all told, ten passes. The Giants gathered twenty hits, five of which were made by Young, who had a perfect day at bat.

Giants Score Six in First.

Only one of their number had been retired—and that one on a sacrifice fly—when the Giants put the rollers under Blake. Groh singled to left to start the game and Frisch doubled to right centre. Young contributed the sacrifice fly, which went to Statz and which scored Groh and sent Frisch to third. Meusel doubled to right, scoring Frisch, and the bases were loaded when Kelly was hit by a pitched ball and Wilson beat out a tap in front of the plate.

It was at this period that Alexander relieved Blake. He forced Meusel in by walking Jackson, and Gowdy followed with a single to right centre that scored Kelly and Wilson and put Jackson on third. Jackson scored when Cotter fumbled a bunt by Jonnard that was intended as a sacrifice. Groh, however, forced Jonnard and Frisch filed to Grigsby, ending this assault.

Leading off in the second inning, Young doubled to left, hustled down to third after Grigsby's catch of Meusel's long fly, and scored when Kelly singled to left. Back came the Cubs with two runs in their half of this inning. A base on balls to Friberg, a single by Grigsby and another base on balls, this one to Cotter, loaded the sacks, and Alexander singled to centre, scoring Friberg and Grigsby.

Jonnard Is Taken Out.

Jonnard was taken out after he had walked Grantham and Weis with one out in the third inning, and Dean started by walking Friberg, so that the bases were filled. Grigsby forced Friberg, but Grantham scored while the play was in motion. The inning ended with Frisch making a diving catch of a line drive from O'Farrell's bat. Dean was reached for a run in the fourth on a base on balls to Cotter and singles by Adams, Grantham and Weis.

Ryan retired in the sixth inning after he had walked Adams and Statz, allowed a hit to Grantham and walked Weis, forcing in Adams. With Maun pitching for the Giants, Friberg singled to right, scoring Statz and Grantham and, after Grigsby had fouled out, O'Farrell singled to centre, scoring Weis and putting the Cubs in the lead.

Three line drives retired the Giants in the seventh inning. Groh lined to Friberg, Frisch to Adams and after Young had singled to centre, Meusel lined to Alexander.

In the home half of the inning a run was scored by Adams, a pass to Grantham, an infield hit by Weis and a sacrifice fly by Friberg.

LEAGUE CONSENT REQUIRED.

Ruth Must Appeal to Owners to Play on Coast, Landis Advises.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—If Babe Ruth wishes to play exhibition games in San Francisco after the close of the American League pennant race for the benefit of the poor and orphans, he will be obliged to obtain the consent of all the American League club owners, including Colonel Ruppert, President of the Yankees.

Ruth, appealing to Commissioner Landis for permission to play after the season, was advised that the Commissioner was without power to grant his request.

Before the rule was changed, Commissioner Landis, together with other baseball officials forming the advisory council, could grant permission for barnstorming trips.

21ST HOMER FOR HORNSBY

Rogers Gets Sixth Circuit Drive in Six Days and Also Makes Three Doubles.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—The Robins closed their last Western trip of the season here today with a victory over the Cardinals. The score was 7 to 4.

Burleigh Grimes pitched for the Robins and Rogers Hornsby made a home run and three doubles off his delivery. Hornsby's home run was made in the fourth inning and it was his twenty-first circuit blow of the season, also his sixth homer in six days. His hitting figured in the first three runs made by his team.

Johnny Stuart started for the Cards and in the sixth inning was knocked off the mound. Jesse Fowler and Herman Bell followed Stuart to the slab. The Robins made thirteen hits off their combined delivery.

In the first inning with two out Hornsby lifted a short fly to left field, but Wheat was playing deep and the ball dropped safely for a two-bagger. Grimes ended the frame by fanning Bottomley.

Robins Rally in Third.

The Robins did not score until the third frame, when they sent four men over the plate. Taylor opened with a single and after Grimes was retired, High made a single. Mitchell and Wheat drew successive passes and Taylor was forced over the plate. Fournier's sacrifice fly scored High and enabled the other two men to move up. Brown shot a single to left that sent Mitchell and Wheat home. Brown took second on the throw to the plate, but was left stranded when Myers made a good stop and threw out Stock.

Hornsby led off in the fourth and hit the first ball Grimes pitched. The ball struck the base of the scoreboard in left field and bounced into an open space beside the bleacher seats for a home run.

Stuart's stay in the game ended in the sixth when the Robins increased their lead. With one out Griffith doubled to right and scored on a single by Taylor. Grimes singled over second and the hit brought Fowler, a southpaw, into the contest. High greeted him with a single that filled the bases. Mitchell's infield out enabled Taylor to score.

Hornsby made another scratch double in the sixth, and it was turned into another Cardinal tally. Rogers hit to short right and Griffith dashed in, got his hands on the ball, but was unable to hold it. The blow was scored as a double and Hornsby counted on a single by Blades. Hornsby opened the eighth with his third double and two infield outs enabled him to score with the third Cardinal tally.

Robins Score Again in Ninth.

Singles by Brown and Griffith and Bottomley's muff of Smith's throw to first base in the ninth enabled the Robins to hang up their final tally.

In the Cardinals' half of the seventh Umpire Sweeney was hit by a foul tip and had to leave the game. The ball glanced off Sherdel's bat and struck the umpire's left kneecap. He wanted to stay in the game, but the players prompted him to leave and Umpire Quigley, who had been stationed at third base, went behind the bat.

SENATORS ARE HELD TO AN EVEN BREAK

SHOCKER DISPLAYS FORM

Yields Only 5 Hits, Stops Washington's Streak of 8 Straight—Ogden Beats Danforth.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Washington divided honors with St. Louis in a double-header, the Browns winning, 7 to 0, before the Senators triumphed, 6 to 2.

Shocker held the Senators to five scattered hits in the first encounter, while his clubmates hammered three Washington pitchers. The Senators had won eight straight before being stopped. In the second engagement Ogden never was in serious trouble, but Danforth was free with hits and passes and was driven from the mound in the sixth.

By breaking even the Senators lost one percentage point, as the Yankees were idle, and now are two points behind the leaders.

SARAZEN CAPTURES HURON HANDICAP

SHOWS HEELS TO AGA KHAN

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Running under the black and salmon silks of the Fair Stable, Sarazen, chestnut son of High Time and Rush Box, this afternoon vindicated the faith of those who maintained that he would eventually return to the form which carried him undefeated through his two-year-old campaign by winning with ease the twenty-second running of the Huron Handicap for three-year-olds over the course of a mile and a sixteenth.

Sarazen picked up his weight of 126 pounds and ran at the head of a field of five from start to finish, going the distance in 2:02 4-5. Johnny Maiben had the mount and the race was run over a muddy track. It was worth $8,850 to Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt 2d, who races under the nom de course of the Fair Stable.

Sarazen's victory was extremely popular. It was the longest course he had ever been called upon to negotiate, and the manner in which he did it was enough to convince spectators that he is something more than a sprinter. He came home a length and a half in front of the Belair Stud's Aga Khan, to which he was conceding fourteen pounds, winning with his ears pricked. Horse and rider were accorded a great reception as they came back to the scales.

Mrs. Vanderbilt watched the race and was warmly congratulated on the return of Sarazen to form. The gelding cost her $35,000 as a two-year-old and was a bargain at the money. The victory of Sarazen was also a triumph for Max Hirsch, who has always contended that Sarazen could stay. The gelding now looms up as one of the strongest contenders for the international race at a mile and a quarter at Latonia. He is ineligible for the first and second races of the series.

While the weather was threatening all morning, the rain held off, and during the late afternoon the sun came out at intervals. It was too late, however, to benefit the track, which was muddy all afternoon. The condition of the track almost ruined the afternoon program, scratches being made by the wholesale.

Added Starters Run.

With Klondyke, Apprehension, Mr. Mutt, Sparkling Wit and Sunayr scratched out of the Huron Handicap, R. T. Wilson Jr. added Wampee and Gifford A. Cochran sent along Sun Flag as an added starter, making a field of five to parade. Sarazen looked fit his best.

There were many who believed that Mrs. Vanderbilt's gelding could not negotiate the distance with his weight up. Sarazen opened at 4 to 1, but had plenty of supporters and he was hammered down to 11 to 5 at post time. Sun Flag opened at 2 to 1, but went to 12 to 5 at post time. Aga Khan closed at 8 to 1, Wampee at 6 to 1 and Big Blaze at 4 to 1.

Wampee drew the post position on the rail, with Sarazen on the extreme outside, getting better going in the race down the home stretch for the first turn. Sarazen was the first to get under way and was able to take the rail on the turn. Sun Flag was nearest the leader, a length behind on the back stretch and that was the nearest that any of them got to the game little gelding.

Sun Flag weakened under his 118 pounds and on the final turn Fields brought up Aga Khan to chase the flying leader, while Big Blaze could not improve his position, running third from start to finish. In the drive for home Sarazen never faltered. Fields rode Aga Khan to his limit but could not gain an inch on Sarazen. Maiben did not go to the whip. At the end Sarazen won easily by a length and a half from Aga Khan, which was two and a half lengths in front of Big Blaze.

Sarazen gave away all the way from eight to twenty-six pounds, Wampee being in with the feather of 100 pounds. While the official time was 2:02 4-5 private watches caught it in 2:03 3-5, with the fractional times as follows: 0:25, 0:50, 1:16 3-5, 1:44.

The Malone Handicap resulted in an easy victory for William Marin's Brice, the rank outsider of the party, at 10 to 1. Brice, with Breuning up, ran out in front all the way, winning easily by a couple of lengths from E. B. McLean's Noel. Mrs. J. Cosden's Olynthus was third. The Rancocas Stable's Thunderclap, the 8 to 5 favorite, never got going and finished last.

Reply Is Winner.

Mrs. T. W. O'Brien's Reply, a 15 to 1 shot, won the Waterford Purse, a six furlong sprint for three-year-olds and upward. Reply was making her first start after a Canadian campaign. Thurber got the filly off running and she stayed out in front all the way. Parke, on H. P. Whitney's Swingalong, followed the leader, but the colt stopped in the stretch under his top weight of 114 pounds and was beaten a neck by C. A. Stoneham's Dry Moon for the place.

The claiming race for three-year-olds and upward, a gallop of a mile and a quarter, resulted in a victory for Mrs. M. L. Davis's Anniversary. Anniversary had been slow in getting under way, but he gained steadily on the leaders and was ridden out in the drive home to win by a couple of lengths from Little Ammie. May Party took third money. The race was run in 2:13 2-5.

I. A. C. Will Ask A. A. U. To Lift Ban on Miss Lackie

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The Illinois Athletic Club will "fight to a finish" in an effort to have Ethel Lackie, I. A. C., swimming star, reinstated by the Middle Atlantic A. A. U., which has suspended her and eleven others, including Olympic team stars, for competing in an unsanctioned meet, Charles A. Dean, Athletic Chairman of the I. A. C., said today. If necessary the fight will be carried to the national organization, Dean asserted. He has asked Eastern officials for particulars. The unsanctioned meet was held last Friday at Ocean City, N. J., and Miss Lackie established a record of 1:04 1-5 for the 100-yard free style.

EPINARD EN ROUTE FROM SARATOGA

Famous French Colt Due to Reach Belmont Park Course This Morning.

ZEV LOOMS AS CONTENDER

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Epinard left here at 7 o'clock this evening and is expected to arrive at Belmont Park tomorrow morning about 10 o'clock.

Leigh said tonight a few minutes before taking the train that he was entirely satisfied with the condition of his charge. It is expected that the French four-year-old will be worked on Thursday morning and have his final wind-up in preparation for International Race No. 1 on Saturday morning. There will be light exercise on Sunday morning, which will prepare the invader for his first test against the best that America can offer on Monday afternoon.

That the son of Badajoz and Epine Blanche came through his speed trial of yesterday in first-class shape was shown this morning when he came out for his morning exercise. He was as playful as ever and went for a slow gallop of a couple of miles. Leonard Madden was in the saddle, as his regular jockey, Everett Haynes, had already started for New York.

Strong Field Expected.

The outlook for a strong field in the international race is better than a week ago when there was some doubt as to the condition of Zev. A five furlong move in a minute, which was accomplished a few mornings ago, however, on the part of the winner of the race with Papyrus, has brought the Rancocas four-year-old forward, and he is now regarded as a sure starter.

It was thought at one time that Grey Lag might be sent to the post also in the first race. But the way the chestnut horse is training tends to the belief that he will be the Rancocas Stable's hope for the mile at Aqueduct on Saturday, Sept. 7, and for the mile and a quarter at Latonia on Saturday, Oct. 1. The great son of Star Shoot worked an eighth a few mornings since in a shade under 11 seconds.

The West has two strong strings to its bow in Wise Counselor and Baffling. John Ward and his partner are keen on the chances of the former and say that if he is beaten they will have no excuses to offer. E. R. Bradley thinks well of Baffling. Jefferson Livingston evidently shared in the belief, as he offered Mr. Bradley $60,000 for the son of North Star III. today.

"I want to see my colors in that race, and the horse is not for sale at any price," was Mr. Bradley's response to the offer. Wise Counselor and the balance of the Ward horses will be at Belmont Park tomorrow, and it is just possible Worthwore, a sprinter of parts, may also sport the Ward silks on Monday.

Miss Star Ready.

Another sure starter for the race Monday is Miss Star, now the property of the Audley Farm, the turf name of B. B. and Montfort Jones. This fleet mare has recently shown all her old-time speed and will be saddled by Fred Taral, who still has her in charge. Major Belmont has Ladkin and Lucky Play to draw on. Both have a world of speed and are numbered among the most promising of American defenders. Wilderness is another fast horse that will probably get to the post.

Pierre Wertheimer has been in communication with Leigh by radio every day and knows that his horse is training well. The French sportsman will arrive on the Berengaria on Friday. He will be the guest of President Richard T. Wilson at dinner on the night of Labor Day. The invitation was sent him a few days ago by the wife of the President of the Saratoga Association.

There will be no increase in prices for the first international race as far as the general public is concerned. The general admission will be $3.85, which will admit to the grand stand, although it will be a case of first come first served. There have been a few seats reserved in a special section as usual. These will be at special prices and have been practically allotted. As in the case of the Zev-Papyrus race, the infield will be thrown open at $1.50 per person. The total capacity of the grand stand at Belmont Park is 17,500.

BIG FOUR TO MEET SECOND TEAM TODAY

U. S. Polo Stars Will Face Stern Opposition on Grace Field in Practice Match.

WILL BE LAST HARD TEST

Contest Against Team of Nearly Equal Rating to Be Closely Watched—Name Officials.

Rain prevented the English polo team from undergoing a severe workout on Cochrane Field yesterday with the California horsemen, recent winners of the national junior championship at Rumson, as its opponent, but the American four will continue its preparations this afternoon, being scheduled to meet the second team on Grace Field. Today's game probably will be the final stiff encounter that the new Big Four will face before it startes the defense of the International Challenge Cup on International Field, Sept. 6.

The American representatives will meet the strongest opposition that it has been called on to face so far during the practice season, and it will be the supreme test of the new Big Four's ability. The horsemen in Blue today will be Earle W. Hopping, Eric Pedley, Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. and Harry East, and with the substitutes still hopeful of earning places on the combination which will represent the United States next month the going should be fast from start to finish.

In its recent practice matches the American combination has gone along at a smooth pace that has been encouraging to the members of the Defense Committee of the United States Polo Association, but the Big Four has earned its overwhelming victories against teams that possessed little power. The string of substitutes, aided by Harry East, however, is a truly formidable combination and one that is nearly equal to the men who have been selected to defend the historic trophy. Should the Big Four come through today's contest with any sort of a safe margin followers of the team will feel confident that the cup will remain in the United States for another three years.

It was announced yesterday by the United States Polo Association that Captain Wesley K. White of the United States Army and Colonel Vernon Keighley of the British Army have been officially selected as umpires for the coming international series. Captain White has been officiating in all the trial matches for the American team, while Colonel Keighley has acted in a like capacity for the British four. Since the invaders reached this country both men have been handling the games.

WALKER IS LEADER IN TITLE CYCLING

Bike Star Has 135 Points in All-Around Competition—Goullet Is Second.

Cecil Walker, Australian cyclist, is leading in the race for the professional all-around cycling championship title, according to the point standing announced yesterday by the National Cycling Association. Walker's brilliant riding has earned for him a total of 135 points, giving the Australian an advantage of thirty-one tallies over Al Goullet, American star, who is second with 104 points. Al Grenda, Tasmanian, is third with 94.

In the struggle for the American motor-paced championship, George Chapman, present champion, is leading his rivals with a total of 144 points. This aggregate gives Chapman an advantage of five points over Vincent Madonna, Italian rider, who has 139 tallies. Henry Wynsdau, Belgian, is third with 95 points.

Richard Schneider of the Bay View Wheelmen is showing the way in the chase for the amateur all-around title with a total of 101 points. John Otto is second with 73 and Paul Croley, New Crescent Wheelmen rider, who recently captured the amateur sprint title, is third with 68 points.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 26.—Despite the rain a late start was made this afternoon in the club series, but races were staged for but one division and in the three events in this class the Stamford Yacht Club's Class B crew was eliminated. A north wind that shifted to northwest forced the skippers to reef their sails and caused some discomfort among the sailors.

Prince Invited by Commission To See Boxing Matches Here

Among the flood of invitations which the Prince of Wales will receive on his arrival in this country will be one from the State Athletic Commission inviting him to attend any boxing match while he is here as a guest of the commission, Chairman George E. Brower announced yesterday. The Prince already has arranged to witness the Harry Wills-Luis Firpo fight on Sept. 11 in Jersey City as a guest of the Polo Association. Still another invitation was extended to the Prince yesterday to attend the world's flyweight title bout between Pancho Villa and Frankie Genaro, to be held at the Nostrand A. C., Brooklyn, as a guest of Frank Churchill, Villa's manager.

STRIBLING FAVORITE OVER BERLENBACH

Both Boxers Below 170 Pounds for Velodrome Bout Tonight—Lee Replaces Midget Smith.

When Paul Berlenbach enters the ring tonight at the New York Velodrome for his six-round bout against Young Stribling, Macon (Ga.) light-heavyweight, the hard-hitting Astoria boxer will be battling for a chance to meet Mike McTigue, world's light-heavyweight champion, in a bout at Madison Square Garden on the night of Oct. 3.

Charlie Rose, representing McTigue, yesterday discussed with Matchmaker Frank Flournoy of the Garden terms for a match between McTigue and Berlenbach, in the event that Berlenbach disposes of Stribling tonight. Pending the outcome of the Velodrome quarrel, definite arrangements for the proposed championship match were deferred. Rose, however, declared that McTigue is eager for a joust with Berlenbach, and indicated that the champion would not submit exorbitant terms for the bout.

Berlenbach and Stribling worked out in the Garden gymnasium yesterday. The pair met in the gymnasium, and after greeting each other, repaired to separate parts of the gym floor for a light drill. Boxing was eliminated from the closing workout of each boxer, each confining his efforts to shadow boxing, bag punching and other light exercises. Each expressed satisfaction with his condition when the drill ended.

The boxers reported themselves below the stipulated 170 pounds, and each said he would enter the ring around 168 pounds. Despite the alarming reports of the cold he contracted several days ago, Stribling ruled a slight favorite in the betting yesterday, but the indications pointed to the boxers entering the ring on even terms in this respect.

A change was necessitated in the preliminary bouts when Midget Smith, Harlem bantamweight, who was scheduled to box Joe Ryder of Brooklyn, notified Matchmaker Flournoy that illness would prevent his fulfilling his contract. Danny Lee, Harlem boxer, immediately was pressed into service as an opponent for Ryder in one of two twelve-round bouts. Eddie Burmbrook and K. O. Phil Kaplan, welterweights, will clash in the other twelve-round encounter. In a four-round battle Julio Fernandez will meet Red Cap Wilson.

BOXES WILLS'S SHADOW.

Firpo Studies Rival's Fights, Then Practices Them Round by Round.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Luis Angel Firpo is utilizing his leisure moments these days studying round-by-round press reports of the fights in which Harry Wills, his forthcoming opponent, has participated in the last three years. The Argentine commits to memory one round of a Wills fight, then clears the sitting room in his cottage and boxes Wills's shadow. Sometimes he calls in Big Bill Tate, his sparring partner, to prompt him as he flings punches at the Black Panther's shadow.

Firpo boxed four rounds today, two with Joe Stoessel and two with Tate. It was Stoessel's last day in camp and Firpo gave him plenty to think about. The Argentine's left was working to perfection. With the exception of road work in the morning, Firpo is expecting to rest tomorrow.

INCREASE ARENA CAPACITY.

Add 1,200 to Henderson's Bowl for Villa-Genaro Bout.

Announcement was made yesterday by Promoter Charles L. Henderson of completion of arrangements to increase the seating capacity of the Nostrand A. C., Brooklyn, in anticipation of a record crowd for the world's flyweight championship bout between Pancho Villa and Frankie Genaro, scheduled for the Brooklyn arena on Sept. 4.

The arena ordinarily seats 19,538 people, Henderson said, adding that alterations have resulted in the installation of an additional 1,200 seats and an improvement in the view offered from the bleacher section of the arena. Henderson expressed confidence that his supply of tickets for the match will be exhausted before the day of the battle.

NAVY MEN TO SEE GAMES.

Large Cheering Sections Assured for Princeton and Army Contests.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 26.—The Naval Academy will have strong rooting sections at the Princeton game at Princeton on Oct. 18 and the army game in the Baltimore Stadium on Nov. 29. Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, superintendent, has announced that he will permit the members of the three upper classes to take the former trip and the whole student body to go to Baltimore for the service game.

McCREA REGAINS TITLE.

Victory Over Cole Restores 10-Mile Running Championship.

George McCrea of Banknock has regained the ten-mile world's professional running championship, which he lost in Paris in 1921 to Leon de Nys. His opponent in the recent title race for £50 as a side at Powderhall Grounds, Edinburgh, was R. E. Cole of Hereford, who had gained the championship through the default of de Nys and had further substantiated his claim by his victory at Northfield, Edinburgh, over J. Kerr of Alloa. F. A. Lumley was referee of the race between McCrea and Cole, and Captain Cornelius of the Canadian Olympic party, watched Cole's interests in the race.

Injury Keeps Anderson From Ring.

Police Nine to Play Today.

Inclement weather caused the postponement yesterday of the game between the New York Police Department and the Fort Hamilton nines at the Polo Grounds. The game will be played today.

BOARD UNDECIDED ON DUNDEE'S TITLE

SHADE TO POST $10,000

Accepts Agreement Not to Box Again Before He Meets Winner of Walker-Leonard Bout.

The question of whether a successor to Johnny Dundee as world's featherweight champion will be named by the State Athletic Commission, or whether the board will sanction an elimination tournament whose survivor will be recognized as the holder of the title, will not be determined by the boxing law administrators until the officials have had an opportunity to consider carefully the situation.

This was the announcement made yesterday at the meeting of the commission. It had been expected that some means of disposing of the situation precipitated by Dundee's retirement as featherweight champion, because he could no longer make the class weight, would be announced. Chairman George E. Brower, however, announced that the board intended to proceed slowly

RAIN AGAIN HALTS TITLE TENNIS PLAY

Yesterday's Schedule to Be Carried Out Today—Tourney to Extend to Sept. 2.

PLAYERS ATTEND DINNER

STADIUM MATCHES TODAY.

At 1:30 P. M.

At 2 P. M.

At 3:30 P. M.

At 5 P. M.

Winner of match between Gerald Patterson, Australia, and Paul Martin, New York, vs. Alain Gerbault, France, Court 3; Harvey Snodgrass, Los Angeles, vs. Watson M. Washburn, New York, Court 1.

William T. Tilden 2d, the national tennis champion, will endeavor to make his first appearance in defense of his title today when play in the all-comers tournament will be resumed after the rainfall which interrupted play on the opening day and enforced complete idleness yesterday. As a result of the bad weather the tournament will carry over until Sept. 2, when the final round will be held, instead of Monday, as planned. Harry S. Parker, Treasurer of the West Side Tennis Club, in charge of the seat sale, announced last night that tickets that would have been good yesterday will be accepted today. More than 9,000 tickets priced at $2 will be on sale at the stadium at Forest Hills today.

Reports from the head groundsman of the West Side Cub were to the effect that the rain had greatly improved the condition of the turf and that the high wind following the storm had quickly dried out the excess moisture, leaving the grass in perfect condition. The stadium courts have been covered with tarpaulin since Monday.

This is the first important tournament of the year that has been thrown off schedule, the other championships and big invitation tournaments being unusually fortunate in this respect. A respite in the concluding stages of the tourney would be welcomed by the players as affording the opportunity to rest up for the big tests, but coming at the very start it is likely to cause some of them to go a bit stale.

Tilden to Face Alonso.

The schedule arranged for yesterday will be carried out today. Those matches which were interrupted on Monday will be resumed at 1:30, including the Howard Kinsey-Dr. George King and Clarence J. Griffin-B. I. C. Norton matches.

Tilden will play Alonso at 3:30 and at the same hour William Johnston of California will meet Richard E. Schlesinger of Australia. As Tilden drew a bye in the first round he is as far advanced as most of the field, in spite of the fact that he has not been on the courts yet. Should he defeat Alonso, his next opponent will be Lucien E. Williams of Chicago, former intercollegiate champion from Yale. Williams has had the best season of his career this year. At Seabright he defeated Harvey Snodgrass and at Newport carried him to three sets.

Hugh Kelleher, who put out Norman Brooks, will face the winner of the match between Jack Wright of Canada and Irving Wehnstein of California, while George Lott of Chicago, who put out R. Norris Williams 2d, awaits upon the match between Willard Crocker of Canada and George Whitlock of this city for his next opponent. In the event that he wins his third round match the junior champion will next be opposed to either Lewis N. Thalheimer of Texas or the winner of the match between Jacques Brugnon of France and A. H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield, Mass.

Vincent Richards will have as his next opponent either Herbert L. Bowman, metropolitan clay court champion, or Elliott H. Binzen, runner-up for that title.

Adequate train service will be provided by the Long Island Railroad to accommodate the fans going to the matches today. Trains will leave the Pennsylvania station at short intervals in accordance with the following schedule, Daylight Saving Time: 11:59, 12:29, 12:51, 1:11, 1:29, 2:05, 2:27, 2:55, 3:11, 3:41, 4:03, 4:25 and 4:53. The running time is fourteen minutes. Trains will leave Forest Hills for New York at 3:16, 4:02, 4:18, 5, 5:26, 5:55, 6:14, 6:31 and 7.

Stars Attend Dinner.

Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association were hosts last night to a gathering of prominent tennis players and officials at a dinner at the Hotel Vanderbilt. The party, which numbered about seventy-five, included four visiting captains of Davis Cup teams. They were Gerald L. Patterson of Australia, Jean Borotra, Wimbledon champion and captain of the French team; Manuel Alonso of Spain and Zenzo Shimizu, the Japanese captain. These four stars were introduced by George W. Wightman, President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, who acted as toastmaster, and they paid brief but sincere tribute to the sportsmanship displayed by the American court stars.

Other foreign stars who were guests at the dinner included Pat O'Hara Wood, R. E. Schlesinger, F. E. Kalms and Norman E. Brookes of Australia, Rene Lacoste and Jacques Brugnon of France, R. Norris Williams 2d, Watson Washburn, while a host of metropolitan players and officials and many of those entered in the national championships also were present.

During the evening it was announced that Julian S. Myrick, Chairman of the United States Davis Cup Committee, would tender a dinner to more than fifty famous Davis Cup players, past and present, at the Racquet and Tennis Club here on Friday evening.

HARTZ BREAKS RECORD IN AUTO SPEED TRIAL

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 26.—Harry Hartz set a new official qualifying record for the board speedways here today when he went a mile and a quarter in 30.3 seconds, a rate of 123 miles an hour, while qualifying for the 250-mile race here next Monday. He broke his own record of 122.3 miles per hour, set here last year.

Ten of the fourteen drivers qualified today for the race. They were: Hartz, 123; Jimmy Murphy, 122.3; Antoine Mourre, 121.6; Harlan Fengler, 119.6; Fred Comer, 119.6; Earl Cooper, 119; Peter de Paolo, 120.3; Bennett Hill, 117.3; Joe Boyer, 114.7; Bob McDonough, 110.8.

Rain Halts Grand Circuit Races.

Gold Cup Power Boat Races To Be Described by Radio

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—A running account of each event will be radiocast to spectators on the Detroit mainland and on Belle Isle as they watch the ten speedboat events that make up the annual Gold Cup regatta, to be held on the Detroit River four days, beginning Friday. Although radio has been used heretofore in connection with powerboat races, this is said to be the first attempt to give a "play-by-play" account of the event for the benefit of those lining the shore. More than a score of loud-speaker stations are being installed. The broadcasting will be done from the judges' boat.

KIECKHEFER READY FOR HOPPE MATCH

But Insists 3-Cushion Test Must Be at 600 Points, to Start Oct. 23 in Chicago.

Augie Kieckhefer, former world's three-cushion billiard champion, yesterday accepted the challenge of Willie Hoppe, the world's 18.1 and 18.2 balkline champion, for a special three-cushion match, to be played in Chicago in October. Hoppe's request was for a match at 360 points, to be played in six blocks of 60 points each. Kieckhefer replied by stating that he wanted the match to be at 600 points, in ten blocks of 60 points each, to be played in Chicago, starting on Oct. 23.

Hoppe, who is busy playing all comers here this week and who has arranged to play a 500-point match against George Moore, another former champion, starting here on Sept. 8, as yet has not replied to Kieckhefer. He first must see that there will be no conflict with his other plans, and, in the event the champion's schedule is open, he is almost certain to meet the Chicago star in a 600-point match. Hoppe, however, intimated that he will demand a return match in New York, regardless of the outcome of the Chicago engagement.

It looks as though Hoppe will play no balkline before the first of the year. He expects to meet Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, who finished third in the last round robin for the world's three-cushion championship, in a special match in Philadelphia, and in another one here. Then may follow a home-and-home three-cushion match with Johnny Layton, the first to be staged in St. Louis and the second one here. There also is a possibility that Charley Ellis, Pittsburgh representative of the National Championship Three-Cushion League, will be met in two matches. The arrangement of a match with Bob Cannefax, holder of the world's title, will be contingent upon Hoppe's showing against the other stars, it was said.

No title can change hands in a Hoppe-Cannefax match in the event the balkline king should win, for to win the three-cushion championship it is necessary to play through the regular league schedule, in which the players who finish among the four leaders take part in a round robin for the championship. But Hoppe feels that this is his chance to put his three-cushion game to a real test, and he is determined to go through with it, regardless of the attitude of the billiard officials. He said only yesterday that in taking up three-cushions he is only answering a public demand, for he said three-cushions has a recognized place in the billiard world.

Ary Bos, formerly of Holland who now is making his residence in Philadelphia, was here yesterday completing arrangements for his championship match against Albert Cutler for the national junior 18.2 balkline billiard title. The challenge of Bos already has been accepted by Cutler and all that remains is to name the city where the match will be held and to select the dates. The match most likely will be played the latter part of next month.

Tadao Suganuma of Japan was the winner of the first junior championship tournament, which was played in Detroit last December. He successfully defended his title in challenge matches against Jean Bruno of Austria and Kinrey Matsuyama of Japan. But in his third test he lost to Cutler in a close match. Suganuma is anxious for a return match, but under the rules must wait until the rest of the players who took part in the championship tournament have the right to exercise their challenge.

I. Yamada, brother of Koji Yamada, former champion of Japan and one of the few players to defeat Willie Hoppe in a world's championship tournament match, arrived in this country a week ago. Yesterday, accompanied by his fellow-countryman, Matsuyama, he paid a visit to Hoppe. He said that Koji was keeping in form by playing every day in his academy in Tokio, and while he contemplated no visit to America this year, he hoped to take part in a few big matches here in 1926.

Frank Dwyer, President of the National Championship Pocket Billiard League, said yesterday that he hoped to have the schedule for the 1925-26 season ready for publication within a few weeks. He said the work of selecting the cities for the twelve franchises and the naming of the twelve players was still in progress. The Executive Committee of the league must make final decision on the franchises and the players. It is almost a certainty that Ralph Greenleaf, the world's champion, will represent Philadelphia again, while Frank Taberski of Detroit and Benny Allen of Kansas City also seem certain to represent the same cities again.

Andrew St. Jean, who finished fourth in the round robin for the title and who represented Minneapolis last year, is expected to represent the same city next season. Just what players will represent New York has not been announced, but a few changes are expected.

PADDOCK TO SEEK TITLES.

Murchison, Bowman and Le Coney Also in National A. A. U. Sprints.

A field of four of the greatest sprinters in the world is scheduled to struggle for the Amateur Athletic Union's national sprint titles in the annual A. A. U. track and field championships, to be held at Colgate Field, West Orange, N. J., Sept. 5, 6 and 7, under the auspices of the Newark A. C. The title-seekers will be Loren Murchison, Charlie Paddock, Chet Bowman and Al Le Coney. These four athletes are the outstanding stars entered for the 100-yard and 220-yard sprints, and exciting struggles are expected.

The heavy track of yesterday, caused by the heavy rain, did not interfere with the training of Murchison and Paddock for the approaching competitions. Each athlete donned running trunks and went through a light workout practicing starts at Colgate Field.

The first races of the Victory Class team match between yachts sailed by members of the Long Island Sound fleet and boats sailed by members of the Buffalo Canoe Club will be held today off Larchmont, under the supervision of the Larchmont Yacht Club. They will be sailed by Herbert M. Hill, the skipper of Briquette of the Lake Erie fleet; Leonard R. Bissell, who sails Alerte in the lake racing, and Theodore H. Pickering, skipper of the Lake Erie boat Otranto.

FACTS vs. FICTION

1. A point tipped with hardest iridium and made by jewel makers who know how to grind a point so it will write smoothly.

2. A feed channel that lets ink down when you want it but not in such a flood that it drips out.

3. A barrel that is light weight and fits your hand without slipping or tiring.

4. A banded cap that will not break easily and that screws down to the section tight enough to form an air tight chamber that will not leak or sweat in your pocket.

5. A clip that is securely fastened to the cap and holds tightly to your pocket without wearing or tearing it.

6. An unqualified guarantee against any and all defects of construction and material.

PISTOLS USED IN PARIS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 26.—"I might have known that any woman who steals another's husband wouldn't fight fair," declared Mrs. A. D. Foreman of Lake Charles, La., after a "fair fist fight" with Miss Mildred Lee of Alexandria. Mrs. Foreman was stabbed three times in the chest. The battle, which took place yesterday near Alexandria, was reported to the authorities today.

According to the story told by Mrs. Foreman to Sheriff Downs of Rapides Parish, the fight was to have been one of those old-fashioned bare-knuckle and skull affairs, the victor of which was to be the undisputed custodian of the heart of A. D. Foreman, who, his wife says, had been dividing his attentions between his wife and Miss Lee.

The combat took place on a quiet stretch of the Lake Charles Alexandria Road, near Alexandria, according to Mrs. Foreman, and that it did take place she bears three wounds as evidence. The wounds are not serious, and Sheriff Downs is scratching his chin and saying nothing. He may or may not institute proceedings against one or all of the principals, he said, after consultation with the District Attorney.

"Now, if it had been men stabbing each other," the Sheriff declared, "it would have been a simple thing. But these women? It is best for a man to keep out of women's arguments until things simmer down."

Mrs. Foreman, accompanied by Miss Lula Benifield, a friend, drove from Lake Charles to Alexandria Monday with the express intention of whipping Miss Lee, she told the Sheriff.

"She stole my husband a year ago," Mrs. Foreman charged. "I got tired of it, and tired of her, and decided to settle once and for all whether he is to be my husband or her man."

Mrs. Foreman met Miss Lee on the Rapides Bayou Road—the same trail over which, three hundred years ago, the fair Evangeline had tramped in search of her lover Gabriel. The late afternoon sun bathed in gold the long tufts of Spanish moss in the live oaks. It was a good place for an affair of honor.

According to Mrs. Foreman, she opened conversation with her enemy about her husband. The argument was bitter and out of it came the challenge for "a fair fist fight" to settle the issue. The women were to stand toe to toe and slam away until one of them cried "enough."

The fight got under way and Miss Lee was getting the worst of it, Mrs. Foreman being more solidly built. Then, according to Mrs. Foreman, she was stabbed and was forced to withdraw.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Two little Parisian dancers, Augustine Levenez and Blanche Gami, were close friends, sharing the troubles and the joys of life, until one day "Beau Pierre" appeared on the scene and turned their friendly affection into a jealous hatred, which finally ended in a regular duel, fought in Boulevard Foissonnière last night.

Beginning with knives and scissors for weapons, the little dancers soon exchanged them for revolvers, and had it not been for their ignorance of the use of firearms the encounter might have ended tragically. Fortunately, neither they nor any of the startled spectators were hit, and when the police appeared the duelists were already thoroughly scared and offered no resistance.

"Beau Pierre," the complacent prize for whom the duelists fought, declared that he did not want either of them. The fatherly Police Commissioner, after a severe admonition, sent the dancers home reconciled. "Beau Pierre," however, is receiving the hospitality of the police. He was wanted for various minor offenses.

OFFER FINAL TERMS TO MOVIE OPERATORS

A meeting of motion picture operators of Local 306 will be held this morning at Beethoven Hall to discuss the terms offered by the Labor Committee of the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce in an effort to prevent the threatened strike of operators on Sept. 1.

The union has asked a 30 per cent. increase in wages and is insisting upon recognition of the two-shift system whereby each operator would work a maximum of six hours per day and a minimum of four.

At the request of Bernard L. Shientag, Industrial Commissioner of the State Department of Labor, a conference was held Monday night in the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce in the Times Building, between representatives of the owners and operators. In a final effort to prevent a strike the Labor Committee of the Chamber of Commerce made the following proposition:

"To renew all their present contracts with Local 306 for a period of three years; the first year to be at present scale of wages, and the scale for the second and third years to be determined by arbitration."

The limit for acceptance of these terms will expire at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Whether or not the union will accept or reject these terms will be decided at this morning's meeting.

Meanwhile the theatre owners are confident that the members of Local 306 will not dare to strike. Should they attempt a walk-out, the owners say their places will be filled without difficulty. Already, they say, applications are pouring in from experienced operators and the number received so far is greatly in excess of the number of men affected.

The strike, if called, will not affect all motion picture theatres here. The larger first-run houses and many members of the chain system will continue to operate under new contracts with the union. The Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce does not represent these houses and includes in its membership only part of the 600 houses in the city.

Walter Huston is an actor with an easy talent and with natural charm. He has a born sense for effects and a fund of pure stage friendliness that ought to carry him a long way. At the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre last night he managed to make real even such a part as Sam Crane, "The Easy Mark"; though there were places where he could not even pretend to believe in what he lent himself to.

If, last night, you were an academic person with a weighty mind and no sense of humor, you thought the play poor, antiquated, inhumanly forced and almost excitingly dull, and in spite of Mr. Huston too much to be asked to bear. If you were a simple person with little sense beyond simple humor and simple sentiment, you survived the first act on faith and afterward laughed and clapped and stifled with jokes, love, hope, with the suspense over signing away the oil lands, and with a liking for Mr. Huston.

"The Easy Mark" might be either bad farce or bad every day realism of the people. It is not farce; to think so would be unkind with so much heart and fancy in the wind. It is not realism, for the realistic detail is not observed with any truth or accuracy, and the acting has nothing beyond theatrical platitudes. Perhaps "The Easy Mark" is pure theatre art. Within such an admitted realm of convention and arrangement, there were lively moments, with suspense, heart interest and laughter; and, for such ends Kate Morgan played the mother rôle sometimes touchingly; and Joseph Dailey, though working too hard, gave us some old-fashioned character acting not to be despised.

The material of the plot of "The Easy Mark" is a dreamer, in the simplest terms, dreaming wild schemes of fortunes and vague eminence, whose mother believes in him. The themes are what are called eternal, meaning in this case adventure, love and riches, the simplest of eternities in fact. The problem is why Walter Huston wastes his time.

ACCEPTS CUBA'S INVITATION.

Upon receipt of the invitation from the Cuban Government addressed to Harry Harkness Flagler, President of the Symphony Society of New York, the following reply was forwarded to Arturo Padro, Chargé d'Affaires, Cuban Embassy, Washington:

"Your letter extending the invitation of the Cuban Government to the Symphony Society of New York to have its orchestra, under Mr. Walter Damrosch, appear in Havana next January has reached me, and as President of the aforesaid society I beg to say that we accept the invitation with true appreciation of the honor shown us by your Government.

"May I ask you to convey to the Cuban Secretary of State my acknowledgment of the official recognition of the projected visit of the organization with which I am connected, and my earnest hope that the concerts of the Symphony Society of New York to be given in Havana under the auspices of the 'Sociedad Pro-Arte Musical' may not only bring closer together the musical interests of our respective countries, but may serve as a reminder of the friendship in which we hold our sister republic.

"Believe me,

"Very sincerely yours,

"HARRY HARKNESS FLAGLER,
"President."

RICHARD HERNDON'S PLAYS.

His First Production Will Be "Apple Sauce," by Barry Conners.

Richard Herndon, it was announced yesterday, will begin his production activities this season with the production early in November of "Apple Sauce," a play by Barry Conners, with Allan Dinehart and Claiborne Foster heading the cast. The piece will open in Stamford on Aug. 28 and come to New York after a Chicago engagement. This Fall, too, Mr. Herndon will produce a Harvard prize play, as yet unnamed.

Two companies each of "The Potters" and Samuel Shipman's "Cheaper to Marry" will be sent on tour. There will also be road companies of "You and I" and "Peg o' My Dreams."

Mr. Herndon's Belmont Theatre will open on Sept. 8 with the production by A. H. Woods of "Conscience."

"The Swan" Resumes at the Empire.

"The Swan," Molnar's comedy, reopened Monday night at the Empire for a run limited to four weeks. Eva Le Gallienne again headed the cast, which included Tupper Jones, Henrietta Watson, Frank Roberts and Mary Carmichael, who were not in the play when it opened last October. The excellence of the production remains unchanged throughout.

Plan "Chicago" City in Palestine.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Plans for a $1,000,000 Jewish city of Palestine to be named "Chicago" and to be built in five years, has been planned by the Jewish committee of the Zionist Movement and the Palestine Foundation Fund here, according to Dr. S. M. Melamed, Chairman. The city will be built as a colony for Jews in Europe and those who can no longer enter the United States.

FIGHT WORLD ILLITERACY.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 26.—Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, Commissioner of Education for Maine and President of the World Federation of Education Associations, today announced the appointment of a world-wide commission on the removal of illiteracy.

The commission consists of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart of Frankfort, Ky., Chairman; Pompilio Ortega, President of the Central Normal School at Tegucigalpa, Honduras; Princess Santa Borghese of Rome; Dr. P. W. Kuo, President of Southeastern University, Shanghai and Nanking, China; Princess Pansa Mehta of Baroda, India; H. W. Huntley, Winnipeg, Canada, and Madam Tetsuko Yasui, President of the Union College for Women at Tokio.

"The Crown Prince of Japan has appropriated a million yen and has placed it in the hands of the Japanese Education Association for the purpose of wiping out illiteracy in that country in ten years," Dr. Thomas said. "China has opened a campaign and adopted a slogan, 'China a literate nation in one generation.'

"Pompilio Ortega is heading a movement in Honduras to make Honduras a literate nation in five years. Mexico is carrying on an effective campaign and has taught 200,000 to read and write in the last two years."

"CAMPAIGN BOOK" HISTORY.

It was inconsiderate in the Republican National Committee to ask Secretary HUGHES to prepare for its campaign textbook the section on foreign policy. This was an invitation to him to write as a partisan, or as a lawyer with a case to be maintained at all hazards. If Mr. HUGHES had been left to his own judicial temperament or generous instincts, it is probable that he would not have begun his article by saying that "it would be difficult to imagine a worse tangle in our foreign relations than that with which the Republican Administration was required to deal when it came into power on March 4, 1921." He would at least have felt it incumbent upon him in fairness to specify how and wherein. But in a campaign book it was allowable to refer vaguely to the "difficulties" which the Democratic Administration had turned over to the Republicans, and to say that these have largely been resolved."

There were, indeed, some continuing difficulties. The policy to be adopted in dealing with the Soviet Government was one of them. Another was the question of "mandates" under the League of Nations, especially with reference to Mesopotamia. Still another was the assertion of the right of the United States, even though refusing to ratify the Treaty of Versailles, to have a voice in the disposal of the German islands in the South Pacific. If the Republican Administration was able to "resolve" these difficulties, how was the thing done? By following the policy laid down by the previous Democratic Administration. The notes written by Secretary HUGHES with regard to Russia, concerning the Mesopotamian mandate and in opposition to the claims of Japan to the Island of Yap were in tenor and almost in form copies of the notes sent by his predecessor in office, Mr. COLBY. Writing in any medium less warping than a campaign textbook, Secretary HUGHES would undoubtedly have been magnanimous enough to acknowledge this.

Equally cramping does Mr. HUGHES appear to have found the requirement that he produce for the Republican campaign an account of the League of Nations. He does it as if it were a matter in which he had never personally had any concern. He speaks of it as if it were simply "an old dispute" which it would now be worse than futile to revive, since we have found that we can get along perfectly well without the League. But who among the early disputants was more eager and positive than CHARLES E. HUGHES? What champion of the League was more ardent than he? He now lends his authority to the statement that this country has no need whatever of the League of Nations, but what was he saying only five years ago? In July, 1919, Senator HALE wrote to Mr. HUGHES to seek his opinion about the Covenant of the League, and received in reply a long letter from which the following is quoted:

> There is plain need for a League of Nations in order to provide for the adequate development of international law, for creating and maintaining organs of international justice and the machinery of conciliation and conference, and for giving effect to measures of international cooperation which from time to time may be agreed upon. * * * I think that the prudent course is to enter the proposed League with reservations of a reasonable character.

Even after the treaty had been defeated in the Senate, Mr. HUGHES was a year later one of the eminent Republicans who signed a statement to the American people, on the eve of the Presidential election, asserting that they were for the League of Nations and that the surest way to bring about the entrance of America into it was to elect Mr. HARDING President. It is to be presumed that Mr. HUGHES, after he became Secretary of State, did his best to keep this implied promise to his fellow-citizens, but was unable to do so. This fact, however, does not seem fully to justify the detached and superior attitude toward the League which he now assumes, or to warrant his impatience and moral indignation with all who think as he used to think, but have not with him changed their minds.

A campaign textbook is not the place to look for the full and unvarnished truth. This is not to say that it is consciously dishonest, or that truth will not sometimes come out in it, as the cynical Judge said that it would even in an affidavit. But campaign book history "as she is wrote" is so denatured and distorted an affair that it is rather a pity to see a man of the high ability and character of Secretary HUGHES doing himself the injustice of consenting to write it.

AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO.

A practical business man and experienced lawyer being needed to represent the United States as Ambassador in Mexico, JAMES ROCKWELL SHEFFIELD, who is to succeed CHARLES B. WARREN, has the necessary qualifications. Mr. SHEFFIELD, it is true, has had no diplomatic training, nor does his career show familiarity with the Mexican people and their special problems. But he has a natural diplomacy, as is shown by the fact that he is recognized as a leader of his party in this city and has held posts of honor and usefulness. To public affairs he was introduced by one of the respected leaders of the Republican Party, Senator WILLIAM B. ALLISON of Iowa, whom he served as private secretary. He has always been an organization Republican, but not at the expense of his judgment. Mr. SHEFFIELD was one of the most earnest supporters of Mayor MITCHEL, a Democrat, in his last campaign. At a special meeting of the Republican Club, which adopted a resolution endorsing the Mitchel ticket, Mr. SHEFFIELD declared that "every disloyal, "dishonest and disreputable element "of this great city is on one side, and "that side is opposed to the re-election of Mayor MITCHEL." He went on to say:

> For his courage and his foresight, for his honesty in attacking things he knew were not politically wise, for all that he has done to make this city safe and clean and an honor to live in, I stand with him.

It is satisfactory to know that the United States will be represented at the Mexican capital by an American of sound patriotism whose conduct and principles are those that the Mexicans hold in esteem. He has social accomplishments, urbanity, tact, consideration for others. He is fluent in speech, with a pleasing presence, and on ceremonial occasions he will be a credit to his country. Mr. SHEFFIELD should be very useful in promoting the commercial relations of the two countries, which are in great need of a guiding hand.

FIGHTING FOR RATIFICATION.

In his battle with the German Nationalists, Chancellor MARX stressed the facts that rejection of the London agreements would be disastrous for Germany and that obstructionist tactics would never get the French out of the Ruhr. Both arguments are sure to be effective as the leaders think things over. Their greatest objection so far—that the Ruhr should be evacuated by Jan. 11 instead of by Aug. 30, 1925—shows the old stubborn unwillingness to face realities which has always characterized the attitude of the German Nationalists. They talk idly of negotiating a new agreement, in the fond belief that they could obtain better terms than did the present Government. Whoever followed the negotiations at London sees the futility of this hope. Apparently they think that MARX and STRESEMANN were too yielding and that success would attend the Nationalists if they went to London and rattled their sabres and banged their fists on the table, and, twisting their mustachios upward, cried defiance.

The attack of HERGT, leader of the agrarians and strong in the councils of the Nationalists, came as a surprise. To be sure, he did not declare himself irrevocably opposed to acceptance. But his former statements had raised the hope that he would give whole-hearted support to Messrs. MARX and STRESEMANN. His final defection would be a disappointment.

Chancellor MARX asserted that the compact would be signed on Saturday regardless of the action of the Reichstag. Reports from London state that this would be considered satisfactory by the British. It is open to question, however, what actual value such a signature would have. Although the parallel is not exact, it must not be forgotten that our representatives have signed treaties which were never ratified and never went into effect. The danger in Germany is not that legal ratification will not be given, but that the necessary legislation to carry out the provisions of the agreement may not receive adequate support. We in this country have also known of legislation which has been passed, but has not been enforced for lack of suitable means.

The good faith of MARX deserves praise. He and his followers are fighting loyally in behalf of peace and reconstruction. The comparison with the old tactics of obstruction and evasion is refreshing. It has long been clear to friends of Germany that a policy of earnest fulfillment would redound to that nation's credit, and would create a friendly atmosphere which would facilitate the rehabilitation of Germany. If such a spirit existed in the past, it was successfully overshadowed by the stupidity and arrogance of the Nationalists. For the moment, at least, the forces of moderation are winning.

A BOARD OF STRATEGY.

For a time Chairman BUTLER'S desire to spare his party associates and high resolve to take charge of all Republican things were misunderstood by many of his brethren. Not merely the Old Guard, but some members of the Cabinet and even the much-enduring BASCOM SLEMP, misjudged the benevolent purpose and salutary discipline of the New Broom. While the growls at his unappreciated labors in the Cleveland convention were still deep, the word of conciliation and comfort was spoken. Far be it from Mr. BUTLER to imagine himself "the whole works." He yearned for counselors and helpers. The usual Advisory Committee would be appointed. After months of thought it has been appointed. Seldom has a more gratifying council been exhibited to public view.

Mr. JOHN T. ADAMS, Mr. BUTLER'S judicious predecessor, is Chairman. Mr. RAYMOND ROBINS of the extreme Republican or Progressive Left is counterpoised by Mr. HINICKA, the famous Ohio boss that was and leader that is. Senator MOSES, the primeval hunker, holds by the hand Senator HOWELL of Nebraska. Here is former Congressman KNIGHT of Ohio, the beaten Progressive candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor; and here is the reactionary CARMI THOMPSON, who beat him and was beaten at the polls. Here is the ever-Progressive Governor "JOE" DIXON of Montana, between Mr. SLEMP and Representative WOOD of Indiana, who, a little while ago, invaded the White House day after day with delegations of incensed Hoosiers, howling for the head of HARRY NEW. HANFORD MACNIDER, sometime Commander of the American Legion, testifies by his presence that, from gratitude to the Republican Congressmen who helped to override Mr. COOLIDGE'S veto of the Bonus bill, he "condones" that ineffectual defense of the Treasury. Mr. LEWIS, President of the United Mine Workers, consents to advise. Thereby "strong labor connections" are "acquired, the Chairman believes." Mr. LA FOLLETTE believes that he has acquired much stronger. Whatever happens, it is good to feel that the age of faith is not dead.

What is this collection of political Fundamentalists and Modernists to do? Nothing in particular. Therefore new members may be added to share in its great work. Made up of opposites, how could it agree upon any piece of advice, if Mr. BUTLER should ask for any? It is ornamental. It represents all the colors in the Republican spectrum. It shows that Mr. BUTLER has derived from the textile industry some knowledge of weaving and the art of design. This committee belongs to political esthetics. Why is it misrepresented as Mr. BUTLER'S "board of strategy in conducting the Republican campaign"? He and not this Republican-All-Sorts Club plans and directs the major operations in the field. The Advisory Committee belongs to the fine arts, not to the art of war. Perhaps it is called "a board of strategy" because its artful juxtaposition of Republican contrasting colors is meant to impress the unsophisticated as harmony. This use of "strategy" in the sense of "artifice," "stratagem," is not unusual.

A BIT TOO FRANK.

On the subject of General DAWES the publicity ammunition experts at Republican G. H. Q. must be painfully of two minds. When they mobilize the General what is it they let loose upon the public, a Wunderkind or an enfant terrible? The Dawes visit to Plymouth suggests something of both. The amateur might have supposed that plenty of publicity was coming out of the green hills of Vermont. That would certainly seem to be the opinion of Mr. COOLIDGE, who has been reported turning wistfully from the scenes of his alleged seclusion to the peace and privacy of the White House. But the experts at G. H. Q. knew better. Ten days of Arcadia is too long for front-page news value. The bucolic cried to be jazzed up with the dynamic. So G. H. Q. called up the General on the telephone and informed him that it was short of publicity and wouldn't he drop in on his running-mate? Like a good soldier the General obeyed. The cameramen and the paragraphers had their fill. The high-geared Dawes entrance and exit, the pipe that lights up ever so much more slowly than its owner, the vocabulary—were all there.

But also present was the terrible Dawes frankness. Having given the reporters and the photographers what G. H. Q. thought they needed, the General proceeded to tell the world what G. H. Q. did not in the least consider that the world need know. No vital affairs of state brought him to Plymouth; no crisis in the campaign, no necessity of any kind, except a regrettable shortage of publicity. Letting the public in on such secrets means taking the public behind the scenes, showing them how the wheels go round, and perhaps dulling the public appetite for future stage effects. That is why G. H. Q. must now be wondering whether the General is quite the ideal agent for their purposes. Spontaneity is an admirable thing for the uses of the front page, but reticence, too, has its place. Yet, blank and Maria, what does the General care? He has only one way of doing things, and that is his way.

Yet publicity draws upon so many values. The very novelty of a candidate blurting out his precise reason for doing a certain thing is splendid publicity. The General's frankness may go down in history with that other famous advertisement to the public:

> You, ladies, you, whose gentle hearts do fear
> May now perchance both quake and tremble here,
> Then know that I, one Snug the joiner, am. . . .

BRITISH LABOR AND EDUCATION.

The educational program proposed by Mr. TAWNEY, the British Labor Party economist, at Williamstown, is one that an Eliot might have presented. It has no suggestion of class interests in it. The policies he advocates are not determined by the "necessities of industry." He does not ask to have the old system, which was established for the discipline of the leisure class, overturned in order to provide training solely for the laboring class. He seeks to promote, first of all, the happiness and health of children, first as children, and then their harmonious and complete development as human beings, according to their capacities and not according to the "vulgar irrelevancies of their parents' income." He even suggests, to this end, a public support that goes beyond our generous provision—not only the abolition of fees such as are still charged in most English secondary schools, but a system of maintenance allowances to enable parents to dispense with the earnings of the older children so that all boys and girls may go to school until the age of 16 at any rate.

Mr. TAWNEY would also remove the economic barriers which still make access to a university by men and women of small means difficult, and he would extend the extramural work undertaken by the universities for adult workers. For widespread education and prolonged education can alone prevent the individual from being overwhelmed by mass suggestion and from succumbing to "the great modern art of organized delusion." He, presumably, would not insist upon having our histories censored by a Hirshfield or our economics written solely from a trade union point of view, for he holds that the aim should be to cultivate independent thought and initiative and then enlist the active, critical intelligence of the mass in the solution of our common problems. This has a utopian sound, but he does not expect the full realization of his program for generations. What is hopeful about it is that the demand is coming from the rank and file of manual workers rather than from above. They are realizing that the chief end of education is, as ARISTOTLE explained, to prepare them to spend their leisure wisely and to understand the problems with which they are confronted as citizens in a democracy.

BLUENOSE TO RACE COLUMBIA.

Lunenburg has made it up with Gloucester. Bluenose will race Columbia again in any weather off the Nova Scotia coast in October for the Fishermen's Trophy. This emblem, offered by the Canadians to encourage the building of schooners engaged in taking cod on the Grand Banks, to give the boys a jolly week after a season of toil on the slippery decks of fishing boats, and to cement their brotherhood, seemed destined to become a museum relic when Captain ANGUS WALTERS sailed away from Halifax in a huff on Nov. 2 last. As a deep-sea salt with a scorn for committee rulings he had provocation—so he thought. Bluenose had won the first race by a minute and forty seconds in Columbia weather, light and flukey airs, and in a second contest, when half a gale was singing through the shrouds, Bluenose had fairly romped away from Gloucester's pride, winning by more than two miles, only to be disqualified for not passing a shoals buoy on the seaward side.

Premier ARMSTRONG of Nova Scotia, who had laid down the maxim, "Rules are rules no matter whose bow is stove," reasoned with the ruffled skipper in vain. "Bluenose has won," said WALTERS, "and I'll race no more this year." Out he sailed for Lunenburg, with not a cheer on the dock as he cast off. Halifax was glum at his exhibition of bad sea manners. Couldn't Bluenose sail circles round Columbia? Why these hysterics? Canny Nova Scotia had no patience with a man who turned his back on the revered trophy and forfeited $3,000 in gold. Commendable was the conduct, on the other hand, of Captain BEN PINE of the Columbia. He flatly refused to sail over the course on the morrow and technically win the deciding race. This renunciation smoothed the way to the repentance of Captain WALTERS, to reconciliation, and to resumption of the annual struggle so dear to the heart of Gloucester and Lunenburg.

Captain MARTY WELCH, who sailed the Esperanto to victory for the Americans when the trophy was first put up, drew the sting from the wound of Captain ANGUS, reminding him that the cup might now be on exhibition in Gloucester if BEN PINE had not been a deep-sea sport, as distinguished from a white-collar yachtsman. Mollified, Captain ANGUS gave him his hand on a promise to take the wheel again on Bluenose to prove that she could show her heels to Columbia. Gloucester will leap to the challenge, for she still believes that her boat is a phantom in zephyrs, and on any day when Boreas is not crackling his cheeks can leave Bluenose far astern. There now remains the committee work. The trophy can be taken from its shelf and dusted off. Columbia is pointing for Gloucester with 250,000 pounds of cod in her hold, and there will be clinking of cups of grape juice on board when the glad tidings are made known. The Davis Cup tournament, the test of the French horse Epinard, the gladiatorial combat of WILLS and FIRPO, the baseball championship, are inconsequential things to Gloucester and Lunenburg compared with the races for the Fishermen's Trophy, sailed by crews of master mariners.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Publicity Not Bad, but Good.

Yielding to a curious temptation that so often overcomes the amateur, one of THE TIMES'S readers has sent to it a vehement protest against publication last week of a news article in which was told in some detail how a new mail car belonging to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad had a test on the New York Central's Putnam Division of its power to resist train robbers. In a lonely place it was attacked by a group of men who did about all that armed and determined bandits could do, only to be repulsed with what, if the defenders of the car had shot to kill, would have been great slaughter.

Our correspondent thinks it was wrong thus to reveal the sort of precautions against mail robberies which some of the railways are taking, and condemns THE TIMES in particular and the press in general for frequently printing just such warnings to the criminal classes of what the representatives of law and protectors of property are doing to foil their efforts.

This is a problem that long has been considered in its various phases by the newspapers, but it constantly is discovered as something new by those who may be called the laity, and about as often they are—well, courageous in offering to those who already have taken much thought advice that is the product of only a little.

It cannot be denied that, if conditions could be created in which nobody wanted to commit crime, it would be better than the creation and advertising of conditions that make the commission of crime impossible or extremely dangerous. As things are, however, the second of these tasks cannot be abandoned, and the more efficiently it is performed the safer will be the lives and property of good citizens.

That highly desirable end the publication of the story about the armored car and the facilities both defensive and offensive with which its occupants have been provided unquestionably helped to attain. The robbing of the railway mails certainly would cease if on every road there were like cars for the carriage of the more valuable bags.

In One Way Risk Is Increased.

There is one real but theoretical and academic point that might be made against the giving of publicity to the Burlington's new traveling fortress. It did, in effect, notify the robbers to turn their attention elsewhere, and therefore might be held to increase the danger to the mail clerks and the mails in their charge that are making their journeys in cars less nearly impregnable. A mathematician could figure out the exact size of the difference—the increase being inversely as the difference between cars to the number of X and cars to the number of X—1.

This assumes, however, that the train robbers are a "constant," and that what they are not permitted to do in one place they will be sure to do somewhere else. But such exactitude is not attainable in human affairs unless the computation covers very long periods and very large populations, and one may be quite sure that the railways contemplating the installation of the new cars will not give much thought to the risk they are creating for the roads that delay to join in the same measure of protection, especially as it is open to them all to take it.

One Woman Changes Her Mind.

Miss FANNIE HURST took over with her to Russia recently the powers of intelligent and accurate observation of her fellow men and women which her novels so often have illustrated. She also carried with her what she thought was an immutable conviction that the present rulers of Russia were making a highly laudable reform in the conduct of human affairs, and that they deserved the sympathy and encouragement which, with grief, regret and some indignation, she saw so many people here refusing to give them.

In other words, Miss HURST was, or supposed herself to be, an admirer of the ideas and ambitions of which the Soviet Government is the largest exposition yet seen in the world.

Now she is on her way home. She has traveled westward, as far as Paris, and a dispatch in The Herald-Tribune quotes her as making with characteristic energy and lucidity statements that reveal a decided change of mind. She described bolshevism as "a great beast, half stupid, half mad, on its back in death agony." She found only in TROTSKY "the white light of inspiration," whatever that may mean, but both Petrograd and Moscow were to her horrible places, their inhabitants sunk in deepest poverty, and on every face "nothing but fear, overwhelming fear."

To sum it all up, she says that she is ready "to climb down from the soap-box forever."

It is evident that in a brief visit Miss HURST saw enough to convince her that her former beliefs about the Soviet Government were in need of thorough revision. She is not the first to undergo a like change. EMMA GOLDMAN, a woman much more "red" than Miss HURST ever was, had the same experience in Russia. So have not a few other long-distance observers of the Communists who were rash enough to become close observers.

Insuring Fifty Thousand.

By far the largest example of "group insurance" is that just taken out by the Northern Pacific Railway Company. At its own expense it has contracted for the protection of its 50,000 employes and "covering" them all, regardless of age or condition of health. In other words, those who need most the benefits of insurance—those whom, as individuals, the insurance companies either reject or take only at high prices—are to get those benefits on the same terms as do those who need them least or less.

Many other corporations are taking the same action. The cost they regard as a legitimate business expense, like other "overhead." It is not philanthropy or charity, but an investment from which a reasonable return in money is expected. Experience has justified the expectation.

It is not unthinkable that some day groups as large as all the inhabitants of a town or city thus will be insured, the cost paid out of municipal funds. As a change from the almshouse and poor farm plans for mitigating misfortune it might be welcome, and the noxious taint of charity would be removed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the very interesting and instructive article, "Applying Modern Art to Grand Opera," in last Sunday's TIMES Magazine section, much praise was given to the Regisseur of the Royal Opera in Stockholm, Harald Andic, for the modern and artistic settings for Samson and Delilah, while no credit whatsoever is given to the artist who created these settings and costumes—nor is his name mentioned.

It seems only just that some consideration should be given to him—for after all it is the artist who accomplished the work. His name is Isac Grunewald. He is a young modernist of advanced tendencies and has won great recognition in his native country, Sweden, and abroad.

The radical production of "Samson and Delilah" caused a long and violent controversy in Sweden two years ago and at length involved the artist and the Opera House in a lawsuit.

It was a daring undertaking, no doubt, and met with both praise and criticism—equally deserved. The greatest fault with Grunewald's "Samson" decoration lay in the fact that its exaggerated modernism in some scenes disturbed the very spirit of the opera. Grunewald neither could nor would subordinate himself to the old-fashioned music of Saint-Saens, which he partly drowned with his flaming colors.

There was also danger in that the decoration, by its sensational effects, drew the attention too much from the acting and singing. The artist had too little modesty to moderate in proper degree his own small private bizarreness. If, instead, he had tried his talent on a modern opera or a ballet the result would no doubt have been more favorable. Yet it cannot be denied that some of his scenes show both good taste in selection of colors as well as in lines and style. This is especially the case in his latest work, the designs for Weber's opera "Oberon," which is just being prepared at the Opera in Stockholm. HANS ALIN.

Mr. Pennell Repudiates Doll's House

I do not suppose any one who knows me would credit me with writing the drivel to which my name is signed, printed in your issue today as my contribution to the "Queen's Doll's Priceless Library." I contributed nothing. But, on the other hand, I have received a personal letter of thanks from her Gracious Majesty Queen Mary, in her own royal handwriting, signed Mary R., and addressed to me here from Buckingham Palace, thanking me for doing something—or rather contributing something—I know not what—to a performance I know little about, save that if I had been asked to contribute to this footling display of misdirected nonsense and childishness, I, too, should have been conspicuous by my absence, like Wells, Shaw and Masefield, but even though absent in the flesh—and absent for near three hundred years from my ancestral home—wherever it was—I am remembered and represented in this touching tribute to British royalty and charity. But how, when, where or why, I give up.

I suppose as the only American represented in this precious library I ought to be fearfully set up. Though the only American allowed in it, I am still willing to greet my associates and colleagues, but, like the fly in amber, I wonder how the devil I got there and what I did to get there.

The Gulf Stream "Myth."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

That was a very interesting special from Paris in THE TIMES, but the "comforting discovery" of M. Le Danois, the oceanographer, "that the Gulf Stream never existed" is not wholly new to the world.

Over fifteen years ago, when editing Putnam's Magazine, I received from the late Dr. Robert S. Woodward, geographer and astronomer, for many years President of the Carnegie Institution at Washington, the following highly skeptical letter on the subject:

> "I think our mutual friend, H. R. M., has perpetrated a joke on you with regard to the Gulf Stream. I once ventured, at the club, to question the validity of accepted dogmas with regard to this very variable and erratic terrestrial phenomenon, and especially the correctness of the delineation of the stream set down on maps made in Germany. Much to my astonishment, I found that faith in this stream was so great among the members of the club that some of them were scandalized, if not insulted, by my iconoclasm. Hence I am not disposed to shock the nerves of the humanists who read your journal, or to undertake the controversies I might easily fire up by questioning the truthfulness of the numerous stories told about the stream. Seriously, I have not the time, at present, to dissipate the literary fog and the pseudo-science which now enshrine this much-talked-of and highly illusive physical phenomenon."

THE GAUNTLET.

Life! You have sorely bruised and punished me
In many a sparring bout,
But always, just before a referee
Could count me down and out,
Battered and sore and savage with the pain—
Stubborn, I've staggered to my feet again!

Like as a wrestler, merciless and proud,
Over his rival stands,
You've thrown me down, whom yet you have not cowed;
My puny, feeble hands
Their ineffectual blows keep up. I still Resist defiantly—and always will!

Come on, with fisticuffs, or two-edged sword!
Ill-matched in strength are we.
But only cowards stoop to feel afraid,
Or plead immunity.
Failing to rise again, I'll never yield

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country" does not hold good in the case of John W. Davis, as the most prejudiced person could testify that was present at Clarksburg during the notification ceremonies. Even the hide-bound Republicans who have lived long in that little burg have only one criticism to make of him, and that is that he is a Democrat. There are lots of big-minded Republicans in Clarksburg and Harrison County, and on notification day they shared with Democrats the pride in "our John."

It was interesting to listen in on the conversations going on in every group, where "John W." was always the topic. From one old farmer: "Jawn can't help bein' what he is, with such a father and mother as he had. Why, it was always old Jawn J. that was the friend of everybody. Anybody could go to him with their troubles. He'd see that justice was done, and wouldn't stand seein' any one mistreated. Do you mind the time when that old Jew peddler was bein' persecuted, and how old Jawn J. helped him out? And Mrs. Davis, why, she was the grandest woman Clarksburg ever had. Not a bit of airs about her. My old woman used to go to her house when she come to town with garden truck, and set and rest there a spell. Ain't it funny how some people invite you to their house and you don't feel like goin', but at the Davises, you always felt like goin'."

And then again: "Why, I haven't seen John W. since he went to Congress, but he recognized me at once in the crowd and called out, 'Hello, Bill, how are you?'" It was "Hello, John!" and "How are you, Abe?" that was heard everywhere Mr. Davis showed his face.

And then from one, a man perhaps of 65, whom I afterward learned at one time held high public office in West Virginia: "John W. Davis suffers from none of the handicaps with which talented men are so often afflicted. He is without vanity, egotism, revenge or malice, and is entirely lacking in self-consciousness. He is just himself, always fair, courteous and considerate."

On the platform that night there stood near the speakers' stand a long, lean, thin-faced man, of the mechanic or laborer type, and to watch the glowing pride on his face and hear his side remarks were worth a trip to Clarksburg.

"Just listen to our boy," he drawled, turning to the audience, simply bursting with pride, and then again, when the rain was pouring in torrents, "John W.'s tellin' 'em and the Lord is soakin' it in."

It was great fun to observe and eavesdrop at Clarksburg, for at every turn I learned something colorful and interesting about "John," never once "Mr. Davis." ANNIE A. RUSSELL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The probability of the election of Mr. Davis can be predicated on the fact of his being admittedly the biggest man of all the candidates. Before November the bulk of the great mass of voters will have weighed the merits and personal endowments of the three men; and it is a pretty safe conclusion that the standard bearer of the Democratic Party, without disparagement to the high character of his competitors, will have safely established his eminent superiority and that the common sense of the American electorate will find adequate expression at the polls.

It is to be a hard-fought campaign, and every legitimate effort must be put forth to place the electoral vote of New York State in the Democratic column. Mr. Davis himself will be a tower of strength toward winning the victory, but where assistance can be given him it must not be withheld.

At the Democratic State Convention, to be held next month, an opportunity will be given to hearten him and to enthuse the voters of all shades of opinion if a truly big man is nominated for Governor. The time is now ripe to agitate this matter, it being of such manifest importance, and the writer would respectfully suggest the name of Baldridge Colby as a worthy candidate, whose name, character, learning and prestige would be of much aid to the national and State tickets. With men of such commanding attainments offering themselves to the voters of the Empire State as exponents of the ideals and purposes of the Democratic Party, there would be every reason to hope for gratifying results on election day, and as a consequence the invigoration of the party throughout the land.

Wants Davis More Aggressive.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am a disappointed Democrat, and I cannot but feel that Mr. Davis has done nothing—said nothing, at least—to warrant Republicans or neutrals in joining hands with him and voting to elect him.

A Democrat always has the chances against him. He needs a bold, enterprising spirit, a temper which makes him a champion of a high cause if he can show he has one. Has Mr. Davis said one word to show he has a great cause to struggle for? He has pointed to numerous evil features in the history of the Republicans, all true enough, but how will he escape the like snares if he comes into power?

I criticize two points adversely. First, the League of Nations. Mr. Davis seems to think he must acquiesce in the platform plank about it, a tame and pitifully weak utterance. He says the country should not enter the League till "the common judgment" compels entrance. Now he has been supposed to be a strong believer in the League. Why should he not have said he would work hard to help form that common judgment? Mr. Wilson did not fear even to die for it—but he was an "idealist." Is Mr. Davis, then, a mere politician who dares not offend the timid platform builders who contrived that contemptible expression?

As a Democrat who cast his first vote for Tilden "on age," and who has never voted for any but Democratic candidates for the Presidency, I crave more than carefully written sophomoric castigations of rival parties; I crave more courage in our candidate, more of the spirit of adventure; the high, clear, challenging war cry that sets the blood racing and the nerves tingling with its passion for manifest right. Such was the style of our great leader Wilson when he put himself in the ranks of those who at any cost to self seek for the highest justice. A victory gained in any other cause is not worth the gaining; a defeat for such a cause, if the issue be plainly declared, has in it all the eternal force of "the moral law, the nature of things."

Dawes and the League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

General Dawes makes a sad reflection on the intelligence of the American voter when he says that the covenant of the League of Nations "needed a lawyer's explanation to be read with the instrument itself."

The General forgets how many pro-leaguers voted the Republican ticket (in spite of the fact that Mr. Harding was reported as saying "It is not clarification I am seeking, but rejection") because they were assured by the thirty-one eminent Republicans that to vote for Harding was the quickest way of getting into the League.

The General also forgets that the so-called "Dawes Report" upholds the Versailles Treaty and that the covenant of the League of Nations is a part of the Treaty of Versailles. H. PARKS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An article printed in THE TIMES of Aug. 3 fails fully to comprehend the purposes of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and we feel justified in asking an opportunity to correct the misunderstanding which it creates. You say:

"The S. P. C. A. may be described as a scientific efficiency organization—humane, of course, but devoted to the practical problem of keeping the cat population within tolerable limits."

Reference is also made to other societies "which supplement the work of the larger organization through life-saving rather than life-destroying methods."

In dealing with cats, as well as with dogs, horses and other animals which come to our shelters and hospital, it is our first and chief aim to find a home where the animal will receive kind and intelligent care. We take unusual pains to make certain that any one to whom we give an animal is qualified to keep it healthy and contented.

On the other hand, we feel it is our obligation to the public to prevent any animal which comes under our observation, and which is vicious or incurably diseased, from being placed where it can do harm. In such cases painless asphyxiation is the greatest kindness to the animal and the best protection to the public.

It may be of interest to state that during the last ten years this society has placed nearly 700 retired horses of the Police and Fire Departments in good homes. Formerly these faithful servants of the city were sold at public auction, and sometimes became the slaves of vicious owners and were forced to perform work for which they were entirely unfitted.

During the year 1923, 1,707 dogs were restored to their owners and placed in homes. Good dogs are always to be found at our shelters in Manhattan and Brooklyn. At this writing there are among the dogs at our shelter at Avenue A and Twenty-fourth Street a spaniel, a poodle and a Great Dane, for which homes are sought, and also a number of fox terriers and bulldogs. At the Brooklyn shelter, at 233 Butler Street, among the dogs that will be glad of homes are a police dog, a collie and a poodle.

Any person who can satisfy us that he or she can take good care of any of these pets has a wide variety to choose from. If we could cure every sick animal that comes to us and then place it, with the strays we pick up and care for, in a good home, we should consider that we were functioning at considerably better than 100 per cent.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a daily reader of THE NEW YORK TIMES I know you rejoice in the utter elimination of the Ku Klux Klan from Texas politics.

This should go a long way in eliminating that un-American organization from national politics. The big thing is to get the people in the several States where there is such a contest out to the polls. Texas newspapers let the anti-Klan fight, proving that darkness should be fought with light and not by silence. The State of Texas has cast off for all time the Ku Klux yoke of bondage, and the Klan has enjoyed its last State-sanctioned flogging. HARRY I. COHEN,

A Strange Tree.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

During recent visits to Lenox, Mass., I have been greatly interested in a tree which seems so curious a phenomenon that it is worthy of a full description.

It stands in the estate of the late Augustus Schermerhorn, which is now unoccupied. Wandering in that portion which is left to nature, and which contains tall forest trees, I accidentally came upon this remarkable one.

It is very tall, its smooth straight trunk, twenty-three inches in circumference, rising high in the air and only showing leaves too far up to be carefully examined. At its base it has the shape of a huge spider standing on very long legs. In other words, the trunk does not touch the ground, but to twenty-eight inches above it, being supported by seven root branches, which measure from eleven to fifteen inches in circumference.

Below this elevated trunk lies a very old, decayed stump, almost fallen to pieces, and not touching the trunk nor the branches. Apparently this stump originally gave out these seven shoots (if that is the right name for them), which for some reason leaned toward each other during their growth until they met and united and became the base of this tall tree.

MRS. B. R. HATCH WED OOM DISCIPLE

KEPT MARRIAGE SECRET

Mrs. Barbara Rutherford Hatch, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt by her second marriage, was married to Winfield Jesse Nicholls, a fellow of Oom the Omnipotent, whose headquarters are at the Clarkstown Country Club, Nyack, on Aug. 11, it became known yesterday after the marriage had been kept secret for two weeks. The wedding took place in the office of J. C. Schmersahl, Justice of the Peace at New City, N. Y., and was witnessed by the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Sir Paul and Lady Dukes, who are also disciples of Oom.

Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls left on a wedding trip to Maine, which lasted but a week, and they are now back in Nyack, where they will make their home. On the marriage license Mr. Nicholls gave his age as 40, his occupation, artist, and the place of his birth California. The bride gave Lewis Morris Rutherford as her father's name and Anne Harriman as her mother's, and opposite the space marked occupation she wrote "indefinite."

Bride a Member of Cult.

The bride joined the cult at Nyack soon after her divorce several years ago from Cyril Hatch, and has made her home there since then. Mr. Nicholls has also made his home at the Clarkstown Club for some time and has been one of the most active disciples of Dr. Pierre A. Bernard, head of the cult.

Two years ago Lady Dukes, who is also a daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, and a former wife of Ogden L. Mills, married Sir Paul Dukes, also a follower of Oom. Immediately after their marriage they went to England for an extended visit, but later returned to Nyack. They now make their home in Europe.

Mrs. Vanderbilt sailed a short time ago for Europe, but before leaving she visited her daughters at the Clarkstown Club, and according to the newly married couple, she voiced her approval of the match. Nicholls, besides being an artist, writes under the pen name Mortimer K. Hargis.

The Clarkstown Country Club was formerly known as the Brae Burn Country Club, but the name was changed when Dr. Bernard considered his eminent list of converts and the quaint customs of the sect as getting too much publicity. The membership is about 200. Dr. Bernard has been known variously as "Tantrick" and "Loving Guru," but of late he has shown a preference to being known as "Oom the Omnipotent."

Paris Divorce From Cyril Hatch

Mrs. Nicholls was 21 years old when she was married to Cyril Hatch on June 23, 1916, at the home of her mother, who now lives at 1 Sutton Place, then lived at 660 Fifth Avenue. She was granted from Mr. Hatch in Paris in 1921, when her representative said that the relationship between Mr. and Mrs. Hatch was most amicable, and that there would be no money consideration or alimony involved in the divorce. The only child, according to the arrangements, was to be in the care of the mother half of each year and the father the other half.

The bride is the niece of Oliver Harriman, Joseph Wright Harriman, J. Low Harriman and Herbert M. Harriman and of Mrs. Stephen Olin and Mrs. Frances C. Haveneyer. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman and a half sister of the late Samuel Stevens Sands and George Winthrop Sands, sons of her mother by her first marriage, both of whom met with tragic deaths in motor accidents.

Mr. Hatch, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Hatch of Philadelphia, was left an orphan when very young and was brought up in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Austin Stevens of Newport. During the war Mrs. Nicholls had a prominent part in arranging charities for the relief of European countries, both in this city and at Newport.

Tantrik House Here Raided in 1910.

Pierre Arnold Bernard first came to public attention in May, 1910, when the house in West Seventy-fourth Street in which he directed classes in what he called the Hindu Order of Tantrik was raided by the police. The Tantrik he described as an American branch of a Hindu ethical and physical culture order. In the centre of one of the rooms, the floor of which was covered with mattresses of the sort used by professional tumblers, was a glass globe which emitted electric sparks. This electric display, Bernard had informed his class, was an exercise of his powers of personal magnetism, but the police discovered a connection with electric wires. District Attorney Whitman's attempts to indict him failed because of the disappearance of two women complainants.

A year later the New York Sanskrit College, which he opened at 2,379 Broadway, was complained of by neighbors, who claimed the noise made there kept them awake until 3 or 4 in the morning. In 1915 he opened an establishment at 662 West End Avenue. He bought the property in Nyack where the new Clarkstown Club was established in 1920. On May 30 this year it was reported that he, as the President of the country club, had bought Moorings, the Upper Nyack estate of the late Joseph Hilton. The price was said to have been more than $200,000.

F. E. BROOKS A SUICIDE.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 26.—Francis E. Brooks of 600 West 114th Street, New York, committed suicide last night by hanging himself from a rafter of a barn in William J. Gould's sanitarium at Monterey, Mass., thirty miles from here. At the sanitarium Mr. Brooks was understood to teach French in the department of languages at Columbia University.

He entered the sanitarium on June 20 suffering with nervous depression, characterized by an obsession that he would lose his job. His wife accompanied him, but is understood now to be in Paris. She also teaches French. The couple have one daughter, Jeanine, who is with her mother. Mr. Brooks has a brother, Frederick, who lives in Norwich, N. Y.

For the past five weeks Mr. Brooks had been working in the hayfields and seemed to have improved. Yesterday he eluded attendants, went to a barn, built a platform from which he could reach a rafter, tied a half-inch rope around his neck and jumped. He had been dead several hours when he was found.

There is no Francis E. Brooks listed as a member of the Faculty of Columbia University, but Mrs. F. E. Brooks of 600 West 114th Street is listed as a teacher in Horace Mann School, which is under university auspices. At the school last night it was said that Mr. Brooks was believed to have taught at the university during a recent Summer session.

Dr. Archibald Keightley of 3 West Eighth Street, whose patient Mr. Brooks was, said that he did not believe Mr. Brooks was connected with Columbia, although he knew him to be a teacher.

An Acknowledgment.

WALES ENLIVENS BERENGARIA PARTY

over jersey blue shirt with the sleeves cut off at the elbow, with a big rosette, flannel trousers and a mask, appeared suddenly from the back stairway. With him was Mrs. Norton, also dressed in Apache clothes.

They were several minutes in the ballroom before any one spotted who the Apache with the mask was. There was a moment's cheer and the heir to the throne, having been awarded the bopby prize, a baby doll, as a joke, disappeared again to come back later clad in evening clothes.

Busy Day in Athletics.

There seems no end to the Prince's energy. By 9 o'clock this morning he was in the gymnasium and then had an hour's swim. With a foot slightly lame from the recurrence of an old strain he suffered some time ago in the hunting field, he tramped steadily around the deck most of the morning, tiring out successively Lord Louis Mountbatten, Lady Louis Mountbatten, Mrs. Norton and General Trotter. After lunch he had several turns by himself, and later, at his request, when the weather turned slightly cloudy with a sprinkle of rain, the ballroom was opened up and the Paul Specht Band, which is traveling back from an engagement in England, was brought up to play.

The Prince has not worn fashionable dress at any time on board. During the first two days out he wore a gray flannel suit with a white stripe. Today he appeared in a costume affected by Oxford undergraduates, gray flannel trousers and brown check sports jacket with pockets set on the bias. His shoes are the despair of the ship's fashion experts. Except for one morning in white deck shoes, with brown strappings, he has worn brown suede brogues, and it was in these that he danced this afternoon. Though the recurrence of his old lameness has not prevented his dancing, he fears it will prevent his taking part in the tug of war tomorrow. This has not prevented his training for the event, however, and he had another try-out on the rope this evening after a vigorous dance. With the rest of his team on the boat deck did half an hour's strenuous work with as much enthusiasm as if he had been resting all day. His team consists of Lord Louis Mountbatten, H. G. Chilton, counselor of the British Embassy in Washington; Major Lascelles, the Prince's secretary; David Boyle, Major Bouch, Colonel Scott-Duff and Major Alfred Duff-Cooper, husband of Lady Diana Manners.

Against them the best team that has been practising consists of present and former Yale men, who are about the same weight.

The Prince greatly appreciated the sportsmanship of the American team which this afternoon sent to inquire the weight of the Prince's team, and afterward made alterations so as to have their team within a few pounds of the same weight.

Yesterday the Berengaria covered 575 miles, and at noon today had reached latitude 47.11 north and longitude 37.16 west. She is making a steady 23 knots, with a slight south-southwest breeze and the sea just ruffled. If for holds off, Chief Engineer MacDonald declares the engines will get the ship to New York at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Clifford Carver of Locust Valley, Long Island, former Secretary to the American Embassy in London, said yesterday that reports that he and Mrs. Carver were to entertain the Prince of Wales at a house party were incorrect. Mr. Carver said it was probable he and Mrs. Carver would entertain a number of friends from England while the Prince was on Long Island, but the invitations had not yet been issued and the names of the guests would not be announced for the present.

MRS. HECKSCHER'S ESTATE $2,000,000

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Aug. 26.—The will of the late Mrs. Anna A. Heckscher, wife of August Heckscher, was filed for probate in Suffolk County Surrogate Court today. It disposes of personal property appraised for tax purposes at over $50,000 and of unspecified real estate believed to be worth more than $2,000,000. Mrs. Heckscher died Aug. 13 on the Atlantic Transport liner Minnewaska while returning from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Antoinette Brett, in London.

Although Mrs. Heckscher was interested in her husband's philanthropy her will provides for no bequests to charity. It was executed April 15, 1922, and names as executors her husband, son, Maurice, the latter of Westbury, L. I.; Charles B. Jaqua, a friend, of Manhattan, and the Empire Trust Company.

After cash bequests totaling $100,000 and excluding 72 shares of the New Jersey Zinc Company, the residue of the estate is divided into four parts. One part goes to her daughter; one to her son; the net income from the third part to her husband, and at his death to their son; and the net income of the fourth part to her daughter, and at the latter's death to her issue.

Mrs. Heckscher's daughter, who is the wife of the Hon. Oliver Brett of Chester House, Upper Belgrave Street, London; Mrs. Louise Vanderhoef Heckscher, her daughter-in-law, and Frances Heckscher and Nancy Brett, granddaughters, receive bequests of jewelry. The residue of Mrs. Heckscher's jewelry is left to her son and daughter to be disposed in accordance with wishes personally expressed to them.

Mrs. Phoebe Schaeffer, a sister, and Hanson E. Atkins, a brother, both of Pottsville, Pa., receive cash bequests of $15,000 and $10,000, respectively, and a nephew, Charles M. Atkins of Bethlehem, Pa., receives $5,000.

The following friends receive cash bequests: Mrs. Mary W. Hoops (deceased), $15,000; Mrs. Flora de Gebhard, 1,000 Park Avenue, New York, $15,000; Mrs. Helen McLaughlin of 145 West Fifty-fifth Street, New York, $10,000; her son, Malcolm McLaughlin, $5,000, and Mrs. Elizabeth F. Ayres of 55 West Fifty-fifth Street, New York, $10,000.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 26.—Strong disapproval of the Federal Government's program for observing Defense Day on Sept 12 is voiced in a letter received by Governor Charles W. Bryan, Democratic nominee for Vice President, from the World War Veterans.

The letter, dated Aug. 21 and signed by C. T. Jennings, Secretary and Treasurer of the organization, with headquarters in Chicago, declared that the plan "for a yearly check on our national resources and means of defense" originated with John J. Riley, Chairman of the organization's Executive Board, but objected strenuously to the methods mapped out by the Government.

The present arrangements were characterized in the letter as "a raid on the pocketbooks of the patriotic citizens by a gang of slogan makers and professional propagandists, known to the war veterans as the Flag Waving Trust, who have grown rich by exploiting the sufferings of war veterans and now that we have driven them from our affairs, have turned to a newer and, as they hope, a more profitable gyp."

The project has been endorsed by a number of leading national organizations, such as the Zionist Organization of America, the Jewish Welfare Board, the Order Sons of Zion, Jewish Veterans of the Wars of the Republic, Jewish National Workers' Alliance, the Camp Fire Association of America and the Independent Order B'rith Abraham.

A NEW CAR · A NEW SIZE · A NEW PRICE

This new Pierce-Arrow is worthy of the name it bears. It is Pierce-Arrow in engineering, in appearance and in performance.

Men who have owned and driven many good cars agree with us that it displays a new measure of ease in acceleration, handling in traffic, speed, hill climbing and quick, safe stopping. Economies in operation and maintenance are additional reasons for the remarkable enthusiasm which has greeted this new Pierce-Arrow.

The car was developed in an unusual manner. After all laboratory and road work with experimental models was finished, a fleet of the new cars was put through regular factory production. Then these manufactured cars were sent to every corner of the United States. For months they were used and abused, day and night, in sand, mud, snow—on rutted mountain trails, desert wastes—everywhere that cars could be tested.

And through that terrific punishment of stock cars, the Pierce-Arrow Series 80 of today was developed.

The universal welcome which the new Pierce-Arrow received may soon make it impossible to secure immediate deliveries. We now have the car on display and shall be glad to arrange a thorough demonstration for you.

VILLARD STIRS UP POLITICS INSTITUTE

NEW LOAN POLICY OFFERED

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 26.—A speech by Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, provoked a controversy at the Institute of Politics today between army and navy officers on the one hand and pacifists on the other. Hisses and a cry of "Sit down!" from the pacifist group led Colonel Edward Clifford, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, to protest against the expression of pacifist, internationalist and un-American views.

W. S. Culbertson, Vice Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission and leader of the open conference on "international finance," at which the outbreak occurred, upheld the right of both sides to express their opinions.

Mr. Villard, who spoke on "Ethics and the Export of American Capital," charged the United States Government with aiding American bankers and capitalists to exploit weaker countries, especially in Latin America, by supporting loans and investments with the use of military forces "controlled by politicians without principle."

All the Latin American republics except six, Mr. Villard asserted, were "ruled by United States bullets or bankers." He predicted that if this policy were continued it would put all twenty of the Latin American republics under the economic vassalage of the United States and menace the peace and prosperity of the whole Western Hemisphere.

Proposes the "Ethical Policy."

The only ethical policy, Mr. Villard went on, was to serve notice upon American bankers and investors that they went abroad at their own risk, that the American fleet did not follow the American bankers, and that the military forces of the United States could not be used to collect private debts.

"The blood of the 3,000 Haytians slain by our American marines, and of the 400 dead in Vera Cruz, mostly women and children," he declared, "dishonors our good name, especially when involved with so sordid a business as debt collection."

Mr. Villard charged that Mexico had been "dragooned" by this Government into repudiating Article 27 of her new Constitution "to suit some of our American owners of Mexico oil."

As soon as Mr. Villard had finished, Rear Admiral Harry McL. P. Huse, retired, exclaimed:

"I have been fifty years in the navy and have never known a case where the navy was sent to collect a debt.

"The statement that 3,000 Haytians were killed by our marines is outrageous. It is not true. When charges like these are made against our gallant forces they should be sustained by more than a mere statement.

"The only case I know of that could possibly support the point raised by the lecturer is the capturing of the Custom House at Vera Cruz by an Administration with which the gentleman said himself he was supposed to have some influence. Why the Custom House was taken I cannot imagine. We did it; we were told to do it. The navy is not always entrusted with the policy of our Government. We carry it out. I can say this, however, that there is no job that would be more repulsive to the navy than to be sent to collect anybody's debts."

Denies Attacking Navy.

"I was not making an attack upon the navy or the Marine Corps," Mr. Villard replied. "I think the unkindest service that can be rendered to the army and navy is to make them do the kind of work they had to do. They were simply obeying orders."

"I based my statement," Mr. Villard returned, "on information given to me by both sides, including an Admiral who was present in that attack as one of your colleagues."

"I would like to know his name," exclaimed Admiral Huse, "because if he made any such statement as that he lied, and I believe I can get him court-martialled for it."

Mr. Villard declined to give the name. He then asserted that the Navy Department had technical reasons for denying that the navy had been used to collect debts, but that the general effect of American policy had been such that "the impression had gone abroad that we were standing behind our financial interests abroad."

Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, also attacked Mr. Villard's statements.

"I do not believe it is necessary to appeal to this intelligent audience of good Americans to condemn in no unmeasured terms the unwarranted insult and unfounded criticism of our Government and people that was made by the first speaker," said Admiral Jones. "I have been in the navy for forty-four years and have been in Central America and the West Indies, and I know that our armed forces have not been used to collect private debts. I hope to God the time will never come when you and yours, or any nationals of our country traveling in any country on their lawful occasions, must feel that their country has disowned them and their flag is no longer a protection."

"Mr. Villard has not made an attack upon the army or navy in any sense of the word," said Chairman Culbertson, "but has presented a view that is held by many Americans, and a view which I welcome in this conference, just the same as I welcome the views of the representatives of our navy and army."

Clifford Calls Speech "Startling."

"The speech we have heard this morning," said Colonel Clifford, who took the floor next, "is rather startling to some of us who fought in the late war and have been connected with the Government. I understood that the gentleman is supporting La Follette for President. Is that true?"

As Mr. Villard nodded assent a man in the back of the room shouted "Sit down!"

"No, I won't sit down," Colonel Clifford exclaimed. "This is an open conference."

Two women sitting back of Colonel Clifford, hissed.

"You may hiss me if you want," said the Colonel, "but a good many of us fellows who went and fought that this country might be what it is have sat here and heard a good many sentiments that I think are not quite American. I don't say at this conference particularly, but all the way through, we have had a good many people talk about a good many things international and not quite American. I ask the speaker whether his speech was the La Follette view on export of capital and foreign relations."

Mr. Villard replied that it was his personal view, and in reply to another question he said he was not authorized to speak for the La Follette party.

Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, political economist, also objected to Mr. Villard's thesis, saying it would lead to "non-intercourse and absolute national isolation."

William Howard Gardiner, Vice President of the Navy League, defended the course of the United States in the Caribbean and Central America, saying that one country "cannot maintain a public nuisance on one of the world's great highways."

Challenges Villard's Statement.

Dr. William Gould challenged Mr. Villard's statement that Mexico had been "dragooned" into repudiating Article 27 of her Constitution.

Dr. Arthur N. Young, economic adviser of the State Department, said the action could hardly be called "dragooning," because the two Governments came to an agreement, which was a matter of public record and could be seen by anybody.

Dr. Young made a detailed defense of the State Department's policy regarding foreign loans, especially in Latin America. He pointed out that a public statement issued by the State Department on March 3, 1922, warned that the State Department would not assume any responsibility in connection with foreign loans. He said the department maintained complete impartiality between competing American interests, and opposed any loans, such as those designed for unproductive or militaristic purposes, that might endanger the peaceful relations between the United States and the borrowing country, or might be inimical to the interests of the United States.

Replying to criticism of the American policy in trying to help weaker Governments, Dr. Young said some of the criticism had come from persons who had profited by the corrupt and inefficient Administration which existed before America gave its help.

"I regret[illegible]table," he went on, "that even American periodicals of high standing have, no doubt unwittingly, lent their pages to the circulation of untrue and misleading statements concerning the financial relations between the United States and other countries."

Suggests Supervision and Regulation.

Mr. Culbertson closed the discussion with the suggestion of a new Governmental policy toward the export of capital. Rejecting Mr. Villard's anti-imperialistic policy on the ground that if one nation pursued such a policy its influence would be eliminated from developing backward regions, and also rejecting the opposite policy of laissez faire on the ground that it would direct foreign investments into channels that would further imperialistic aims, Mr. Culbertson proposed a policy of supervision and regulation.

The "open door," or equality of treatment for the investment of capital, he held, was the soundest method for dealing with possible complications with other lending countries. This policy, he said, should go hand in hand with the progress of international law and international cooperation in restricting the political and social effects of economic penetration.

To prevent economic and financial quarrels between nations leading to war, Mr. Culbertson said, the United States was faced with the immediate duty of determining the next step toward perfecting cooperation between nations. Assuming that we were not going into the League, he said, two things should be done—to sign and ratify the protocol of the World Court and to have Congress pass a law indicating the policy of the American people to cooperate with other nations in international matters, a law that would avoid the treaty dispute and that could be passed by a majority instead of a two-thirds vote.

This legislation, he added, should also authorize the President to call conferences from time to time to codify existing international law and pass new laws, and should institute a peace council in the United States.

BRITISH LABOR POLICY.

R. H. Tawney, British Labor Party economist, delivered tonight his final lecture on the policies of the British labor movement. He dealt chiefly with the desire of British workers for a new order in the industrial life of the country.

"Englishmen have not expelled arbitrary power from the Throne in order to see it re-established in the factory and the mine," he said, "nor have they stripped their landed aristocracy of its privileges in order to transfer them to a plutocracy distinguished neither by birth nor by culture, but depending at best upon economic statesmanship and at worst merely on a nose for money. They will deal with the latter as they dealt with the former.

"What they are seeking, in short, amid many inconsistencies and hesitations, is some reconstruction of industry which will at once make those who direct it accountable to the community for their actions and increase the practical freedom of the mass of mankind by increasing their power to control the material conditions on which their livelihood and well-being depend.

In his noon message Captain Metcalfe had stated that the ship was 406 miles east of the lightship and would be in Quarantine at 5:30 A. M. today.

ASSAILS ALIENISTS OF FRANKS SLAYERS

Crowe Declares Leopold and Loeb Deserve as Much Mercy as 'Mad Dogs' or 'Rattlesnakes.'

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (Associated Press).—The labor of battering down the effectiveness of a four-day plea for "humanity, gentleness, kindness and mercy" was begun today by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

Launching the final argument of the State in the advisory hearing before Chief Justice John R. Caverly in Criminal Court, Mr. Crowe struck out vigorously with a renewal of the State's plea for the death penalty for Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb for the kidnapping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks.

The hearing came thus near to its end because Benjamin Bachrach of counsel for the defense used only a part of the morning session in the last plea for the student defendants, picking up a few stray threads of the defense case and weaving them into the design of its fabric.

Mr. Crowe based his argument, he emphasized, not on the philosophies of the sages of the ages, not upon the "prattle and piffle of paid alienists concerning childish phantasies and dreams of a superman," but "upon the laws of Illinois."

"And the law says," he shouted with a stirring gesture, "that in cases of extreme violence the penalty shall be fixed at death."

The State's Attorney snapped his fingers at the mental sickness theory of the defense, based, he said, upon "hair-line decisions of high-priced alienists," whom he called "the three wise men from the East."

He made light of "all this twaddle about childish compacts, and youthful phantasies, and dreamlands of teddy bears and detective careers," and called the proceedings "back from laboratories, psychopathic hospitals and communistic mass meetings to the Criminal Court of Cook County."

Post Mortem Reference Challenged.

His argument once took hint into the controverted points, and precipitated as a climax to the day's proceedings a disagreement between counsel which brought into the open record a portion of the Coroner's physician's testimony on his post mortem examination of the body of Bobby Franks after it was found in a water-filled railroad culvert.

The defense maintained that Mr. Crowe had drawn an unfair inference as to the condition of the body in relation to the crime, an inference which they said was not borne out by the Coroner's report.

To settle the controversy Judge Caverly sent for the report and announced a five-minute recess to give women an opportunity to leave. He assured them that court would adjourn immediately after the reading, but about half of those in the audience elected to remain. Then the Judge ordered them out.

"I want you to leave at once," he said. "Why persist in hearing this rot?"

Mr. Crowe was vigorous in his language. His gestures, particularly his pounding on the table before him, brought spectators to the edges of their seats.

"These two perverts," he cried. "Their lives are worthless to themselves; they are a disgrace to their proud families; they are a menace to community life.

He scored the defense plea for mercy, and characterized Mr. Darrow, "the professional protector of murder in Cook County."

The State's Attorney's mood flashed from the pleading of facts to the ironical, and then to sarcasm as he reviewed the testimony which six weeks of hearing has put into the record to aid Judge Caverly in fixing the penalty.

Likens Prisoners to Rattlesnakes.

"If they were not certain that the State had prepared an airtight case," he said, "the plea would have been insanity. Instead, we now have a plea running all around insanity, yet never touching it."

"These children," he cried, pointing to the defendants, "these two poor sons of multi-millionaires, are here pleading for the mercy of this court."

"Your Honor, these boys are entitled to as much mercy as two rattlesnakes, flushed with venom and coiled, ready to strike; as much mercy as two mad dogs. The only use for them now is to go out of this life as quickly as possible in the hands of the law."

The prosecutor replied also to the implied charge in the defense argument which he said held him up to the world as a "cold-blooded and heartless monster crying for the blood of two youths." His answer was the law.

"We may forgive for our personal injuries," he said to the Judge, facing him squarely and half leaning on the rail which held him apart from the bench.

"I have never prosecuted any one for a wrong against my person; and I have suffered grievous wrongs. I have never entered a law suit for the recovery of a debt; and even at this minute there is a great deal owing me. I am a man of family. I love my children; they love me. And I have no personal interest in this case beyond the upholding of the law.

"Neither you, as a Judge, nor I, as a State's Attorney, has a shred of right to forgive injuries to the laws, which we are sworn to defend."

Replying to Mr. Darrow's point that the crime was "aimless and without motive," the prosecutor asserted that the $10,000 ransom had "everything to do with it." He combatted the "aimless" idea of the defense by charging that the defendants had first intended to kidnap a little girl.

Assails Darrow as "Poisonous."

Mr. Crowe also discussed in an ironical vein the evidence concerning "split personalities."

"We have heard so much about those personalities in this case," he said, "that I was surprised to find in the personality of the eminent apostle of humanitarianism who proceeded me, so much poison."

He followed this with a denunciation of the defense attitude toward Loeb's childhood governesss.

"Why was she not called as a witness by the defense?" he exclaimed. "It was because she refused to follow the conclusions of the defense alienists regarding Loeb's childhood. At this moment she is in Europe, a pensioner of the Loeb family."

"There is not a word of evidence in the record to that effect," objected Benjamin Bachrach.

The early adjournment of court today prevented Mr. Crowe in getting as far along in his argument as he anticipated. He probably will continue through the entire day tomorrow.

Benjamin Bachrach, long-time friend of the Loeb family, completed the defense argument with another attack upon the mode of examinations by which the State's alienists concluded that the two brilliant college youths were of normal mentality.

He attacked also the legal citations offered in the first arguments of the State purporting to sustain the State's demand for a death penalty. He appealed to the court to consider that the present case was entirely without precedent in American legal history, and that its decision here would mark the path for the future.

"The last word of the defense is that Your Honor do not visit upon the families of these boys the indelible stain of the gallows," Mr. Bachrach concluded.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 26.—Choosing a manner of death identical with that of his famous great-grand-uncle—the sure, swift death of high explosive—Zebulon Montgomery Pike, aged 51, of Morrison, Col., brother of Mayor Albert Pike of that city, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday with a dynamite cartridge he held in his hand.

Despondent over a chronic ailment, from which he had been a sufferer for years, he climbed to the summit of Mount Glennon, a quarter mile southeast of Morrison and fifteen miles from Denver. From this vantage point he had a clear view to the southward, where rises Pike's Peak above the jagged range line of the Rockies.

Zebulon Montgomery Pike, after whom he was named, was the young Lieutenant in the United States Army who in 1806 discovered the mountain which bears his name. But as Zebulon Pike of Morrison gazed toward the South he must have been thinking of the tragic end of Brig. Gen. Pike, who was killed during the War of 1812 when a powder magazine exploded during the siege of York (now Toronto) in 1813.

Residents of Morrison heard the dull boom of the dynamite charge on Monday afternoon. Missing Pike, who lived alone in his cottage there, Al Towner, Town Marshal, and two friends recalling statements he is reported to have made about ending his own life, set out to search for him. At 2:30 o'clock this morning they came upon all that was left of his body.

Pike was a bachelor. For five years he had been suffering from stomach trouble and had despaired of a cure. On several occasions recently he had threatened to end his life. "I'll blow myself to pieces so you won't have to bury me," he had said.

6 EXPRESS ROBBERS ADMIT THE CRIME

SENTENCES NEXT WEEK

Two Wounded, Now in Hospital, Will Stand Trial When They Recover.

Six of the eight men accused of having attempted on Aug. 3 last a robbery of the four-story warehouse of the American Express Company at 438 West Fifty-fifth Street pleaded guilty yesterday, before Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, in General Sessions. Four of them had decided to go to trial. After selection of a jury had begun these four suddenly changed their minds and joined the other two in entering pleas of guilty. Two more men are in Bellevue Hospital recovering from wounds, and will be arraigned as soon as released from the hospital.

The warehouse held $1,000,000 worth of merchandise when the gang of armed men attempted the robbery. The block, however, had been surrounded by detectives and men in uniform, on information received by the police that a hold-up was in view. In an exchange of bullets two men, who said they were Charles Smithson and Philip Ziegler, were wounded.

Sentences will be imposed next week. Police Headquarters was disturbed two weeks ago by a rumor that the prisoners would be permitted to get off with light sentences on pleas of guilty in degrees less than charged. This rumor was denied by Acting District Attorney George N. Brothers.

The six men were brought from the Tombs yesterday for trial on a charge of robbery in the first degree, on which charge conviction would carry a maximum sentence of ten years. The two who pleaded guilty immediately were Murray Gordon, 29 years old, a salesman, of 585 East 185th Street, the Bronx, and Samuel Holt, alias Gold, 29, a barber, of 10 West Thirty-ninth Street, ex-convict.

Selection of a jury was under way when proceedings were interrupted by a conference between Louis Geiger, 27, a chauffeur, of 112 West 112th Street, and counsel. Geiger entered a plea of guilty. Samuel Cohen, 31, a fruit dealer, of 760 Grove Street, the Bronx, asked permission to confer with his wife, who was in the courtroom. After the talk he joined in the pleas of guilty. The next to weaken was John J. O'Neill, 33, a watchman and formerly a keeper at Dannemora Prison. That left only one man on trial, Samuel Levine, 32, a chauffeur, of 116 West 115th Street. After a few minutes he interrupted selection of a jury to enter his plea of guilty.

The six men were remanded to the Tombs without bail.

McALLISTER CASE DELAYED.

Policeman Withdraws Nut Guilty Plea in Murder Hearing.

Patrolman Robert F. McAllister, indicted for murder in the first degree in the shooting of Vincent Fighera, an alleged automobile thief, yesterday pleaded not guilty before General Sessions Judge William Allen. A few minutes later, after a conference of the Court, Albert B. Unger, Assistant District Attorney, and Sidney R. Lash, counsel for the defendant, the plea not guilty was withdrawn. Judge Allen granted the defendant's motion for postponement of pleading until Friday.

Attorney Lash refused to say why the plea had been withdrawn or what action he planned to take Friday.

As McAllister was being led into the courtroom he saw his wife and threw her a kiss. She smiled encouragement.

After the court proceedings Lash issued this statement:

"I feel that if the Grand Jury had permitted the defendant to tell his story, an indictment might not have been returned. I believe in the defendant's innocence, and this will be established by the trial jury, but, in the meantime, I hope the public will suspend its judgment on the defendant and his fellow-officers.

"The defendant did what any citizen, no less a police officer, would do. Imagine an officer meeting two known criminals on a deserted street about 3:30 o'clock in the morning. They are ordered to throw up their hands. Instead, they attempt to assault the officer and one makes a motion to draw a gun from his hip pocket. Was the officer to wait until the gun was seen, and perhaps be killed, or was he to shoot first?

"The underworld must fear and respect the police. Petting and making heroes of known criminals has gone a step too far and tends to increase their fold. The killing of police officers has become a pastime with this class of gentry, an example of which was the recent shooting of Officer Hogan. If this sort of conduct is to be sanctioned it will tend to demoralize the police force."

Miss Marion Stokes of 36 West Fifty-ninth Street, who was arrested Aug. 13 last on a charge of grand larceny in retaining a $3,000 diamond bracelet obtained from a jeweler, was exonerated yesterday by Magistrate Vitale in Tombs Court.

Miss Stokes told the Court she had bought more than $10,000 worth of jewelry from the firm in the past year and often had taken articles out for a few days to determine whether she would buy them. She said she had bought the bracelet for $3,000, had been compelled to pawn it for $400 and had sold the firm the ticket for $300. Miss Stokes said the jewelers had sold articles for her on which they owed her $1,400 and that she had been unable to get this money.

DETECTIVE KILLS ROBBERY SUSPECT

THREE OTHERS ARRESTED

An alleged robber who had drawn a pistol was mortally wounded by a bullet from a detective's pistol in trying to escape arrest in a rooming house at 306 West 140th Street yesterday afternoon. Three others were arrested when the police found in their room at that address forty-five fur coats and more than 100 dresses stolen yesterday morning from a fur and dress shop.

The youth shot to death was John E. Kilgallon, 19 years old, a laborer, of 2,734 Eighth Avenue. Assistant District Attorney William P. Ryan and Captain of Detectives Daniel Kerr began an investigation of the slaying. The man was shot by Detective Sergeant Amiel Winterhalter.

The suspicions of the landlady, Mrs. Casper Belsi, led to the raid in which Kilgallon was killed. Mrs. Belsi rented the room a month ago to four men who said they were laborers. Kilgallon was one of them. The others were James McGovern, 19, of 2,825 Seventh Avenue; Michael Tymon, 21, of 2,835 Eighth Avenue, and Salvatore Romato, who said yesterday his address was the Belsi rooming house.

Mrs. Belsi was awakened at 4 o'clock yesterday morning by an automobile that had drawn up in front of the building. She glanced from a window and saw her four roomers carrying large bundles into the house.

The men slept late. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Belsi examined their room. She found fur coats and dresses about. She notified the police of the West 135th Street station that the circumstances warranted investigation. Winterhalter and Detective Sergeant John Butler went to the room and waited.

At 3 o'clock Kilgallon and Romato entered. They demanded to know who the strangers were.

Romato started for the door, according to the detectives. Butler caught and held him. Kilgallon backed out, drawing a pistol, they said. Winterhalter, drawing his own weapon, commanded Kilgallon to drop his pistol. Instead, Kilgallon, clinging to the weapon, turned and started down the stairs. Winterhalter fired. Kilgallon struggled toward the landing and collapsed. The pistol dropped from his hand.

Winterhalter returned to the room and joined Butler and the prisoner. In a short time McGovern and Tymon came in. All three prisoners were charged with burglary.

Julian and Louis Goldberg, owners of a fur and dress shop at 1,389 St. Nicholas Avenue, had reported that when they opened their store yesterday morning they found that 45 fur coats and more than 100 dresses had been taken. They identified the loot in the furnished room as their goods.

PLANS TO BUY NEWSPAPER.

The formation of a new corporation for the purpose of taking over other newspapers was announced yesterday by Frederick W. Enwright, publisher of The New York Bulletin, through the columns of that paper.

The announcement said: "Arrangements are now being made by the attorneys for the publisher of The New York Evening Bulletin to effect the formation of a new corporation, to be instituted for the purpose of taking over other newspapers. Frederick W. Enwright will be President and Treasurer of the corporation."

Although he declined to make known the identity of the papers which he plans to take over, Mr. Enwright said that one was a New York evening paper and the other two were dailies in small cities in Massachusetts.

From unofficial sources it was reported that the New York newspaper which Mr. Enwright planned to buy was The Evening Telegram-Mail, owned by Frank A. Munsey, but no verification of this report could be obtained. In reply to questions, Mr. Enwright said that he was not at liberty to disclose the name of the paper, since final arrangements would not be completed for thirty days.

In the absence of Mr. Munsey, who is returning from Europe this morning aboard the steamship Homeric, R. H. Titherington, Secretary of the Frank A. Munsey Company, denied flatly that any such negotiations were in progress. "So far as I know," Mr. Titherington said, "no such sale has ever been contemplated."

The new company, in addition to Mr. Enwright, will have as officers his wife, Mrs. Eleanor M. Enwright, and his brother, Walter H. T. Enwright. It will be capitalized at $3,500,000, Mr. Enwright said.

In discussing his plans Mr. Enwright said that he did not contemplate consolidating the paper he would take over with The Bulletin. "I think that The Bulletin fills a much-needed place in the field of New York newspapers," he said. "It is now on a paying basis, and I am going to preserve it just as it is. My other paper will be of a different type."

Mr. Enwright also publishes The Boston Telegram and The Lynn (Mass.) Telegram-News.

Mr. Munsey purchased The Evening Telegram with The New York Herald on Jan. 14, 1920. Last January he purchased The Evening Mail, which he consolidated with The Telegram.

FLIGHT TO LABRADOR SET FOR TOMORROW

COOLIDGE SENDS GREETING

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. LAWRENCE (Via Battle Harbor and Fogo, N. F.) Aug. 26.—The flight of the American world aviators from Ivigtut, Greenland, of Indian Harbor, Labrador, has been postponed until Thursday to enable both planes to finish installing new motors.

President's Message to Greet Fliers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A message to the Chief of the Air Service sent from the U. S. S. Milwaukee, Aug. 25, and signed by Lieutenant Smith, said:

A telegram from President Coolidge congratulating the American Army world fliers on their achievement will be handed to Lieutenants Lowell H. Smith, Flight Commander; Eric Nelson, Leigh Wade, Leslie P. Arnold, John Harding and Henry H. Ogden immediately upon their arrival on the American continent, the War Department announced today. The message from the President reads:

"Your return to North American soil following circumnavigation of the earth by air is an inspiration to the whole nation. Your history-making flight has been followed with absorbing interest by the people everywhere and you will be welcomed back to the United States with an eagerness and enthusiasm that I am sure will compensate for the hardship you have undergone.

"Your countrymen are proud of you. Your branch of the service realizes the honor you have won for it. My congratulations and heartiest good wishes go to you at this hour of your landing."

Locatelli Forced to Pass Our Fliers.

ABOARD U. S. S. RICHMOND, Aug. 26 (Associated Press).—Lieutenant Antonio Locatelli, the Italian airman, and his relief pilot, Lieutenant Jullio Crossio, and Engineers Giovanni Barccini and Bruno Farsynelli, who were rescued by the Richmond late Sunday night, today appeared little the worse for their nerve-wracked adventure.

Except for hands blistered by castor oil and sea water the rescued aviators were uninjured. While expressing gratitude to the Americans for saving their lives, Locatelli said they believed their plane could have been flown again had it not been necessary to destroy the craft.

"I was sorry to outdistance the American planes when we hopped off in Reykjavik," said Lieutenant Locatelli, "but I was compelled to do so because I was unable to maintain the proper height for such a heavy seaplane, fully loaded with fuel, at less speed than 150 miles an hour. We had planned on the next hop to give the Americans an hour's lead.

"After a flight of 7¼ hours from Reykjavik we developed engine trouble due to water in the motors. I believe we could have made Fredericksdal, but the fog was so thick we decided to land, make repairs and wait for the weather to clear. We came down about twenty-five miles east of Cape Farewell on an unexpectedly rough sea.

"The descent loosened two of our engine supports and the turbulent waters prevented us taking off again after repairs had been made. We decided to wait until Friday, the next day, and Sarsynelli were too seasick to take an interest in anything. Lieutenant Crossio and I were unable to handle the plane alone.

Sent Message in Bottle.

"Friday we drifted far south of Cape Farewell and Saturday and Sunday we drifted 100 miles east. We did not see any ships. The fog lifted Friday, allowing a view of the coast. But it was too far for us to consider taxiing with only 600 litres of gasoline remaining.

"I kept a careful watch of our positions and always knew exactly where we were. Sunday the two engineers recovered somewhat and we made an effort to take off, but the rear engine was cranky because of splashing water.

"We kept the plane in the wind, using the ailerons, and maintained watches day and night. A small lamp was kept burning above the engine during the darkness. We even sent a message in a bottle, giving our position, the direction and the drift.

"The last night I had a premonition: I was on watch, and I fired for the first time, personally, a rocket. Soon after one of the engineers shouted:

"It at first paid no attention because on the previous night the same man had called me, believing that the planet Venus was a vessel's light.

"But soon signals from the Richmond were plainly seen and then the vessel's searchlight caught us. We were all delighted and thankful, although there was no immediate danger of death, with a six days' supply of food and water on hand."

"Thank you. All have done well. We found you not only a great pilot, but a good friend. Fortune was not with us, but we sincerely trust that your magnificent flight may continue a success until it is accomplished for the glory of all humanity."

RADIO CONFERENCE CALLED BY HOOVER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover has called another conference looking to the better voluntary control of radio transmission and reception. The conference will begin in Washington on Sept. 30.

The other conferences, in February, 1922, and in March, 1923, were attended by agents of manufacturers and representatives of broadcasting stations and of the public. At the last conference the then existing chaos in the air was cleared up by regulation of wave bands and time of sending.

"The result," said a statement today from the Department of Commerce, "has been a lessening of friction and misunderstanding through the voluntary cooperation of the industry, the public and the department, especially in the reduction of interference and the improvement of service. The growth of radio, and particularly the multiplication of broadcasting stations and the consequent congestion of the air has made necessary a consideration of many subjects and perhaps a revision of some present methods."

Some of the matters which will be discussed and considered at the conference are: Revision of the present frequency or wave length allocations, to reduce interference; use of high frequencies or short waves, classification of broadcasting stations, possible discontinuance of Class C stations, interconnection of broadcasting stations, limitation of power, division of time, zoning of broadcasting stations, means for distinguishing the identity of amateur calls from foreign countries, interference by electrical devices other than radio transmitting stations and relations between Government and commercial service.

Crippled Hero Drowned Trying to Save a Woman

William Russo, 38 years old, for nine years a clerk in the administration office of the Manhattan State Hospital on Welfare Island, was in his office on the first floor of the building at 6 o'clock Monday morning when he saw Della Early, a patient, running in the direction of the sea wall from the ward where she was confined as a patient. Screaming with excitement she leaped from the sea wall into the water.

Meanwhile Russo, crippled in his right leg, rushed out of the building and limped to the sea wall. For a moment he caught sight of the woman fighting the current and plunged in after her.

The tide took Russo away from the woman and in his efforts to reach her he became exhausted. Other attaches of the hospital put out in a boat in an effort to pick him up. He disappeared and they could not find him or locate his body. The ferryboat Parkhurst came along and the woman was picked up.

MOTORIST DROWNED WHEN CAR HITS BOY

GIRL, 3, KILLED BY TRUCK

Wallenty Lazicke, a cement contractor of Brooklyn, was trapped and drowned yesterday when his glass enclosed sedan car crashed through a guard rail on the Ulmer Park pier, Twenty-fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, and plunged into eighteen feet of water in Gravesend Bay.

Lazicke drove out along the pier to supervise an incoming boatload of cement when an 11-year-old boy, Abraham Wilimer of 1,681 Seventy-sixth Street, Brooklyn, appeared suddenly in his path. Lazicke swerved quickly, not enough to avoid striking the boy and knocking him into the water, but enough to break through the railing and send the car into the bay.

Patrolman Michael Wall of the Parkville Station, who was off duty, was in bathing and led a band of rescuers which got young Wilimer out safely. The boy had suffered only minor bruises. Wall then dived and discovered Lazicke's legs protruding from an open window in the sedan. He returned and got a rope, which he made fast about Lazicke, and the body was drawn to the surface. Artificial respiration was tried in vain.

Meanwhile Hook and Ladder Company 253 fished out the sedan by a block and fall. The car was empty, and this was believed to dispose of a rumor that Lazicke had been accompanied by a woman and a girl. Lazicke, who was 52 years old, lived at 46 Bay Twentieth Street, Brooklyn, his body being claimed at the Bath Beach Station by his wife, Dora, and a son, Samuel. Police said he had had the automobile only a couple of weeks.

Three-year-old Amelia Longabardi was killed by a motor truck when playing in front of her home, 24 King Street, last night. The driver fled to escape the wrath of the neighbors. Vito Morsellino, the driver's helper, said they had not seen the child.

Twenty-two persons were injured yesterday in a collision between a trolley car and a coal truck at Dean Street and Rlaph Avenue, Brooklyn. Isidore Benjamin, 43 years old, was caught in the wreckage of the vestibule and taken to St. Mary's Hospital. Those most seriously injured were Mrs. Rae Ginsbberg, 33, of 1,498 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn; Max Krakovitz, 46, of 437 Hopkins Street, Brooklyn, and Jacob Miller, 28, of 625 Howard Avenue, Brooklyn. The truck, loaded with six tons of coal, was owned by the Rubel Brothers Coal Company and was driven by William Bennett of 93 Rochester Avenue, Brooklyn.

In Hammonton, N. J., a succession of accidents in twenty-four hours in which thirty-eight persons had been injured, three perhaps fatally, reached a climax yesterday when a wildly driven automobile crashed into a touring car, seriously injuring six more persons. Lawrence C. Ryan of Philadelphia, driver of the first car, was held in $2,000 bail on a charge of atrocious assault. It was alleged he was driving without a license. E. A. Dickson of Grafton, Pa., his wife Norah and his 11-year-old daughter Mary were taken to the West Jersey Hospital in Camden in a serious condition. Patrick J. Dowling, 67 years old, father of Mrs. Dickson, and his two grandchildren, Anna Dickson, 6, and Edward, 4, were left in the Hammonton Hospital, badly cut and bruised.

Rosa Minesky, 55 years old, received a possible fracture of the skull while crossing Third Avenue at Ninety-ninth Street last night and was taken to Reception Hospital. Police said the car that struck her was owned by the Salada Company of 91 Hudson Street and, driven by William Leopold of 830 Scholes Street, Brooklyn.

Three shots fired from the crowd which assembled when Joseph Tracey was run down by an automobile at Arthur Avenue and 180th Street, the Bronx, last night, halted the driver of the car as police said he was trying to drive away. At the Bathgate Avenue station the driver said he was John Tully of 779 East 179th Street.

Court Calls Texas Decree a Fraud—Won't Dismiss Suit for Writ.

Supreme Court Justice Burr yesterday denied an application of Archibald B. Gwathmey, former President of the New York Cotton Exchange, to dismiss the complaint in a suit by Mrs. Isabelle C. Gwathmey, from whom he got a Texas divorce in January, for an injunction restraining him from attempting to enforce the Texas decree, taking any steps in connection with it, or claiming it to be valid.

Mr. Gwathmey was remarried on July 4 at Stamford, Conn., to Mrs. Betsy Judd, widow of a former business associate, after a suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Isabelle C. Gwathmey had been decided in his favor. The first Mrs. Gwathmey then sued for a separation, alleging that he abandoned her in 1919 in this State.

In his decision upholding the complaint in the injunction suit, Justice Burr says it is admitted that Mr. Gwathmey was a resident of New York when he got the Texas divorce, that he never acquired a matrimonial domicile elsewhere and that the plaintiff did not submit herself to the jurisdiction of the Texas courts.

STABILITY GROWING IN FILM INDUSTRY

NO LONGER A SPOILED CHILD

The Business From Now On Will Be Less Spectacular but Safer, the Review Believes.

The motion-picture industry is no longer to be regarded as "the spoiled child" among American industries, and from now on will be a "less spectacular business but a safer one," according to the National Bank of Commerce in a review made public yesterday.

"Producers have learned," says the bank, "that it is possible to earn as large a profit on a good $100,000 picture as on one which costs $200,000," So-called "super pictures," it is pointed out, have cost in recent years from $700,000 to $1,500,000, although once it was possible to produce an acceptable "feature" picture for a few thousand dollars and the average cost is now between $100,000 and $200,000.

"Until 1923 the motion-picture industry was the spoiled child among American industries," says the bank, "spending as lavishly as it pleased on more and more costly productions. This condition was not permanent."

The bank says that "spectacular superproductions of the million-dollar class magnify the risk which the producer runs," and "they will never be the bread-and-butter earners of the industry. For a year or longer the producer must lose interest on his capital which is tied up in the pictures or pay interest on loans before profits begin."

Alluding to the "lack of cost control" which brought the industry to a crisis in 1923, resulting in drastic retrenchment by several companies, the bank adds:

"Only gradually is the motion picture business gaining recognition as a proper field for the placing of bank funds. Until the past year or two few companies could secure loans. . . . At present this condition is changing. Bank officers have been invited to join the directorates of larger film companies, and the modifying of speculative features in the industry is resulting in a less distrustful attitude on the part of the banks."

COOLIDGE PRAISES RELIEF.

Commends Plan to Send Christmas Ship to Impoverished Germans.

A letter from President Coolidge, commending the plan of the Women's Church Committee on International Good-will to send a Christmas relief ship to Germany, was made public yesterday by Miss Carolena M. Wood, Chairman of the committee.

"It is not an expression," the President wrote, "of the charitable heart of America that I am glad to hear of the Christmas ship which the Women's Church Committee on International Good-will plans to send to the women and children of Germany. The appeal of little children is world-wide and America has never turned a deaf ear, whether the cry came from Armenia or from the devastated regions of France, from Rumania or from the Far East. Such charity is, I believe, one aspect of the good-will of America to all nations, of our desire to promote durable peace through mutual understanding."

The ship, which will sail on Nov. 10, will be followed by a group of American women who will speak in Germany in the interest of international friendship. A church committee of German women, assisted by the American Friends, will distribute the supplies to impoverished Germans.

"FRISCO" WRECK INJURES 32

MENFRO, Mo., Aug. 26.—Thirty-two passengers were injured, three severely, when the "Memphian," the "Frisco" line's passenger train from Memphis to St. Louis, was thrown from the track while running between forty and fifty miles an hour near here today.

The train struck a broken rail, officials said. The baggage car was derailed, a chair car hurled into a ditch and another dl dnot stop until it struck the front porch of a house at the side of the track.

MRS. HARRIS ASKS $12,500.

Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris applied to the Supreme Court yesterday for $10,000 counsel fees and $2,500 allowances for expenses pending the decision of her appeal from the verdict of a jury March last which annulled her marriage to Beverly D. Harris, a former Vice President of the National City Bank. Mrs. Harris also asked that the banker be ordered by the court to provide her with a complete record of the annulment trial. Supreme Court Justice Donohue reserved decision.

Caruthers Ewing, counsel for Mr. Harris, contended that there was "not the slightest reasonable ground" for belief that Mrs. Harris would succeed in her appeal. He added that the heavy expenses incurred in the effort to have the marriage annulled had left the banker financially strained.

HIGH FARM PRICES AND PROSPERITY PREDICTED

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Professor David Friday, formerly President of the Michigan Agricultural College, in an address today at the annual meeting of the American Association of Joint Stock Land Banks, discussed the country's present outlook for agricultural prosperity. After reviewing the great agricultural revivals of 1879 and 1897, he said:

"Agriculture has now been in a state of depression for almost four years. Crop and weather conditions here and abroad have once more produced a phenomenal rise in the price of cotton, wheat and corn. It is a hopeful sign for the future of agriculture that this increase has not come about as the result of any political action but of more fundamental causes which are likely to continue for some years.

"That the farmer's purchasing power for 1924 will be vastly greater than for 1922 is no longer a matter of dispute. In the cotton-growing sections revival came last year. In the wheat, corn and hog areas it has just arrived. The most difficult problem is to decide how long it will continue. The revival of 1879 lasted a comparatively short time. After 1881 the price trend of wheat and other farm products was definitely downward once more and continued to fall until 1896. But after 1897 the upward movement continued for seventeen years. Then war swept across the current of our industrial life and carried prices to high heaven. What prices will the future bring for farm products?

"The year 1910 initiated an era during which the number of farms actually decreased. There are today fewer farms and fewer persons engaged in farming than there were fourteen years ago. But our urban population has continued to grow rapidly since the beginning of this century. As against 45,000,000 people living in towns in 1900, and 60,000,000 in 1910, there are 80,000,000 today. By 1930 there will, in all likelihood, be 90,000,000 persons in cities and towns to be fed from the farms of this nation. It is clear, then, that the demand for agricultural products in America is on the increase now, and that those seventeen years which succeeded the revival of prices and business in 1897. It is clear, too, that unless there is an unusual increase in the supply of agricultural products the prices of farm products will hold the advance which they are now making and will rise further.

"It may be that we are facing a decline in the general price level of all commodities during the next decade or two. It is certain that we will not again see the general upswing of prices which occurred between 1897 and 1914. If prices should decline, that has been here said will lead to the conclusion that farm prices will decline less than other prices. There is already some evidence that this is taking place.

"History tells us that American agriculture has seen a degree of progress in the past which was never before witnessed by any group who tilled the soil. Much of the writing of the last few years carries the impression that the American farmer has been going from bad to worse for a long time and that the events of 1921 and 1922 were merely the last straw that broke the camel's back. Any one who knows the course of farm prices, the increase in the value of the farmer's product which was not fed to his live stock, the growth of agricultural output, and the stupendous increase in the value of farm lands, knows that such talk is arrant nonsense. The Interstate Commerce Commission has valued our railroads at about $20,000,000,000; but the value of farm lands, exclusive of buildings, is today $28,000,000,000 higher than it was in 1900. Farmers, like other people, bid for land at higher prices because they can sell the product which they grow upon that land at a profit. The American farmer knows this. He does not belong to an impoverished peasant class. He is a member of an industry which has done well by him in the past and which promises him increased progress and well-being for the future."

MADRID, Aug. 26.—Announcement was made today that King Alfonso had signed a decree, which already had received approval of the military directorate, authorizing a contract with the National Telephone Company of Spain, organized by the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation of New York in cooperation with the principal Spanish banks, for the construction and exploitation of a telephone system throughout the Spanish kingdom. The new company, it is said, will take over the Government-owned as well as the private telephone systems.

NEGLECT OF BUSINESS FOR POLITICS DECRIED

The annual convention of the National Council of Traveling Salesmen's Associations was opened yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The initial attendance of several hundred is expected to be increased largely at the remaining sessions today and tomorrow.

Major Gen. James G. Harbord, head of the Radio Corporation of America, in a message to the convention, urged the delegates to disprove the idea that Presidential election years are times for slacking up activity.

"Just because the donkey and the elephant are up on their haunches and the time-worn bandwagon in its quadrennial coat of glistening paint has again made its appearance, is no justification for us to leave the sample case at the hotel and scramble for a vantage point from which to view the parade," he said.

John W. Scott of Carson, Pirie & Scott of Chicago said that he did not expect radical price changes within the next six months. Speaking of the recent curtailment of the manufacture of cotton, silk and wool goods, Mr. Scott said:

"The curtailment in cotton goods is said to be the greatest known in the history of the industry. There was a considerable curtailment after the deflation of 1920, but mills that have never been closed before have been closed, or nearly closed, during some period in the past six months. Some of you may be looking for great price changes. I don't expect them myself within the next six months, because there has been such liquidation of excess stocks, not only of cotton goods but of silk goods.

"Much will depend, of course, upon the new cotton crop. I believe that cotton will have to go much lower before we have any real reduction in the price of cotton goods."

The stand of the railroads regarding Pullman surcharges, which the organization seeks to have repealed, was criticised by A. M. Loeb, President of the council. He also spoke on the council's agitation for interchangeable mileage books and lower transportation rates.

Dr. Rudolf Schroeder, psychoanalyst, explained how his science would aid the salesman in sizing up "prospects." He remarked that the fat man was too stout to fight or run, and was obliged to assume his characteristic good nature as a matter of strategy.

Despite the fact that fair volume of business in practically all kinds of cotton goods is being received by commission houses in the Worth Street district at present, the general feeling is that the demand is by no means as big as it should be in view of the known paucity of stocks of textiles in the hands of leading jobbers and retailers throughout the country. The outstanding obstacle to a much larger business than that now being placed was said yesterday to be the lack of a stable basis for cotton. With that staple showing all the uneasiness of the proverbial hen on a hot griddle, neither buyers nor sellers can tell from one day to the next just where they stand. One day the latter will be asserting that prices are too low and pointing out an advancing market for cotton to justify their assertions. A day or two later buyers will point to a drop in the staple to prove their contention that advances in the finished goods are unwarranted. In the meantime a heavy potential demand remains unsupplied.

Long Sleeves Are Being Shown.

A feature of the steadily increasing demand for the tunic blouse in this market is the tendency, especially in the higher-priced lines, to exploit the long, fitted sleeve. The beaded imports, with their abbreviated sleeves, are less popular now than they were earlier in the season. Bengaline, particularly in black, is one of the favored materials, and the blouse makers are complaining of their inability to get enough of this fabric. It is particularly suited to tailored models, which are meeting with general approval at present. Black satin slips continue to be worn in most instances, if not exclusively, with tunics of all kinds and colors. The slips are short and narrow. The tunics vary somewhat in length, according to the price of the garment, but the average blouse of this type runs from 36 to 40 inches. Some make use of leather belts and side ties, while others show the unbroken line.

Gray Goods Still Move Slowly.

Yesterday was another "draggy" day in the local gray goods market, although there was more trading than on Monday. In the day's sales of printcloths were "quick" 39-inch 68-72s from first hands at 10 cents and similar lots of 38½-inch 64-60s from second hands at 8⅞ cents. The best that could be done on 39-inch 80-squares was 12¾ cents. Sales of the lighter sheetings included 36-inch 6.50s at 7⅝ cents, with limited business also reported in 6.15s of that width at 7¼ cents. For 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings buyers were asked to pay 10⅞ cents. In the fine-yarn cloths not a great deal of activity was reported, but sales of specialties included 72-80 pajama checks, for prompt delivery, at 11 cents.

Offer Silk Vests for Women.

Tailored silk vests are being made and shown this season for wear with the coat dress as well as the two-piece tailored suit, according to a bulletin sent out by the United Neckwear League of America. The newest coat dresses frequently show a long neck opening, and in this space are worn to advantage the new vests of corded silk, fastened with buttons and finished with a small, round collar. Not only do some of the newest vests make use of white bengaline and other corded silks, as well as crêpe de chine, tucked into a fabric of greater firmness, but there is a general introduction of color in the Fall showings. Red is liked in all varieties of neckwear, and gray is particularly effective in tailored vests. The coat dress is also responsible for the continued use of small, round collars and square cuffs of linen and organdie. Lace neckwear continues active, especially for wear with black satin dresses.

New Type of Japanese Rug.

One of the outstanding items on the list of a leading manufacturer and importer of Summer and porch carpets are Japanese rugs resembling in shape, coloring and design the early American hooked rugs. They are oval or oblong in shape, and are made of a combination of straw braid and insets of rush designs in brilliant floral or conventional patterns. They vary in size from 2 by 3 feet to 4 by 7. The wholesale price is 65 cents a square foot. Decorators have shown marked interest in these rugs on account of their decorative character and individuality.

Felt hats for Fall and Winter are being shown in shapes somewhat larger than in seasons past, to conform to the more loosely fitting clothing now in vogue. Grays are still strong, with black bands and bindings, although the more exclusive trade is now demanding the new shades of hazel brown, deer, &c. For informal wear the younger men are partial to a flat or medium-brimmed model of lightweight felt, worn turned down in front, with the front of the crown pinched in. Among the grays, the bluish shades predominate. Some of the manufacturers of the highest grade merchandise report brisk business, although in other quarters there is some depression.

Linoleums will be shown this year in a greater variety of designs than ever before, especially as regards the patterns intended for general use throughout the house, said a manufacturer yesterday. The Jaspe effects introduced last year are enjoying a marked success, notably in delicate tints for bedrooms. Indications are that after the jobbers' convention in Lancaster in September or early October business in this line of floor coverings will be better than for some years past. There has been a marked increase in orders received in the last two weeks. Especially popular are the linoleum rugs, which are offered in excellent designs copied after the finer grades of Orientals.

Philippine Rattan Furniture.

The first importations of Billibid rattan furniture are announced by a large importing house. It is made at Malabon, near Manila, Philippine Islands, monthly by ex-convict labor, and has never before been brought to this country in commercial quantities. It is massive and substantial in character and very comfortable, with spring seats and wide arms. The wholesale price of a large arm-chair is about $35, and of a divan about $75. It is suitable for the living-room, especially when fitted with linen or tapestry cushions. Tables of the same material are very effective, with tops of the very dark native mahogany.

Although all indications point to an overwhelmingly black season in women's street footwear, they point just as strongly to a colorful season in this merchandise for evening wear. Metallic shades will be in favor; in fact, the predictions are that the big leader will be silver kid. So far, at least, no serious rival to kid footwear of this hue has cropped up. In hosiery, too, color will prevail for evening wear, and stockings of the shades that go well with silver kid are meeting with considerable demand. The so-called moonlight hue is said to be especially wanted at the moment. Pastel shades harmonizing with the favored colors in evening dresses are also expected to do very well in hosiery this Fall.

A recent French importation by a concern specializing in high-grade wool garments is a knitted costume of pull-over jacket and separate skirt with soft bucks trimmings. The suede collar, cuffs and belt in gray, russet or leaf-green add a touch of smartness which is creating for these garments a brisk demand from early buyers. They come in various color combinations in novelty pebble weaves. Plaids, mostly in contrasting colors, are very popular in all lines of knitted wool garments. With seasonable weather, the outlook for business is very good, according to the manufacturer quoted. Another novelty introduced recently by the same house is a line of undergarments and union suits for men and women made of featherweight wool taffeta. The same material is used in flannel shirts for men and for pajamas in white, solid colors and novelty stripes. The retail price for union suits for men is $7.50 and for women's combinations $6.75.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Generally Stronger but Irregular—Uncertain Movement of Foreign Exchange.

Yesterday witnessed no important movement in any market; in the main, prices may be said to have been left to drift, with no great speculative pressure in either direction. The result was a stock market irregular, but generally firmer; a bond market which barely held to existing prices, with Liberty loans fractionally lower; a foreign exchange market that hardly moved at all, and commodity markets whose prices changed irregularly under a variety of more or less conflicting influences. It was plain that the "discounting process" in all these directions had been carried about as far as visible influences warranted.

When a situation has shaped itself in that way, there is apt to be a pause until there is something new to "discount." The stock market has clearly been in that position for a week or more; a fact which explains its relative inactivity. Yesterday's total transactions of 716,000 shares were considerably the smallest of any full day since the last week of June, before the Summer rise in stocks had really struck its pace. Wall Street, however, agreed on the certainty that the course of events can hardly fail before very long to produce new influences which markets will necessarily reflect.

The visible movement of trade, whatever it may be when the vacation period ends at Labor Day, will undoubtedly be one of these influences. The course of money rates—supposing them to change appreciably—will be another. Whether the political situation will cut the figure in the markets which it sometimes does in Presidential years, is another question. Except as a probably deterrent influence on the full scope of business plans, it has to be admitted that political possibilities have thus far received very slight consideration. Even the familiar picture of a La Follette vote which will compel the House or Senate to elect a President because the Electoral College cannot give any one a majority, is serving as a basis for ingenious hypothetical argument rather than for a full-fledged "election scare." All this may mean that observant financiers have made up their minds who is going to win, and are satisfied with the indication. But election day is still ten weeks away.

While yesterday's movement of grain and cotton prices was somewhat erratic, it conformed reasonably enough to the logic of the situation. Cotton, for instance, recovered ½ cent of Monday's heavy decline. This was partly, no doubt, a result of mere repurchases by recent speculative sellers; but there was reason also to credit the mill consumers with some of the buying orders. The spinners have lately talked of "20-cent cotton" as the signal for their resumption of buying, but after so heavy a decline as has already occurred, not all of such potential purchasers will wait for an arbitrary figure. It is not to be forgotten that the recent "consumption report" showed cotton in warehouses and manufacturing establishments at the end of last month to be 638,000 bales less than a year before, a reduction of 30 per cent. It was very much the lowest total at the end of any cotton season in ten years.

To a considerable extent, and in view of the still-remaining harvest uncertainties, it would be prudent policy for spinners to buy on any abrupt decline of prices to the neighborhood of the 20-cent level. Something of the same policy should be logical in corn and wheat, though in every case the buyer's action would be governed by his judgment as to whether prices were still too high or not. When wheat declined 4½ cents further yesterday, to the lowest price since the middle of July, such buying was plainly visible. That it did not arrest the decline was ascribed somewhat naïvely by the market to the fact that a Winnipeg newspaper had pronounced the Dominion Government's official crop estimate 100,000,000 bushels or so too small. Other people pointed to the rising estimates on our own Spring wheat yield, for which some of the most experienced grain trade experts are now claiming fifty or sixty million bushels more than the department's estimate of Aug. 7.

CROMWELL JOINS NEW FIRM.

Seymour L. Cromwell, who retired as President of the New York Stock Exchange last May, after serving three terms as head of that institution, yesterday announced that effective Jan. 1, 1925, he will retire as a partner of the Stock Exchange firm of Strong, Sturgis & Co. Mr. Cromwell has been a partner of that firm for 22 years. Beginning with the new year he will become a member of the firm of Carlisle, Mellick & Co. No explanation for the change was obtainable yesterday, either from Mr. Cromwell or from the firm of which he is now a member.

The People's Natural Gas Company has been operating in Altoona and vicinity for about twelve years.

Roads Prepared to Carry Crops.

Northwest railroads are in a better position this year than at any time previously to handle the large grain crop of that territory, according to a statement issued yesterday by P. J. Coleman, district manager of the American Railway Association. The roads are preparing for peak loadings of approximately 2,000 cars of grain a day by Sept. 15.

Beginning March 22, 1923, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1924 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

FIVE ROADS SHOW GAIN IN NET IN JULY

Result Achieved Largely by Reduction in the Operating Expenses.

Slight increases in traffic compared with June and a reduction in operating expenses enabled five of the thirteen railroads that issued July statements yesterday to show an increase in net earnings, compared with July, 1923. The earnings of the thirteen, taken as a whole, were considerably less than those of a year ago, however. The general trend of the July railroad earnings and gross revenue made public thus far is downward.

Gross of the Erie was $9,630,505, compared with $11,057,286 a year ago, and $9,218,670 two years ago, while net operating income was $1,175,924, against $1,497,423 last year, and a loss of $742,333 two years ago.

Similar conditions were reflected in the report of the Norfolk and Western. Gross was $7,132,885, against $8,523,235 a year ago, and its net income was $1,268,111, compared with $1,860,138. The Reading Company showed a net operating income of $1,494,779, compared with $2,335,909 a year ago, and a deficit of $195,512 in July, 1922.

However, there were exceptions to the downward trend, notably on Union Pacific and Lehigh Valley. The Lehigh Valley's report was one of the most favorable in its history. Gross income for July was $6,501,808, compared with $6,825,097 a year ago. By reducing cost of maintenance of equipment to $1,406,156 from $2,170,203 and cutting transportation costs more than $300,000, the company reported net operating income of $1,258,185, compared with $848,660 a year ago.

In the first seven months of the year the Lehigh Valley increased its net railway income more than 300 per cent. compared with the same period last year. The figures this year were $6,385,230, as against $1,480,580 in 1923. Gross income was practically stationary, being $43,822,538, against $43,105,725 a year ago.

Net income of the Union Pacific in July was $1,552,012, compared with $1,354,035 a year ago. For the first seven months it was $15,631,047, compared with $15,558,548.

TREASURY ISSUE AROUSES INTEREST

Report That Mellon Will Start Home Today Prompts Study of Situation.

The report received yesterday from Paris that Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, would sail today for the United States prompted an active study in the financial district of the Treasury's plans for the sale before Sept. 15 of a new issue of Treasury certificates and of the Treasury's condition as a result of reduced tax receipts due to the recent reduction in income tax rates.

Reports from Washington indicated that plans for the floating of the next issue of Government paper would be formulated and announced prior to the Secretary's arrival, but it was believed that he would keep in touch with financing plans over the radio. This work is one of the most delicate financing details that the Treasury Department is called upon to handle. To price a Treasury issue too high would result in hampering the Treasury's work, and to price it too low would represent a loss of money to the Treasury. Thus for the Secretary of the Treasury has without exception proved singularly successful in "timing" the difficult bond market right. He has in many instances announced terms that were out of line with what Wall Street bankers had expected, but in each case the market has responded with oversubscriptions.

The next issue will be to raise money to refund a maturing issue of $300,000,000 of Treasury certificates, and while no information has come out of Washington as to the amount of money needed to refund this amount it has been assumed that not less than $250,000,000 would be raised. The interest rate is expected to be at the lowest point since the pre-war days with a quotation of 2 or 2¼ per cent. suggested on a loan of six months' maturity.

Liberty bond prices sagged yesterday under the influence of fairly heavy bank selling. Quotations showed net losses for the day of 5-32 of a point in the case of the 3½s; of 8-32 for the first 4¼s and the third 4¼s; of 9-32 for the second 4¼s, and of 11-32 for the fourth 4¼s. Treasury notes declined 14-32 and the inactive first convertible 4s were off 19-32 point. No great significance was attached to the decline.

STEEL MILL TO REOPEN.

Demand for Rails Ends Two-Month Shut-Down at Gary, Ind.

The rail mill of the United States Steel Corporation located at Gary, Ind., said to be the largest steel rail mill in the world, will resume operating next Monday after a shut-down of about two months. Recent improvement in the demand for rails has brought resumption of operations.

New orders for steel rails have been placed by the larger railroad systems of the country in a large volume during the past few weeks and additional orders are expected within the next few months, when the various systems begin to place orders to cover requirements for the new year. It is estimated that inquiries for between 150,000 and 200,000 tons of steel rails are now in the market awaiting satisfactory bids. The United States Steel Corporation, as usual, is expected to get a large percentage of this new business.

Orders actually placed during the past few weeks, according to leaders in the industry, have been heavier than at any time during the past five months. It is also said that virtually every line of demand for steel, except from automobile manufacturers, has shown improvement. Heavy demand is reported from farm implement manufacturers.

Allis-Chalmers Unfilled Orders.

Unfilled orders of the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company, as of Aug. 1, aggregated $11,052,000, according to a statement issued yesterday. This is $2,000,000 below the high record established last year.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York has been appointed transfer agent for 106,878 shares of the Omnibus Corporation, Series A preferred stock of an authorized issue of 250,000 shares, having a par value of $100 a share, effective as of Aug. 20.

Foster, McConnell & Co. announce that Sidney C. Hufnisler and Harold E. Jones have become associated with them in their bond department.

Noyes & Jackson have prepared a special pamphlet describing the stock of the Jordan Motor Car Company.

Frederick K. Carryl, formerly assistant treasurer of Lawrence Chamberland & Co., has become associated with Stranahan, Harris & Oatis, Inc.

INTERBOROUGH CUT ITS DEFICIT IN JULY

OPERATION COST DOWN

In a statement accompanying the Interborough Rapid Transit's earnings report for July, Frank Hedley, President and General Manager, points to a reduction of $444,012 in the company's deficit, as compared with the same month of last year. He said:

"The accompanying statement of earnings of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the month of July, 1924, shows a deficit of $316,724 after operating expenses (including all expenditures for actual maintenance), taxes, rentals, fixed charges and the accrual of the dividend rental on Manhattan Railway Company stock at the 5 per cent. annual rate provided under the plan of readjustment. As the statement shows, this deficit is $444,012 less than the similar deficit for the month of July, 1923.

"This betterment is due in part to an increase in the operating revenues, in part to decreased cost of operation, the result of cheaper coal and operating economies, and in part to the fact that in July last year large maintenance expenditures had to be met for extraordinary repairs to turbines in the subway power house. There was no such unusual expenditure this year, but it is unlikely that this betterment of July, 1924, over July, 1923, will continue at the same rate throughout the current fiscal year."

The balance after actual maintenance of $316,724 for July compares with a similar deficit balance for June of $412,620. Total revenues reported for July were $4,426,137, an increase of $144,652 from July, 1923. Total revenues were $4,776,169 in June of this year. Operating expenses, taxes and rentals paid to the city for the subway aggregated $3,072,219 in July, a decrease of $119,051 from July, 1923. They were $3,392,838 in June of this year. After deducting maintenance in excess of contractural provisions the income available for all purposes in July was $1,213,390, an increase of $528,868 over the same month last year. Income available for all purposes in June was $1,375,168.

CAMPAIGN TO FLOAT GERMAN LOAN BEGUN

Some of the Wall Street banks that are expected to participate in underwriting the German loan began yesterday a campaign of education among their salesmen in anticipation of the early offering of $100,000,000 of these bonds in the American market. This would represent one-half of the loan contemplated under the Dawes report.

Preliminary advices sent out by these houses indicated that the selling appeal would be made not to a sense of public duty, but rather to that of a desirable investment. This, it was noted, was in line with the conditions for which Thomas W. Lamont and other American bankers in the London discussions had been holding out for, one international banker having stated that they were stubbornly opposing any plan or suggestion that the American investment public be asked to subscribe to a "faith, hope and charity loan."

In presenting the slant of those houses on a sales talk that have already approached their salesmen on the subject, one house called attention to the following points: "That Germany today has no funded debt other than her reparations obligations; that the German loan under the Dawes plan will be an absolute first charge, coming ahead of reparations, and that the bonds will be the obligation of a country with a population of 70,000,000 of the world's most industrious and capable people."

The campaign has not yet extended to all of the chief underwriting houses. The head of one institution which will be among the first five of the underwriting houses said that no work would be done by his institution in advance of the actual offering. Efforts of bankers would be concentrated, he said, on getting a loan which could be sold to business men and other investors without appeal to their desire to participate in a "world duty," and that no effort would be made to float a loan unless one showing only a minimum of risk could be arranged.

"CRIME WAVE" STILL ON.

National Surety Company Gives Figures on Embezzlement.

The "crime wave" over the country is still intense, according to a statement issued yesterday by the National Surety Company, giving figures of losses sustained by the surety and burglary insurance companies. The statement said that the losses suffered by a group of leading surety and burglary companies in 1923 on embezzlement cases amounted to $10,211,238, and in burglary cases $10,001,848. These figures compare with $9,235,836 and $10,601,358, respectively, in 1922. In 1913, before the war, losses in embezzlement cases totalled $2,080,201, and in burglary cases $1,298,588.

According to the National Surety Company the figures thus far this year parallel those of 1923. The company has issued a special warning to financial institutions.

NEW POWER PLANT OPENED.

Announcement was made yesterday by H. D. Walbridge & Co., investment bankers, that the Piney hydro-electric development project of the Clarion River Power Company had been opened. The new development creates an electric capacity of 24,000 horsepower and has an ultimate capacity of 48,000. An unusual feature pertains to the development in that it marks the opening of a water power plant in the heart of the Pennsylvania coal region.

The Clarion River Power Company is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Electric Corporation, which is operated under the Walbridge management. The Piney project establishes another link in the corporation's transmission system extending from Deep Creek, Md., to Lake Erie.

During the day $50,000 of the notes changed hands at 101¾. The new issue was offered to stockholders and was underwritten by the Stock Exchange firm of Luke Banks & Weeks.

FORD MEN ADMONISHED TO CUT TELEGRAMS

In an attempt to cut the operating expenses of Henry Ford's Detroit, Ironton & Toledo Railroad, employes are now being educated to reduce the number of words in their telegrams. Lengthy instructions have been sent to them pointing out the way telegrams can be shortened and the amount of saving that will be accomplished for the property, in which most of them are already stockholders.

During June, it was pointed out, 15,730 telegrams were sent and received. This is approximately 712 every working day.

"The Detroit, Toledo & Ironton wires carried 7,500 messages and a similar number was transmitted by the company's radio system," according to the instructions. "Outside telegraph companies were employed to transmit 820 dispatches.

"When the proportion of this correspondence is considered, it is not difficult to appreciate how economical use of words would reduce costs. Eliminate one word from each message and figure the saving on 15,730 telegrams, allowing the usual rate of 4 cents a word. Brevity helps to lower the cost of operating the company's own telegraph system, as well as speed the service."

An example of a telegram as commonly written and as it should be written is included in the instructions. The telegram as ordinarily written reads as follows:

"Answering telegram of July 23. We have no record of Hocking Valley 721516 being delivered to this line."

While this message required twenty-four words, it is suggested that it could be phrased in ten words as follows: "Retel yesterday. No. orecord H. V. seven two fifteen sixteen."

SEES BUSINESS BETTER.

John D. Ryan, Chairman of Directors of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, says: "Business of the country has improved decidedly in the last month." Mr. Ryan's statement, which was received in the financial district from Butte, Mont., added: "This improvement is of such substantial character that we may expect really good business all over the country within the next few months. Copper exports to Europe will increase materially in the near future.

"The manufacturing plants of the Anaconda Company are all running at good production and orders have been coming in at a satisfactory rate for some weeks. Orders are larger than at any time since the early part of the year."

PERE MARQUETTE CONSIDERS MERGER

ALL-DAY CONFERENCE HELD

Following an all-day conference between E. N. Brown, Chairman of the Board of the Pere Marquette; Frederick Strauss of J. & W. Seligman & Co., bankers, for the Pere Marquette Railway, and O. P. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, it was learned yesterday that the formal acceptance of the proposed Nickel Plate railway merger was no more than a matter of form. All of the details have been worked out, and it is expected that they will be in shape to present to the Board of Directors when it meets on Wednesday of next week.

Those familiar with the Pere Marquette end of the transaction said that while it was possible that a meeting of the directors might be called before the end of this week, it was hardly probable. On account of the detail that remains to be whipped into shape, it is generally believed that no time would be gained by having the meeting previous to the regular date.

Bankers behind the Van Sweringen merger are well pleased with the progress that has been made to date, and stated yesterday that the entire program was progressing at the rate anticipated.

PLANS AN ELECTRIC PLANT.

The Duquesne Light Company, it was reported yesterday, will build an electric power plant at Shippingport, Beaver County, Pa., equal in size to its present generating plant at Colfax, to cost approximately $10,000,000. The plans also call for the removal of the Junction Park substation to Rochester Township.

Large coal acreage is said to be included in the land purchased by the company in and around Shippingport territory.

Dold Packing Co. Dividend.

Directors of the Jacob Dold Packing Company declared yesterday the sixty-first quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock, payable out of current earnings. The dividend is payable Sept. 30. Earnings of the company, according to an official statement, showed marked improvement over 1923.

A solid argument for utility bonds

THE trend of earnings, both gross and net, of well managed electric and gas companies is graphically shown by the above chart covering the operation of ten representative concerns with whose financing we have been actively associated. The period covered—1914 to 1923—included years of violent change in business conditions, with sharply rising operating costs only partially offset by rate increases. And still the curve of net earnings swung upward.

Of course, properties and management make a big difference. Sound capital structure is no less important. Such vital points are carefully looked into and verified prior to our purchase and endorsement of a bond issue.

Richmond, the capital and largest city of Virginia, is the county seat of Henrico County and one of the leading manufacturing and railroad centers of the country. As the city boundaries are extended into the county, the city of Richmond becomes liable for a proportionate part of the county debt.

The proceeds of these bonds will be used for public schools and in the opinion of counsel are secured by the full faith and credit of Henrico County, Va., pledged for their payment from taxes on all taxable property.

YOUR investment prospers as the company prospers. Thorough investigations by Nickerson engineers, accountants and legal staff give us the facts. From them we judge first, if a company actually needs new capital; second, how much it can use to your advantage; and third, what kind of capital—bonds, preferred or common stock—is most desirable.

$9,000,000 on the Market at 95½—Other Securities Placed Before the Public.

Bids were opened yesterday and awards made on two new issues of State bonds. In each case a new high mark was established in the prices received by the State. A group consisting of Blair & Co., Inc., White, Weld & Co., Graham, Parsons & Co. and West & Co. got an issue of $4,000,000 State of Missouri 4 per cent. road bonds, Series D, and Estabrook & Co., Remick, Hodges & Co., William R. Compton Company, Kountze Brothers and the Northern Trust Company of Chicago received $3,000,000 State of Michigan 4 and 4¼ per cent. highway bonds.

The Missouri award was made at 99.67 against the next highest bid of 99.57, and these bonds are offered today at 100½. They are due Sept. 1, 1933-34. The Michigan issue was divided into $1,900,000 4s and $1,100,000 4¼s, which were sold to the syndicate at 100.07. They are offered today at 100 for the 4s and at 102.72 to yield 4.05 per cent. for the 4¼s. Both issues are due on Sept. 15, 1944.

An additional offering of $9,000,000 American Gas and Electric Company 6 per cent. gold debenture bonds, due May 1, 2014, is made by Bonbright & Co., Inc., at 95½, to yield about 6.30 per cent. This offering will bring the total of this issue outstanding to $29,544,000, making the total bonded debt of the company, including $6,282,000 collateral trust 5 per cent. bonds, $38,836,000. No additional debenture bonds may be issued unless the company's net income is at least three times the annual interest on all outstanding debentures, together with those to be issued. The company controls a diversified group of electric power and light companies operating in eight States.

Estabrook & Co., Hannahs, Ballin & Lee and Curtis & Sanger are offering a new issue of $680,000 Columbus, Ohio, 5 per cent. school district bonds, due Feb. 20, 1929-40. The bonds are priced to yield 4.15 to 4.25 per cent.

Offering of $147,000 Rockland County, N. Y. 4½ per cent. registered bonds, maturing Aug. 15, 1925-1938, at prices to yield 3.75 per cent. to 4 per cent., is made by Clark Williams & Co., which firm also is offering a new issue of $200,000 Town of Harrietstown, N. Y. (Saranac Lake) Union Trust School District No. 1 4½ per cent. school bonds. These bonds mature April 1, 1925-1944, and are priced to yield 3.75 to 4.20 per cent.

The Liberty National Bank of New York and the Richmond Trust Company of Richmond, Va., are offering $1,- Henrico County, Va., 5 per cent. school bonds, due Jan. 1, 1930-1950, at prices to yield about 4.50 per cent.

The National City Company announced yesterday, in behalf of the offering syndicate, that the issue of $12,500,000 Pacific Gas and Electric Company 5½ per cent. first and refunding mortgage bonds had been oversubscribed and the books closed.

HARDWARE SALES GAIN.

Sales of hardware have increased rapidly in almost every section of the country, according to The Hardware Age. This is particularly true in the agricultural districts.

In summing up conditions in the industry this journal of the trade says:

"Jobbers anticipate an active Fall business. First, because dealers' stocks are low; secondly, because buyers are showing more confidence in the future; and, thirdly, because of the improvement that is reported to have been effected in fundamental industries. Increasing activity in the steel market is being pointed to as a weather vane indicating better business.

"Many jobbers are advising their customers to anticipate their future requirements more definitely than they have done this Summer. It is said that some jobbers apprehend the possibility of Spring shortages unless dealers place orders to a larger extent during the coming Winter than they have done this Summer for Fall goods. Few factories have surplus stocks and are operating only on specific orders."

CHECK ON CATTLE BUYING.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Farmers are advised to hold back all cattle from the market weighing 1,200 pounds or more by Everett C. Brown, President of the Chicago Live Stock Exchange. Wilson & Co. were out of the market today. What few sales were made were at 25@50 cents decline, with many heavy steers without bids. Few steers sold above $10.25. Receipts were 11,000 head, with a heavy carryover from Monday.

Hog receipts were 23,000, with the market steady to strong. The quality was generally better and packers were fair buyers. The top was $10, with the day's average $9.25. At the last 22,000 remained in the pens.

Lambs dropped 10@25 cents on receipts of 22,000 and in two days arrivals have been 22,300 above those of last week. Best Westerns sold at $13.75, with natives at $13.50.

DELAY IN INSURANCE PLAN.

Northern Pacific Has Many Details to Clear Up.

Representatives of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company stated yesterday that the $50,000,000 life insurance contract covering the lives of about 25,000 employes, which that company recently closed with the Aetna Life Insurance Company would not be put into effect for some time. Many details remain to be cleared up.

The plan of the Northern Pacific will be similar to that of the Southern Pacific. It will provide a certain amount of insurance for each employe paid for by the railroad company, and will then permit the employe to take out additional insurance at a specified rate.

Dominion Coal Bond Issue.

Plans are under discussion for a new issue of bonds for the Dominion Coal Company according to advices received yesterday from Montreal. Negotiations are being conducted between directors of the British Empire Steel Corporation and the preferred stock holders of the Dominion Coal Company. Consent of the latter has been asked to issue $15,000,000 in bonds, proceeds of which would be used as additional working capital and to increase equipment.

DISCUSS REFUNDING ST. PAUL R. R. ISSUE

Bankers and Representatives of the Line Confer on Methods of Financing.

Refunding of the $48,176,654 4 per cent. debenture bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, which fall due on June 1, 1925, was formally discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting between the bankers and a committee representing the railroad company in the offices of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Representing the banking interests were Jerome Hanauer of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Pierpont V. Davis, Vice President of the National City Company. The railroad was represented by the special committee of directors appointed to consider the financing problem, of which H. E. Byram, President of the railroad, was Chairman.

Both the bankers and the committee of railroad representatives declined to discuss the progress that had been made. It was stated that only the preliminary questions in regard to the issue had been taken under consideration and that other conferences would follow. When asked whether the conference would be resumed this morning the bankers declined to comment.

Directors of the St. Paul expect to hear the report of their committee at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors to be held tomorrow at the offices of the railroad, 42 Broadway. President Byram will remain in the city to attend this meeting.

The opinion was expressed yesterday in certain quarters that the refunding operations could be carried forward without a great deal of difficulty provided that the earnings of the St. Paul improve in the second half of this year.

The statement was made that the conference of yesterday did not indicate that the financing program would be carried through in the immediate future, because the railroad had ten months in which it could make the refunding offer.

The issue which is to be taken up is divided into two parts, both due on June 1, 1925. It includes approximately $12,000,000 of European loan debenture 4 per cent. bonds, due June 1, 1925, and more than $35,000,000 of gold 4 per cent. bonds, due June 1, 1925.

To husbands

ONLY by a will can you designate to whom your property shall go, keep your family out of the intricacies of court procedure at a most distressing time and protect principal and insure income for your beneficiaries.

But here are some of the things which an executor under a will must do:

1. Offer will for probate in Surrogate's Court, prove its execution and secure letters testamentary.
2. Take possession of all property and notify all persons interested in the estate.
3. Examine books, accounts and records and make complete inventory of all assets.
4. Ascertain bank balances, check insurance policies, and verify debts.
5. Have property appraised and protect assets by insurance.
6. Keep accurate record of stocks, bonds, mortgages, notes, etc., and watch investments for bond calls, interest defaults, etc.
7. Collect dividends, rents, interest, and insurance money.
8. Pay debts and legacies and secure releases.
9. Make out State and Federal income tax returns and pay taxes under them; also ascertain and pay estate and transfer taxes.
10. Verify trust clauses and proceed accordingly.
13. Defend will, if contested.
14. The foregoing require conferences with beneficiaries, creditors, debtors, bankers, brokers, tax experts, insurance agents, mortgagors, landlords and tenants; and much clerical detail.

As a practical man, will you load this responsibility on your wife or a son or a friend? Or will you give it to the trust officers of The Equitable, who are in the business of executing wills and administering trusts?

Our booklet, "How to Protect your Estate and your Family," will be mailed upon request. But you are invited to come to any office of The Equitable and talk with a trust officer—in entire confidence and without obligation.

To wives

What London Knows

LONDON knows how to appraise accurately the credit of nations that would borrow. Such nations now seek loans on extraordinary terms. London knows their history, character and financial record—their necessities, possibilities, and, most important of all, the security they offer and the value of their promise to pay.

Long experience in international finance has made the British investor a thoroughly competent judge of the credit of every nation in the world.

But in the ten short years that America has been buying foreign securities, the average American investor has not yet learned how to put an accurate appraisal upon foreign government bonds.

If we knew as much as London knows about the credit of foreign borrowers, the dollar bonds of foreign government loans would not sell in New York, as they do today, to yield a much higher return than the sterling bonds of the same loan in London. This disparity will grow less as investment knowledge of this sort increases in America.

With the purpose of furnishing the information that the American investor needs, in order to choose wisely in the foreign investment field, presents a comprehensive series of authoritative articles, starting in the current issue (dated August 25th), on the general subject of government bonds and national credit.

BARRON'S

THE NATIONAL FINANCIAL WEEKLY

ADVERSE CROP NEWS STARTS COTTON UP

STEADIER AT LIVERPOOL

Advance of 15 to 20 English Points Abroad Reflects End of Selling Movement.

A recovery of over three-quarters of a cent from low figures of the week occurred in cotton yesterday. The recent decline had proceeded so rapidly that a more attractive selling basis furnished the market with trade buying power to an extent that produced an oversold technical position. Professional operators decided to cover contracts as a direct result of less favorable Southern advices, both weevil and drought damage being reported worer generally than heretofore. July and August precipitation for the belt as a whole has proved the smallest in many years and growth has been halted over a large area where drought is most severe. Prices gained 37 to 48 points.

Instead of continuing the decline of the previous day, Liverpool steadied yesterday at a recovery of 15 to 20 English points. This was taken as an indication that urgency of the selling movement had spent its force for the time being. To this appeared to be case both here and in New Orleans late Monday. A 20-point advance at the opening of the market absorbed hedge and commission house contracts when a more active demand for October exerted a decided influence on the balance of the list. As compared with a 25 to 30 point premium during the rush of selling shortly after the opening Monday, October went to a 46-point spread over December.

Though port receipts increased 22,000 bales, largest figures in weeks, the movement is still moderate as compared with last year, when receipts aggregated 35,000 bales. The absence of rainfall in dry sections and reports of more rapid deterioration in sections both east and west of the river caused liberal covering, particularly from professional sources. This advanced quotations until October sold above 24.90, compared with 24.06, low figures of the week. Several large orders for December were executed the last hour that closed quotations at highest levels of the session.

The tropical disturbance passed northward toward the Jersey coast, bringing rainfall at points in Georgia and the Carolinas, but other sections received little moisture. Eight stations in Texas reported showers. Predictions were for generally fair weather over the entire belt today.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
May	24.85	24.95	24.50	24.90	24.53

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, 45 points advance to 26.90c for middling upland.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 26.85c, unchanged; New Orleans, 26.84c, 44 points advance; Savannah, 24.90c, 44 points advance; Augusta, 24.85c, 44 points advance; Memphis, 24.85c, unchanged; Houston, 25.40c, 40 points advance; Little Rock, 25.00c, unchanged; Dallas, 24.80c, 5 points advance.

	Yesterday.	Week.	Last Year.
Exports	4,500	9,073	7,260

New York arrivals	2,997	1,053	3,075

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton, good inquiry, 17 points decline, 15.27d for middling. Sales 7,000 bales, of which American 4,000; imports 9,000, of which American 8,000. Futures opened steady, 13 to 17 points advance; closed steady, 15 to 21 points advance. Prices: October, 14d; Dec. 13.80d, Jan. 13.82d, March 13.84d. Manchester; Yarns steady. Cloths good inquiry.

EXPORT SALES LAG AND WHEAT LOSES

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Considering the amount of export business reported done in the last four days, the wheat market gave a poor account of itself today. After a small showing of strength early on further reports of export sales, the market started downward. Liquidation in September carried all deliveries to a new low on the present break and the close was 3 to 4 cents lower. Numerous stop-loss orders were caught on the way down. The best buying of the September was by cash houses who sold in December against it narrowing the difference slightly.

Export sales of around 1,000,000 bushels in all positions were surprisingly small and seaboard messages indicated a lack of fresh foreign orders. There is congestion at Montreal, where 7,000,000 bushels are waiting to unload and the movement of Spring wheat on both sides of the international line is getting under way. Dry weather continues in Argentina and the general run of foreign crop reports was distinctly unfavorable.

Local spot wheat basis was 4¢ cent higher on hard Winter at ¾ to ¼ cent over September for No. 2 hard. Southwestern offerings to this market have fallen off materially.

Primary arrivals today were 3,263,000 bushels, week ago, 3,863,000; last year, 2,250,000. Shipments were 3,264,000 bushels, week ago, 1,970,000; last year, 817,000.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Selling in the afternoon offset in a measure the fairly brisk advance in foreign exchange quotations which took place during the forenoon yesterday. Closing prices showed changes on the up side in a majority of instances, but these were of a fractional nature. According to dealers, the steadiness of undertone was indicative of a gradual elimination of the speculative interest, the market now being left principally to the influence of commercial buying and selling.

MORTGAGE LOANS PLACED.

They will erect a seven-story and basement fireproof storage warehouse on plot 50 by 100 feet at 231-33-35 East Fifty-fifth Street. Permanent financing has been arranged in the form of a loan of $120,000 at 5½ per cent. for five years from the Harlem Savings Bank.

BIG MURRAY HILL PROJECT.

Another of the old residences on Murray Hill is to be removed and is to be replaced by a commercial building.

The property referred is 240 Madison Avenue and 18 East Thirty-eighth Street. The Madison Avenue frontage is 37 by 100 feet, and the Thirty-eighth Street plot, which connects with it is 25 by 100 feet.

About sixty-five years ago, the house on Madison Avenue was owned and occupied by the late Hanson K. Corning, and the Thirty-eighth Street property was owned and used by him as his stable. At that time, Mr. Corning owned the sixty-two feet of frontage between this house and Thirty-seventh Street.

Subsequently, Mr. Corning sold the residence at 240 Madison Avenue to James M. Constable, who was for many years the senior partner of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co. Mr. Constable owned and occupied this residence for many years and some years after his death, it was sold by his heirs to the Syndicate Trading Company, which has since occupied it for business purposes.

The Syndicate Trading Company will now erect on this property a fourteen-story loft building on the Madison Avenue front, and a fourteen-story loft building on the Thirty-eighth Street front.

The plans and specifications for these buildings have been made by Cross & Cross and the general contract for the buildings has been awarded to Edward Corning Company.

COMMERCIAL LEASES.

Sixth Avenue Elevated Removal Influences Another Deal.

Lenz & Riecker, Inc., printers and bookbinders, now located at 80-82 Fourth Avenue, have closed a ten-year lease with the Peconic Realty Corporation for the fifth and sixth floors at 140-42 Sixth Avenue. The space to be occupied is about 15,000 square feet.

M. & L. Hess and P. M. Clear & Co. were the brokers in the transaction and report that negotiations are about concluded for another large printing concern to take space in the same building. Removal of the Sixth Avenue elevated influenced the closing of the lease.

The Downtown Renting Company leased the entire third floor of 122 Fulton Street for Walter F. Libby, Inc., to Charles J. Foster. The floor is to be occupied as a tea-room for ladies and gentlemen.

The Garage Realty Company leased for the Yellow Taxi, Inc., to the L. C. L. Garage, Inc., the one-story garage building, 175 by 100, at 119-31 West 145th Street for a long term of years at an annual rental of $13,500.

BENENSON BUILDING LOANS.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Makes Loans Totaling $6,000,000.

Loans aggregating $6,000,000 were made yesterday by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to the Benenson Investing Company on the Benenson Building at 165 Broadway. Under the terms of the loans the present mortgage of $5,000,000 at 4½ per cent., expiring in June, 1926, is to be extended to the year 1940 at the increased interest rate of 5½ per cent.

An additional loan of $1,000,000 is made at 5½ per cent. to run from the present time to the year 1940. The Benenson Company reserves the right to pay off the total loan in 1926 by payment of a premium for which there is a surrender charge of 2 per cent.

PLANS BIG STRUCTURE.

A twenty-seven-story apartment house is planned by Arthur Brisbane, who recently assembled a plot, 80 by 130, at the northeast corner of Park Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, known as 101 to 113 East Fifty-seventh Street.

To Locate in Long Island City.

The Roman-Callman Company sold to the Charmouth Realty Company, a holding corporation for Theodore Hofstatter & Co. of New York City, interior decorating concern, for Albert H. Smith, the plot having dimensions of 100 by 140 feet, located at the northeast corner of Harris Avenue and William Street, Long Island City, and one block from the Bridge Plaza. The buyers will immediately erect on the entire plot, for their own use and from plans privately prepared, a four-story and basement fireproof building.

Trading in Brooklyn.

In the Nostrand Avenue section, the Bulkley & Horton Company sold the two-story two-family dwelling, on a lot 20 by 80 feet, at 23 St. Francis Place, between Lincoln and St. John's Places, for Mrs. M. C. Morley to a client for occupancy.

Harry L. Wechsler purchased for a client from the Wilson Building Company an improved parcel at 917 Fiftieth Street.

STILL MORE SALESMEN ARE REQUIRED FOR OUR FALL EXPANSION PROGRAM.

Business generally is gathering momentum for the most active Fall and Winter the country has seen for some time. Our normal growth and volume of business have speeded up tremendously the past few weeks.

The company is engaged in home construction, financing and land distribution, with five distinct home communities of varying grades, all in Westchester County.

Salesmen of our staff are busily engaged, and profitably so, throughout the entire year. Ours is not a seasonal business.

In a group of testimonial letters from purchasers recently examined, almost every one commented upon the courteous and straightforward fashion in which the salesmen handled the case.

We are proud of our staff and only hire men that we can be proud of and who upon investigation can be proud of us. Such an association will fast become stronger and more productive as time goes on.

We prefer to consider applicants now unengaged, between the ages of 25 and 40 years, married, tall but not heavily built. Ours is a commission organization, and an allowance is made to men who own and operate cars in the conduct of their work.

Interviews mornings only at 420 East Tremont Avenue, our Bronx showroom and office, with Mr. McGovern, or before 4 P. M. at 38 North Broadway, Yonkers, with Mr. Mullaly.

The Buildings, Their Location

The Garden Feature

Completion and Cost

A "finished" house leaves no room for speculation and guards against the pitfalls of "blue prints." We sell our apartments subject to the reduction of the mortgage by a gradual amortization, which regularly increases your equity in the building.

The Lease

Our leases are renewable each October at the will of the owner-lessee. An essential and valuable privilege under the Jackson Heights Plan is the transference of leases upon approval.

Resale of Stock

Controlled so that any such transfer carries with it the right to possession of the apartment represented in the ownership of the stock only to approved persons.

Management

The economies that can be effected through the ownership of apartments can only be obtained by the agent having the largest number of houses in a given area, because he is enabled to buy in larger quantities in a wholesale way. The Queensboro Corporation has sold co-operatively owned Garden Apartments to more than 1,300 families and now is managing more than one hundred Garden Apartment buildings owned by their occupants. Such management is a guarantee of effective economies for the benefit of the tenant-owners.
